

Old and New Meet Saturday

The old and the new kick off the 1958 football season in the Dallas Cotton Bowl Saturday night. Game time is 8 p.m.

The old is A&M, charter member of the Southwest Conference, and the new is Texas Tech, most recent member of the league. Although the Raiders do not compete for the grid crown until 1960 they're full-fledged members in other sports.

Both squads will be at near top physical strength with the Raiders having an ailing halfback and the Aggies an injured wingback. Ronnie Rice, Tech starter, is on the doubtful list due to illness while Randy Sims of A&M has been out of action two weeks with a bad knee. Sims had been running behind Jon Few. Another sophomore, Powell Berry of Snyder, has been looking good at wingback on the second unit.

The game will mark the debut of Coach Jim Myers and his single wing offense. The Cadets have adapted themselves well to the new style attack after having played the split-T the past four years and other types of the "T" since 1946.

Aggie problems are speed and depth, or rather the lack of these two items. Myers feels he will field a good first team this fall but there's a noticeable drop to the second and third units.

Aggie quarterbacking chores rest; young junior has been challenged; is due to start against Tech this week with Charley Milstead, but the by Ed Dudley. The Tyler blond week.

Sixty-three Freshmen Draw Football Togs

Coach Bill Jones greeted 63 freshmen football players Monday evening for the start of Fall grid practice.

The future single wing gridders for Coach Jim Myers' Aggie varsity open their schedule Oct. 2 against the Houston Kittens at College Station and will play four more Fish games. Other Frosh contests are with the TCU Wogs at Fort Worth, Oct. 8; Baylor Cubs at Waco, Oct. 16; Rice Owlets at College Station, Nov. 13; and Texas Shorthorns at College Station, Nov. 22. All but the Texas game will be played at night.

Jones will have as his assistants five student coaches—all former Aggie grid stars still working toward their degrees. They are Bobby Lockett, Jimmy Wright, John Gilbert, Loyd Taylor and Bobby Marks.

Gordon LeBoeuf

SPORT SLANTS

By BOB WEEKLEY

Currently running in the No. 1 fullback slot, LeBoeuf could be one of the top rushing backs in the Aggie offense.

Sportswriters and newscasters taking part in the Associated Press pre-season poll picked four SWC teams in the top 20, namely TCU 8th, Texas 10th, SMU 17th and A&M 20th.

It may be an honor to be selected among this elite group, but one wonders just how many of those participating in the pool ever saw a football game. Not many I bet!

A look at the record shows that Jim Myers is A&M's 21st football coach. Only three of the 20 previous coaches at A&M lost the opening games of their regime, and only two of these were in the last 60 years.

With tradition in our favor we should down the Red Raiders by—let's say—14 points.

A&M and Tech have played 16 games since 1927 at five different sites. The Aggies have won 13 of these contests, losing only three.

This will be the third meeting of the two schools in the Cotton Bowl with A&M winning the two previous "Big D" battles in 1951 and 1956.

The rumor is out that Red Raider Coach Dewitt Weaver has been playing the Aggie War Hymn in the Tech dressing room for the past week trying to fire up the underdog Raiders.

With all that brainwashing going on we have a few transfers to A&M at mid-term.

In The Red Raider Camp

Jerry Bell, who rose from fourth string quarterback to a starting role last fall, captains the Red Raiders this season. Standing 5-11 and weighing 192, Bell is built like a guard, but he's just fast enough and difficult enough to bring down to be dangerous on his infrequent runs.

Alternate captain of the Raiders is Mack Pogue of Sulphur Springs, who has had an injury-dogged career since graduating from Tyler Junior College. At 24, Tech's oldest player, Pogue, 5-11, 185, is majoring in physical education.

Voted into the Southwest Athletic Conference May 12, 1956, at Fayetteville, Ark., Tech, because of scheduling difficulties, will not begin conference grid title play until 1960.

The Red Raiders, in their first year of conference play, 1957-58, finished second in tennis, tied for third in basketball, fifth in swimming, sixth in golf and eighth in track.

Although Tech sports more seniors than last year, several sophomores look like they'll see action as members of the Red Raiders' top two teams.

At least a pair—center E. J. Holub of Lubbock and fullback Glen Amerson of Munday—are likely starters when Tech opens against the Aggies Saturday, barring illness or injury.

Others tabbed for considerable duty are tackles Jere Mohon of Panhandle and Robert Meyer of San Antonio, guards Kelly Gilbert of Oklahoma City, Fred Weaver of Cooper, and Dale Robinson of Stamford, and end Jim Brock of Fort Worth.

to A&M when the teams meet in Dallas this weekend.

Among the participants in the 40-7 loss to A&M two years ago as well as in the 21-0 defeat last year were end Gerald Seemann, tackles Jim Henderson and Phil Williams, and halfbacks Milton Vaughn and Jimmy Knox.
