Aggies Take Advantage Of Dorm Date Rooms

By LEWIS REDDELL
Battalion News Editor

For the first time in several years, women were housed in an Aggie dormitory over the weekend and the plan met with general approval from all sources concerned.

Dormitory 2 was opened for guests in an effort to provide inexpensive and convenient accommodations for Aggies and their guests over the weekend. Price for reservations in the dormitory was $1. All the rooms in the dormitory were filled with the exception of three, used for the matron and maids.

The $1 fee was used to pay for expenses in hiring a matron, dormitory guard and maids needed over the weekend. Approximately $160 was used for these services, leaving some $30 which will be placed in a special housing fund. The funds will be used in the event dormitories are opened on some other occasion.

To improve relations between A&M and Texas Women's University, 17 Tessie freshmen were invited down to be the guests of 17 Aggie freshmen who were selected from each group, battalion, the Aggie Band, A Medical and A Veterinary at a Corps pass-by Tuesday night.

Harry Boyer, chief of housing was pleased with the results of the plan and said the housing office would be willing to try the plan again. He termed the weekend the best success he has seen in 20 years of the similar plans. He commented, "I was most pleased with the results of the weekend and overwhelmed at the outcome."

Men living in the dormitory were in favor of the plan and agreed it was a success, but some didn't think the dormitories should be opened each weekend.

Don Cloud, Corps commander commented, "I thought the plan was good because it saved the Aggies a lot of money, it promoted better relations between A&M and TWU by bringing 17 Tesses down and it was convenient for the men without cars to house their dates in the dormitory."

Julian E. Beckman, Commander of the Fourth Bn., 2nd Regt., said, "I think it was great for Aggies because it made it easier in the line of expenses."

Jerry Gleason, Commander of A Vet. Company said, "I think it was good for one time, however, it was too hard on our freshmen and sophomores because there was too much strain on them moving around."

Colleges Need More Money Says Speaker

More money is needed by the college and universities of Texas if the state is to successfully meet the challenge it faces today, Dr. L. D. Haskeiw told delegates to the 15th annual Junior College Conference which opened yesterday and closes today.

Haskeiw, dean of the College of Education and vice president of Development Services at the University of Texas, addressed conference members from 2 colleges and universities at the opening session Monday.

Speaking on the subject, "Current Issues in Higher Education," he said that Texas needs $18 million more annually for its state-supported institutions of higher learning, $3 million more for its junior colleges and $24 million more for other colleges and universities of the state.

Haskeiw said the people of Texas have put off and compromised the question of introducing higher quality in our education system.

"We in Texas must understand and face up to the challenge we face in higher education," he said.

The speaker said that Texas, in the last four years, has lost ground to its principal competing states in its share of the national product, and listed a number of examples in which other states are gradually easing ahead of Texas in certain areas.

"Louisiana is moving ahead in petrochemicals while Minnesota, and possibly Arkansas, are moving ahead in aluminum," he exclaimed.

He pointed out that Texas is lagging behind other states in nuclear science. "It has been announced that A&M has plans for a nuclear science center in the near future Pennsylvania has had a nuclear science center for six years," he said.

Earl Rudder, vice-president of A&M, gave the address of welcome. He said that we need to take a strong look at the economic side of the educational picture or we will all end up in such strong competition for the dollar that we will not be able to fill the role outlined for us.

Rudder said that junior colleges fill a great need, not only in Texas but in the entire education system of our country.

Dr. Ralph Steen, head of the Department of History, was the banquet speaker last night.

Topics being discussed at the two-day conference include the issues in the teaching of mathematics and sciences, selection and placement of students, recruitment and retention of teaching personnel and the institutions and their public relations.

The annual conference is sponsored by the Basic Division. Dr. C. H. Ransdell, associate dean of the Basic Division, is conference chairman.

Haas Elected Honor Code Head

Harvey Haas, fifth group adjutant, was elected chairman of the Corps Honor Code Council Friday afternoon at the regular meeting of the council in the Corps Conference Room.

Randy Curtis, deputy Corps commander, has been acting chairman of the group during the first few meetings this year.

During the five Friday meetings the council, composed of senior representatives from each group and battalion on the campus, has been oriented as to what the honor code is and how it has been set up to function according to plans set down by the class of '58 last year.

The big task before the council now is the orientation of junior representatives from each group and battalion. Also a junior from each wing and regiment staff will be members of the body.

No plans have been made at the present time as to when the code will go into full swing.

THEY SAID IT COULDN'T BE DONE - BUT TODAY'S L&M GIVES YOU-

They said it couldn't be done... until the Wright Brothers flew this plane for 59 seconds in 1909. Today flying is so much a part of modern life that 40 American colleges offer regular flying courses, many of them for degree credit.

Puff by puff Less tars & More taste

DON'T SETTLE FOR ONE WITHOUT THE OTHER!

Change to L'M and get 'em both. Such an improved filter and more taste! Better taste than in any other cigarette. Yes, today's L'M combines these two essentials of modern smoking enjoyment—less tars and more taste—in one great cigarette.
