Pope John XXIII 'Affable Character'

VATICAN CITY (AP) — "He has a very affable but determined character."

That was the way the Vatican newspaper described Pope John XXIII when he became a cardinal in 1953, and the description holds true now.

"He is endowed with clear qualities and well tested virtue," L'Osservatore Romano said in its appraisal five years ago.

It added that Angelo Giuseppe Cardinal Roncalli, as he was known then, had succeeded in building up a reputation of confidence and enterprise.

The new Pope often has been described as a jovial prelate. But he has never hesitated to make his views known, even when they might be unpopular.

He once said: "Gambling, to begin with, is a most grave disorder in itself and deplorable and is to be condemned wherever it may be practiced, even if in secret."

He was born Nov. 25, 1881, at Sotto il Monte, in the Province of Bergamo, a center studded with churches 30 miles northeast of Milan. His was a family of modest farmers.

Angelo Giuseppe Roncalli was just 21 years old when he entered the diocese seminary at Bergamo. Twelve years later, Aug. 10, 1904, he was ordained a priest in Rome's Santa Maria in Monte Church.

World War I interrupted his ecclesiastical career briefly. He first served as a sergeant in the medical corps of the Italian army. By the time the war ended he was an army chaplain.

The war over, Father Roncalli returned to Bergamo for a three-year term as a lecturer on theology and church history.

However, the Vatican had its eyes on the young administrator-historian. In 1921 he undertook the first of Vatican assignments which were to bring him praise from three Popes.

Pope Benedict XI summoned Father Roncalli to Rome and gave him the job of reorganizing the Congregation for the Propagation of the Faith — the congregation that directs the vast worldwide missionary activities for the Roman Catholic Church.

A year later Pius XI succeeded Benedict and immediately took a keen interest in the work of Father Roncalli. The Pontiff sent him traveling to many foreign centers over the next four years.

Architecture Profs To Attend Meeting

They are T. D. Holleman, head of the division; Melvin Rotsch, William Wagner, O. J. Mitchell, Joseph McGraw, Joseph Donaldson, Richard Vrooman and Edward Romieniec.

JOURNALISM

The department has maintained close relationships with publisher associations, trade groups and individuals in the field.

"In the department's 10 years, it has become one of the top schools in Texas and has achieved recognition as one of the best departments in the country," said Burdard.

Spring field trips are arranged each year during which crews of students actually take over the responsibility for the publication of one issue of two weekly newspapers. These students are under the direction of a journalism instructor and the publishers.
