Women Plan Appeal Appeals Court Rejects Girls In Coed Case

A&M won another battle in its fight against coeducation today as the 10th District Court of Civil Appeals at Waco reversed the decision of District Judge W. T. McDonald...

The opinion reads: "Since the state supports one all-male, one all-female and sixteen coeducational schools, it exhorts neither sex at the expense of the other. But to the contrary, recognizes the equal rights of both sexes to the benefits of the best, most-varied system of higher education the state can supply."

Bryan Attorney John M. Barron, representing the women in the case, said he will file an immediate appeal to the Texas Supreme Court at Austin and if necessary, will carry it to the U. S. Supreme Court.

At Austin, Attorney General Will Wilson, who represented the state in the hearing held Sept. 18, had no comment to make on the court's decision.

The two women, Mrs. Lena Ann Bristol and Mrs. Barbara Alice Tittle, both of Bryan, went to court after A&M officials refused to admit them as students during the spring semester of 1958.

District Judge McDonald ruled in their favor on March 18, at Bryan, basing his decision on women's rights under the 14th amendment to the U. S. Constitution. He held the women's rights had been violated and that the A&M Board of Directors exceeded its authority in rejecting women students.

Truman Nominates Nixon For Prexy

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman said Wednesday his choice for the Republican nominee for president in 1960 is Vice President Richard Nixon.

"We can lick him," the Democratic chieftain added to remarks at a press conference. Truman, here to address a Democratic banquet Wednesday night, declined to say whom he would support for the Democratic party's 1960 presidential nomination.

But he added, "We have about a dozen good candidates. That list doesn't include me."

In his prepared speech, Truman accused the Republican administration of fostering a stagnant economy, a lagging national defense and exploiting the West's natural resources.

Truman said since 1920 the "issue between the parties has been whether we are going to have full development of our resources for the benefit of all people or see them wasted and exploited by a few companies."

He said Republicans "will make glowing promises to show their interest in developing our resources, but as soon as you turn your back, they'll stick a knife in the promised project. Somewhere between promise and performance, the Republican hatchet men take over, and the result is little or no development of our resources at all."

Reds Propose Nuclear Talks Before Summit

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union proposed Wednesday that the Geneva talks opening Oct. 31 on banning of nuclear weapons tests should be one step short of the summit.

That would put the talks on the foreign minister level and bring together Secretary of State Dulles, Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko and British Foreign Secretary Lloyd.

It has been expected the talks would be among lesser expert envoys on disarmament. The United States has named Ambassador James J. Wadsworth, American disarmament expert in the U. N., as leader of its Geneva delegation.

In Washington, officials indicated the United States would reject Russia's proposal to raise the talks from an ambassadorial to a foreign ministers level.

The Moscow proposal came one day after Western authorities reported detection of a resumption of Soviet nuclear blasts and apparent abandonment of previously announced Soviet plans to stop them.

The West has said there must be international agreement to ban nuclear tests and insists that a unilateral declaration such as the Soviet Union's March 13 statement cannot be effective.

Notes from the Soviet Foreign Ministry to the U. S. and British embassies here said the Soviet Union is agreed on the time and place for the talks.

Some observers felt the new Soviet proposal that the participants be the foreign ministers might snag the schedule.

Little Rock Group Renews Its Efforts

By The Associated Press

President Eisenhower appealed to all Americans Wednesday to obey the U. S. Supreme Court's decree on school integration but a group in Little Rock, Ark., took a new tack in its effort to open private, segregated high schools.

In Virginia, Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr., received a formal request to reopen six public schools at Norfolk, but there was no indication that he would act immediately.

The President read a brief statement to his news conference in Washington which said, "It is incumbent upon all Americans... to recognize their duty of complying with the rulings of the highest court in the land. Any other course would be fraught with grave consequences to our nation."

The Little Rock Private School Corp., frustrated in its efforts to lease four high schools for private, segregated classes, appealed to the public for contributions of money and facilities to go ahead with its plan.

Dr. T. J. Raney, president of the corporation, asked anyone owning an available building suitable for classroom use to call the corporation office. Contributions of money, he said, should also be sent to the office.

Raney said this course of action hinges on a decision expected next Monday from the 8th Circuit Court of Appeals at St. Louis. The Little Rock School Board has been temporarily enjoined from leasing four closed high schools to the private school group. The appeals court is to decide whether this shall be made permanent.

Raney charged in a statement distributed to newsmen that "federal government officials, from the President on down, who are working with the NAACP in this program, must somehow be made to understand that the course they have chosen is leading our nation to destruction."

The Norfolk, Va., City Council asked Almond to reopen the six schools there and operate them on a segregated basis as permitted under a state law passed in 1956. This apparently would eliminate only those grades which have been ordered to integrate.

Almond has said he hopes to move soon to reopen the 9 schools in the state which were closed because of intergration. He declined to give details but the elimination of integrated grades may be considered.
