City Continues Improvements

Maintenance men for the City of College Station finish up installation of a 27-inch storm sewer on Church Street near the new Catholic chapel as part of the street improvement program now underway. The new storm sewer will handle drainage for the area around the new chapel.

Waco Court Refuses Appeal

Barron Loses Again; Files Another Appeal

The 10th Court of Civil Appeals in Waco Thursday refused to reconsider its earlier verdict denying two Bryan women admission to A&M.

The court's decision clears the way for appeal to the Texas Supreme Court.

Bryan Atty. John Barron, representing the two women, forwarded a motion for writ of error to the Texas Supreme Court today to counteract the court's final ruling.

Barron filed a motion for rehearing the co-ed case two weeks ago. At that time he expressed his opinion that the motion would probably be denied by the judges.

Refuses to Quit

"We will quit this fight when, and only when, the United States Supreme Court says we are wrong," Barron said last night after the ruling.

"We will not take a Waco court's word as correct upon this matter, because we believe we are right."

Mrs. Lena Ann Bristol and Mrs. Barbara Alice Jittle, both of Bryan, were denied admission to A&M for the spring semester last year. The women won their case in the district court in Bryan, but Atty. Gen. of Texas Will Wilson, representing the college, filed an appeal with the Waco court.

Identical Rights

"An American woman has the identical education rights a white man or a negro might have in a tax-supported public school," Barron continued.

Heads:

"Pure legal equality is the national rule of the game.

"If the Texas Supreme Court rules against or refuses to take the case, I will appeal to the highest court in the land—the U. S. Supreme Court.

"The concept of legal equality hasn't reached Texas yet, except by television. If the women are entitled under the law to enter, then we want them to have these rights."

"Of course we are also at a disadvantage because A&M has power and influence on its side," he concluded.

Journalism Interns From A&M Attend Ft. Worth Banquet

Six A&M senior journalism majors who served their Texas Daily Newspaper Assn. internships this summer will be guests at a banquet in Fort Worth tonight sponsored by the Fort Worth professional chapter, Sigma Delta Chi.

The Aggies and 21 other journalism students from colleges and universities throughout Texas will be feted in the Worth Hotel at 7:30. Each of the interns will give a brief summary of his summer's work.

A&M news interns attending the banquet are Joe Buser of Arp, who worked for the Wichita Falls Record News; Gayle McNutt of Comanche, who was employed by the Abilene Reporter-News; and Fred Meurer of Corpus Christi, who fulfilled his internship with the Port Arthur News.

Advertising interns are Bill Reed of Bonham, who sold ads for the Kilgore News Herald; Bob Weekley of Brownwood, who worked for the Lamesa Daily Reporter; and Hoyt (Toby) Mattox of Houston, who was employed by the Houston Post.

Donald D. Burchard, head of the Department of Journalism, is accompanying the group to Fort Worth.

Baylor Officials Issue Apology for Painting

At Yell Practice

Civilians Discuss Conduct of Group

By DAVE STOKER

Impolite, drunkardly actions on the part of a certain group of A&M students at the past midnight yell practices topped the discussion at the third meeting of the Civilian Student Council last night in the Senate Chamber of the Memorial Student Center.

Pushing the business of the Civilian Honor Code from the limelight, the discussion of the unmaneuvered group was brought forth by Corps Chaplain John Partridge, representative from the Corps.

Partridge Points Out

Partridge pointed out that the group consisted of civilian students, five year men who were in the Corp last year as seniors.

"We (Corps) feel that we should bodily remove these men from The Grove if their actions get out of line again, but first we want to get the Civilian Council's opinion," he said.

Various suggestions were brought up. One representative felt that the Campus Security should handle the situation, while another went along with Partridge and the Corps' suggestion of removing the group bodily.

One representative stood up and said, "This is just an example of the kind of men the Corps is turning out."

Council Discusses

As the council discussed the situation, the bringing of intoxicating beverages onto the campus and into Kyle Field for football games entered the discussion.

It was suggested that the problem be brought before the Association of Former Students. It was finally moved and passed that the situation be studied by the council's executive committee.

The Civilian Honor Code Committee, appointed by president Tommy Beckett at the council's last meeting, brought before the council representatives one major proposal to the Civilian Honor Code.

Committee Reports

The committee, made up of Dick Steadman, Jack Little, Charles Graham and Ted Shaver, made their proposal at a meeting Wednesday night. They proposed that each housing unit elect one representative to an Honor Code Orientation Committee to orientate each student on the functions and purposes of the honor code.

Council members were in favor of the proposal, and it was moved and passed that the orientation committee be formed. Every member agreed that every Aggie should be well informed on the content of the code before the code is put to a vote.

"We surely don't want to force it on the students," Beckett said. "We should take ample opportunity to inform them on the code to get a wise vote."

Students Dropped From School Rolls

A formal telegram of apology was received yesterday by President M. T. Harrington from Baylor's President W. R. White in which the latter expressed his "sincere apology for the painting incident which occurred on the A&M campus on the night of Oct. 21."

Four Baylor students caught on the campus early Wednesday were indefinitely suspended from their school, according to White's telegram.

In other developments concerning the incident, Harrington sent White a return telegram accepting the apology and expressing hopes that good relations between the two schools would continue.

Zinn Talks

Bennie A. Zinn, director of Student Personnel Services, talked to the four students from Baylor—three freshmen and one sophomore—again Thursday. He said the boys still maintained that they did not do the painting on the main entrance of the west wing of the Memorial Student Center.

The students, three from Texas and one from a southeastern state, told Zinn three cars left Waco for College Station with intent of painting the campus. They said the cars became separated en route and when their group got here, they saw that the MSC had already been painted.

Returns to Waco

The students told Zinn when they returned to Waco after having been stopped here by the Campus Security, they found out that one of the cars had become lost and turned back. They said they didn't know what happened to the car or who was in it. Zinn said the boys presumed this was the car containing the group which did the paint smearing.

Baylor Dean of Men W. C. Perry refused to release the names of the students involved. He said he did not know who the other youth (not a Baylor student) was.

Boys Suspended

Perry explained that the boys were suspended because they admitted being at A&M with the group.

Great Issues Has Rogers on Slate

Will Rogers Jr., son of the late American humorist, will deliver a speech at 3 p.m. in the Memorial Student Center Ballroom Sunday in the first of a series sponsored by the Great Issues Committee, according to George Stansell, chairman of the committee.

His speech, entitled, "Our Changing America," will be followed by a reception at 4 p.m. in the Assembly Room of the MSC, according to John Vaughn, subcommittee chairman. Others in the receiving line will be Stansell, Vaughn and Len Dorney, who will introduce Rogers. Rogers has distinguished himself as a Congressman, as a newspaperman and a motion picture and television actor. He also received the Purple Heart during action in Europe in World War II.

He will arrive Sunday morning at 11:15 at Easterwood Airport.

There will be a question and answer period following his speech, Stansell said.

Rogers is also to be the guest of honor at a dinner at 6 p.m. in the Assembly Room of the MSC. He will be greeted by President M. T. Harrington, Vice President Earl Rudder, Col. Joe E. Davis and other college officials.

"Because of his experience as congressman from California he is quite an authority on his subject, so it should be a good talk," Stansell said.

Tickets are now on sale at the main desk of the MSC and may be purchased at the door Sunday for $1.50 cash. Student Great Issues season tickets purchased at registration are also good for this presentation.

Seniors to Meet After Yell Practice

The Class of '59 will meet in the Chemistry Lecture Room immediately after yell practice tonight, according to Gary Pepper, class president.

Pepper said seniors would discuss the class finances and the bonfire at the organizational meeting, and set up certain necessary project committees.

Ag-Bear Tilt On Statewide Radio Loop

The Baylor-A&M football game will be broadcast over radio from Waco, 7:45 p.m. Eddie Barker and Dave Smith will cover the action.

Other games to be covered this weekend are the Rice-Texas game from Houston. Ves Box and John Smith will cover the action over radio at 1:45 p.m.

The SMU-Georgia Tech game will be televised from the Cotton Bowl, Dallas, at 1:45 p.m. Kern Tips and Alec Chesser will describe the action.

The broadcasts will be carried over radio by WBAP, Fort Worth-820; WFAA, Dallas-820; KPRC, Houston-960; WOAI, San Antonio-1200; KORA, Bryan-1240.
