

Vet Medicine Profs Going to Meeting

The dean and eight faculty members of the School of Veterinary Medicine will be in Philadelphia, Pa., Tuesday through Thursday, attending various meetings to be held in conjunction with the annual convention of the American Veterinary Medical Association.

Dr. Alvin A. Price, dean of the school, will speak at meetings of the Association of Deans of American Colleges of Veterinary Medicine.

Methodists Make Improvements

Members of the A&M Methodist Church have gone through an air-conditioning and property purchasing project.

Rooms on the first floor of the educational building, the fellowship room and the chapel on the third floor have been air-conditioned. These rooms are located in the Gordon Gay Educational Building. The sanctuary of the church has been completely air-conditioned also. The air-conditioning units were provided for in the budget of the church.

A large brick parsonage has been purchased at 1209 Walton Dr. The property was purchased from W. M. Heritage.

The home, which has two acres of lawn and grounds, has three bedrooms, a den, a living room, a dining room, a kitchen and dinette, two baths and a double garage.

The old parsonage, located across from the church, has been converted into the Schleider Youth Building.

Consultant Back To Sign Contract

Otis Coffey, Commercial Education Consultant, under A&M-I.C.A.-East Pakistan contract, returned Monday from a two-year tour of duty at the Government School of Commerce in Chittagong, East Pakistan.

Coffey gained recognition in Chittagong for his work in instructing students in accounting, short hand and typing. He introduced the visual-aid method of teaching and other American methods of teaching at the Government School of Commerce. Besides these he directed the athletic program of the school.

Dr. J. N. Beasley, assistant professor in the Department of Veterinary Microbiology, will present a paper at the combined poultry and public health section of the AVMA convention. The paper is entitled "Preliminary Studies in Histopathology of Experimental Ornithosis in Turkeys."

Dr. L. C. Grumbles, head of the Department of Veterinary Microbiology, and Dr. A. I. Flowers, an assistant professor in that department, will attend meetings of the American Association of Avian Pathologists and the American Association of Veterinary Bacteriologists. Dr. Grumbles is president of the American Association of Avian Pathologists.

Representing A&M at the meeting of the American Association of Veterinary Anatomists will be Dr. Leon W. Gibbs, associate professor in the Department of Veterinary Anatomy.

Dr. W. C. Banks, professor in the Department of Veterinary Medicine and Surgery, will present the paper "Radiological Aspects of Fibula Fractures in the Equine" at the radiological section of the AVMA convention. Dr. W. M. Romane, an assistant professor in the same department, will attend the large animal section of the convention.

Dr. R. D. Turk, professor and head of the Department of Veterinary Parasitology, will attend the meeting of the American Association of Veterinary Parasitologists. He is a member of the research council of the AVMA.

Dr. P. W. Burns, professor and head of the Department of Veterinary Physiology and Pharmacology, will attend a workshop of the American Society of Veterinary Physiologists and Pharmacologists at Bound Brook, N.J., Aug. 14-16, and will then go to Philadelphia for the meeting of the American Association of Veterinary Toxicologists.

'Fat Boys' Tops In Local Men's Softball Loop

The School of Military Sciences "Fat Boys" are sitting in first place with the end of season nearing for the men's softball league, reports Flake L. Fisher, president of the College Station Recreation Council, chairman of adult mens softball league and co-manager of the "Eagles."

The league is one of the summer recreation activities promoted and sponsored by the College Station Recreation Council.

Team standings as of Wednesday are the "Fat Boys" holding the first place position with seven wins and one loss. Sitting in second place is the department of chemistry, agronomy, animal husbandry and agriculture engineering "Eagles" with five wins and two losses. Third place holder is the School of Engineering "Duffers" with five wins and three losses. In fourth place is the Department of Agriculture Economics and Rural Sociology "The Tired Nine" with four wins and four losses.

Fifth place holder is the School of Veterinary Medicine "Vets" with two wins and six losses. Standing in sixth place in the First Baptist Church of College Station couples Sunday School Class "Two by Two" with no wins and seven losses.

The games, which began June 13, have been played in the intramural diamond south of the Grove. Single games are played on Friday nights starting at 6:30 and a double header played on Saturday nights with the first game starting at 6:30 and the second at 8:30. Each team plays one game a week. Remaining games are scheduled for Friday and Saturday and final playoffs of the season will be held on Friday and Saturday nights, August 22-23.

There has been unusually good cooperation and high interest on the part of both players and spectators, according to Dr. Vance W. Edmonson, co-manager of "The Tired Nine." Edmonson attributes this to the fact that there has been satisfactory competition among the teams.

Future Aggies Show Makings In All-Star Tilt

A&M gridders-to-be showed up well in the annual high school North-South All-Star game in Houston Saturday night according to the Aggie coaching staff.

Aggie Freshman Coach Bill Jones, who will have first crack at teaching incoming freshman footballers the intricacies of Jim Meyers' unbalanced single-wing attack, said Monday that several future Aggies impressed him with aggressive play at the Houston game. He mentioned end James Street of Nederland, guard Mickey Walker of Port Arthur and tackle John Stradinger of Houston as particularly impressive.

Center Dennis Gaubatz, West Columbia, and guard Wayne Freiling, San Antonio, who teamed with Walker, Street, and Stradinger to form five-elevenths of the South team's starting line, also played well.

Fullback Calvin Janner, Brenham, and back Robert Caskey, Gonzalez, showed well in the backfield. Guard Larry Smith, Brady, end Jackie Cooper, Sugarland, end John Keller, Terrell, and backs Oscar Hinojosa, Mercedes and Alfred Glockzin, Mart, rounded out the Aggie forces in the game. Coach Jones seemed well pleased with the performance of the entire group and was especially impressed by the showing of future Aggie linemen on the squad.

History Dept. Hires New Teacher

Charles E. Wynes, Charlottesville, Va., will join the Department of History in September, according to Dr. Ralph W. Steen, head of the department.

Wynes received his B.S. in education from Madison College, Harrison, Va., in 1952, with a major in history.

He received his M.A. in history from the University of Virginia in 1957, and expects to finish work for his Ph.D. there this month.

Wynes has held teaching positions at Del Mar College, Corpus Christi, and at the University of Virginia.

He has concentrated most of his work in colonial history of the United States, pre and post Civil War American history, English history and European history.

While serving as a lieutenant in the Navy, Wynes was Education and Training Officer for enlisted personnel stationed at the Naval Air Station in Corpus Christi.

Boxer Rory Calhoun of White Plains, N. Y., is the seventh of 11 children of a Georgia minister-tenant farmer.

Consolidated Plans School

Supt. W. T. Riedel of A&M Consolidated Schools reports today that a school for teachers in the use of "phonetic keys" will be held there during the period August 18-19.

Mrs. Frank Coulter, first-grade teacher at Consolidated will conduct the school, which was developed by Mrs. Sloop, another elementary teacher at A&M Consolidated.

Mrs. Coulter has recently returned to College Station from teaching a 6-week remedial reading course at Bloomington, Tex. The school to be held at Consolidated is for new members of the faculty there and for teachers from surrounding schools.

Dartmouth first played intercollegiate hockey in 1905.
