Adams Quits White House High Office

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Sherman Adams resigned under fire Monday night as President Eisenhower's top assistant.

The former New Hampshire governor said that he has been besieged by "a campaign of vilification" by those seeking to remove him from public life and it is clear these efforts "have been intended to destroy me and in so doing to embarrass the administration and the President of the United States."

Adams announced his decision to get out of the second highest job in the White House in a dramatic nationwide television-radio appearance. He said his action is "final and unqualified. It is not open to reconsideration."

Adams had flown to Newport, R. I., Monday morning for a surprise conference with Eisenhower at the latter's vacation headquarters, then hurried back to Washington and completed arrangements for the broadcast.

Eisenhower accepted the resignation "with sadness."

Back of the resignation is the disclosure last June that Adams accepted costly gifts and favors from wealthy Boston industrialist Bernard Goldfine while Goldfine was in difficulty with two federal agencies.

Adams acknowledged accepting the favors, but said he got no favored treatment for Goldfine from any federal agency.

The clamor for Adams to quit rose loudly at the time, died down a bit, then thundered out again after the Republicans took a stunning licking in the Sept. 8 Maine election—in which the Goldfine case was a factor.

Adams said that in making his decision to resign—he did so with in the past few days—one factor he considered was whether staying on in his high position "might possibly diminish the chances which my party has of regaining control of the Congress in the November elections."

He said it was a difficult decision to make.

Adams said he had tendered the resignation in Monday's conference with Eisenhower at Newport and the President had accepted it, to become effective as soon as an orderly transition can be arranged for the transfer of his duties and responsibilities.

The man mentioned most in recent weeks as a possible successor to Sherman Adams is Fred A. Seaton, the genial secretary of the interior.

Friday Deadline To Sign Insurance

Approximately 1,422 students have now signed up for the new $4 accident insurance program which offers $1,000 coverage against accidents for a full calendar year.

Friday will be the last day for signing up for the policy. Students may sign up for the policy in the fiscal office.

Advanced ROTC Classes Move Into Bagley, Nagle Halls

Some advanced Military and Air Science classes are branching out from their usual location in the "shacks" this semester to other classrooms on the campus.

Senior Air Science Cadets are meeting theory classes in Nagle Hall while junior Military Science students meet all theory classes in Bagley Hall.

Dr. G. W. Schlesselman, acting dean of the School of Arts and Sciences whose new duties in that capacity made him unable to teach some of his usual geography classes, loaned the more-centralized better-equipped classroom in Nagle for use by the cadets.

Barron Foresees Possibility Of Losing Coed Appeal Case

By LEWIS REDDELL
Battalion News Editor

John M. Barron, attorney for two women seeking admission to A&M, Monday night expressed the belief that there is a possible chance that his clients may lose their case in the Court of Civil Appeals because of public pressure.

"I think we're right legally, but I know Texas' mind, so I wouldn't be surprised if we lost our case in higher Texas courts," he said.

"The situation might be different if the case was carried to the United States Supreme Court," Barron said.

Four Girls First To Volunteer for Xmas Seal Drive

Four Latin-American girls were the first of a large corps of volunteers to begin work on the 1958 Christmas Seal sale which opens Nov. 14.

Allice Cortez, Gloria Luna, Aurelia Medina and Terry Luna spent Thursday and Friday folding bonds, which will be mailed to large contributors, and stamping Health Education literature and other promotional material to be distributed during the sale.

The sale is a community project with young people and adults alike contributing their services in the fight against tuberculosis.

Committee Chairmen for the sale will meet on Sept. 24 at 9:00 a.m. in the TR office.

Episcopal Bishop To Visit Aggieland

The Rt. Rev. C. Avery Mason, Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Dallas will be in College Station today and tomorrow on his first visit to A&M as a guest of the Episcopal Student Association.

He will be celebrant at the regular 6:30 Wednesday morning Holy Communion at St. Thomas' Chapel. Cars will be opposite the Dorm 14 guard room at 6:05 a.m. to provide student a ride to the Chapel. The Rev. Earle Martin, Chaplain, urged all Episcopal students to attend the service.

The 10th Court of Civil Appeals in Waco began deliberations Thursday to decide the issue. Barron estimated that the court would probably hand down a ruling within three or four weeks.

He took the case to court after college officials refused to admit the two women—Mrs. Lena Ann Bristol and Mrs. Barbara Tittle, both of Bryan—when they applied for admission to A&M last spring.

The women won the first round of court action in March when Dist. Judge W. T. McDonald held that the 14th amendment to the U.S. Constitution has been violated and that the A&M Board of Directors exceeded its authority by rejecting women students.

Groneman Project Wins Third Place

The entry of Dr. Chris H. Groneman, head of the Industrial Education Department, won third place in the first division of the International Wood Craftsmen contest held recently in New York City.

The first division consisted of projects made of solid wood and veneer in combination. The entry of Dr. Groneman of a credenza was made of myrtlewood solid lumber and veneer. It has metal enameled drawer pulls made by Mrs. Groneman. (Myrtlewood is a rare wood grown in a small section of Oregon and in Palestine in the Holy Land.) He obtained the lumber for this project a number of years ago while teaching at Oregon State College during the summer.

There were several thousand contestants in the International competition which was sponsored by Albert Constantine and Son, Inc., of New York City. Entries were entered from throughout the United States, Canada, England, Scotland, Germany, Japan and Africa.

Each entry had to include photographs, working drawings and a statement concerning materials, construction, finish and anything which portrayed some unique feature of the piece of furniture.

Leipper To Speak On Moscow Visit

Dr. Dale Leipper will speak at a meeting of the Oceanographic Society Friday night at 7:30 p.m. at the Memorial Student Center on his recent trip to Russia.

Dr. Leipper was in Moscow, Russia, Aug. 1-10, attending the fifth meeting of the Special Committee for the International Geophysical Year.

decision to the Waco Court, following Judge McDonald's decision.

State Atty. Gen. Will Wilson, in arguments before the court, said Texas gives men and women equal treatment in the field of higher education and that the women have a wide choice without going to A&M.

Wilson said, "It should be pointed out that neither these plaintiffs nor anyone else in Texas has a constitutional right to go to college in their home towns."

Art Exhibit Goes On Display in MSC

An exhibit of 10 paintings executed in oil, watercolor and casein will be open for the public to view in the Memorial Student Center through Sept. 30, according to David Atteberry, chairman of the MSC Creative Arts Committee.

These paintings are the recent work of Mrs. Emalita Newton Terry, art instructor and director of the CAC-MSC.

Mrs. Terry has received notice that her painting, "Structures," a casein, has been accepted to hang in the 34th annual Autumn Exhibition of New Orleans' Isaac Delgado Museum.

Consolidated School Board Commends Staff

A&M Consolidated School administrators and teaching personnel were commended recently in a resolution passed by the Consolidated School Board of Trustees, J. R. Jackson, board president, said yesterday.

Jackson said, "Members of the school board are proud of the educational program being carried on in the A&M Consolidated Schools. Taylor Riedel, Superintendent, the principals, teachers and other school personnel are doing an excellent job. We feel that the patrons of the school district agree with us."

The resolution read in part, "The record of accomplishments and achievements made by graduates of the high schools, and the manner in which students in the other schools take their places in the high grades as they progress from year to year is indicative of the superior training you are giving them."

Ross Volunteers Open Applications For New Members

Applications for juniors seeking membership in the Ross Volunteer Company are now available and must be turned in by Friday, Jerry Oden, RV public information sergeant, said yesterday.

Application blanks have been distributed to one senior in each dorm and junior RV hopefuls should pick them up, and return them to the person they received them from.

Each applicant must meet the following qualifications to be selected as a Ross Volunteer: completed three semesters of Military or Air Science; must not have failed any Military or Air Science course; a 2.00 grade point ratio in military or Air Science; and have a 1.5 overall grade point ratio.

Officers of the organizations will review each application and pick approximately 70 members for the company.

Melbern Glascock is commanding officer of the organization and Herbert Whalen is executive officer. Platoon leaders are Fred Kappel, Randy Curtis, Jack McCrary. Fred Hunter is administrative officer and Robert Turner is first sergeant.

Activities scheduled for the Volunteers this year include acting as honor guards at the inauguration of Gov. Price Daniel, and for King Rex in the New Orleans Mardi Gras Parade.

Squadron 5 Soph Okay after Injury

Donald Wayne Lancaster, sophomore student in Squadron 5, was resting well at St. Joseph Hospital in Bryan last night following the loss of half of his right hand thumb yesterday morning.

Lancaster's thumb was caught between a door facing and the door, completely cutting his thumb off at the knuckle.

After being taken to the college hospital for first aid treatment, Lancaster was transferred to the Bryan hospital to await plastic surgery.

Dr. Lyons Urges Students to Get Flu Shots Now

More than 1000 Corps students have signed to take the flu shots at the college hospital this week, Dr. C. R. Lyons, director, Student Health Services, said Monday night.

At the present time more than 800 shots have been given and there are plenty of shots to go around, Dr. Lyons said.

Those members of the Corps who had agreed to take the shots began reporting to the hospital at 4 p.m. today.

"So far we have not had too many civilian students taking the shots," he said. "I especially urge the civilians to get their shots, because they are no good unless they are taken at least two weeks before the flu strikes."

Civilians may take their shots anytime from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

There is a $1 fee for giving the shots.

Creative Arts Organizes Tonight

Creative Arts Committee of the Memorial Student Center will hold an organizational meeting tonight for its craft, art and sculpture classes at 7:30 in the Art Studio on the third floor.

Mrs. Emalita Terry, committee advisor, stressed the importance of the meeting to all interested persons.

Little Rock School Opening Planned

LEXINGTON, Ky.—Gov. Orval E. Faubus said Monday he expects to reopen high schools in Little Rock next Monday, or possibly later in the week, after a vote on the question of admitting Negroes.

The Arkansas governor made the statement at the Southern Governors Conference.

He has proposed a plan for operating the schools as private institutions.

In Little Rock, an estimated 200 shouting students demonstrated on the governor's mansion lawn Monday against any integration of racially-torn Central High School.

"Two, four, six, eight. We don't want to integrate," the students chanted in pep rally style.

Fred Jolly, 17, Central High senior and spokesman for the group, said "We just wanted Gov. Faubus to know that even if some students are opposed to him, we feel that the majority of both Hall and Sentral students are backing him 100 per cent."
