Ags De-stripe Tiger, 12-0

Maryland Next

By BOB WEEKLEY
 Battalion Sports Editor

The University of Missouri found out the hard way Saturday night in Kyle Field that women have not yet invaded the A&M campus when Coach Jim Myers' Aggies romped over the Tigers 12-0 with a calm precision of a drill team.

The Cadet eleven added another chapter to their offensive game as they stuck almost entirely to the ground to roll up an impressive 204 yards while yielding only 104.

In the first half, when both the Farmers' touchdowns were scored, they did not throw one pass, instead depending on the power running of fullback Gordon LeBoeuf and the end sweeps of tailback Charley Milstead.

LeBoeuf, the midget fullback, was the Ags leading groundgainer with 67 yards to his credit in 15 drives. Milstead carried 15 times for 51 yards while reserve tailback Bubba McLean had 48 yards in 5 tries.

The Cadets opened their scoring parade in the first quarter from their own 41 yard line. LeBoeuf carried on seven of the nine plays to the goal line to spark the drive. It was the junior's run around left end that put the Ags on the Tigers' three in scoring position. Two plays later LeBoeuf stepped around end John Tracey's block for the touchdown. Milstead converted but the Cadets drew a 15-yard penalty and his second try was wide to the right.

Don Smith, the younger of the Smith brothers, partially blocked a punt in the second period to set up the Ags final tally. Milstead and LeBoeuf divided the ball carrying chores between them on the 17-yard drive with the young tailback scoring the TD. His try for extra point didn't materialize as he was thrown for a loss on the passing attempt.

The Ag forward wall was the big difference in the game, opening holes large enough to drive trucks through while on offense and pouring through the Tigers' line on defense. Center Gale Oliver, tackles Ken Beck and Carl Luna, guards Carter Franklin and Allen Goehring and ends Tracey and Smith were all praised by the coaching staff for their fine game.

Missouri threatened twice in the second period when they moved downfield as far as the Aggies' eleven before the Farmers stiffened and held. The Tigers' try for a field goal from that point was no good.

A&M fumbled the ball two plays later and Missouri managed to shove the ball to the 15-yard line before Milstead stepped in to intercept a pass in the end zone and remove the threat.

The Bengals put off their strongest show of force in the third quarter when they marched 81 yards

Fish Shoot for Two Against TCU Wogs

By FRED MUERER
 Battalion Managing Editor

With their first college football victory tucked safely away in the record books, the A&M Fish eagerly threw themselves into a brisk workout yesterday, one of two they'll have prior to meeting the Texas Christian University Wogs in Fort Worth tomorrow night.

As they did yesterday, the freshmen will be working under a "Get Polished Quickly" theme at practice today in an attempt to sharpen their attack for the Wogs, labeled by several sportswriters as the "best-balanced freshman team in the Southwest Conference."

"We have no real punch yet," remarked Coach Bill Jones in indicating the Fish will have to be stronger against TCU than they were in polishing off the University of Houston Kittens last week, 12-0. "We'll hit everything in practice." After a quick confab with his assistants, Jones said there would be only one change in the Fish lineup tomorrow night.

"Rodger McFarland certainly earned the opportunity to start at tailback," commented Jones. McFarland is, incidentally, a Fort Worth product.

In the U of H game, McFarland, then classified as the second unit tailback, completed 9 of 13 passes while accounting for 162 yards. He directed both touchdown drives and once punted out-of-bounds on the Kitten 2.

The lanky blond substituted early in the game for the heralded Jesse McGuire, who sustained a head injury after gathering 26 yards in five carries. McGuire will be ready for the TCU tilt.

Jones, who expressed pleasure with the progress of his second and third units, said the second team was almost as strong as the first. He said movies of Thursday's game showed "we have some more boys who will hit."

The mentor had high praise for all his guards, saying they had come a long way. "They're not at their best yet, however," he added.

He said reports indicated the Wogs had a strong team which runs the same plays as its varsity.

About 25,000 spectators are expected for the clash in Amon Carter Stadium tomorrow, he said.

In last year's battle, the Wogs stomped the Fish, 20-6.

Pittsburgh Trades For Bobby Layne

Pittsburgh (AP)—The Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League Monday traded quarterback Earl Morrall and a future draft choice to Detroit for quarterback Bobby Layne.

There was no money involved in the deal.

Coach Buddy Parker of the Steelers said he made the trade because Layne "is a top-flight quarterback." Parker added:

"I can't think Morrall was a top-flight quarterback. He may be in the future, but he isn't right now."

Parker said he wanted to give the Steelers more punch.
