First Time in Texas Kingston Trio Signs For Saturday Show

One of the hottest added attractions for a football weekend ever to hit the A&M campus will be here Saturday in the person of the Kingston Trio.

The trio of "Tom Dooley" and "Coplas" fame is coming directly from San Francisco for its 3 p.m. pre-Arkansas game performance in G. Rollie White Coliseum here. The group just completed a stay in Hawaii.

A&M's Town Hall "scooped" the trio from the rest of Texas, as this is the group's initial appearance in the state. The trio will return to the coast after Saturday's show.

Trying Since September
Joseph "T" Hearne, student entertainment manager, has been trying to sign the trio since the beginning of the semester. Three weeks ago he began correspondence concerning Saturday's stand, and the trio said "yes" this week.

"The telegraph wires between here and San Francisco have really been kept hot during the past week," laughed Hearne.

Composed of Dave Guard, Bob Shane and Nick Reynolds, the trio is one of the newest and most colorful groups in the business. They graduated from a university on the Pacific coast only a year ago.

The three youngsters got together just 10 months ago and were soon signed exclusively by Capitol Records. Since that time their recording of "Tom Dooley" skyrocketed to the No. 1 selling tune in the nation, and their album by the same name is out-selling everything in the San Francisco Bay area. The album has already sold out three times.

Songs Represent World
The songs they have put together during their short career evolve from America, England, Tahiti, Mexico, Hawaii, Spain, Africa and the West Indies.

Guard, who is the acknowledged leader of the group, puts their tune selection this way:

Soviet Author Refuses Nobel Prize
STOCKHOLM, Sweden—Russian author Boris Pasternak turned down the $41,420 Nobel Literature Prize Wednesday. The writer who dared criticize life under Communist rule has been under almost ceaseless Soviet press attack since the prize was announced Saturday.

"Because of the meaning attributed to this award in the society I live in I ought to say no thanks to the undeserved prize awarded me," he cabled. "Do not take my voluntary refusal with any ill will."

This cable to the Swedish Royal Academy was a switch for the 68-year-old author of the novel, "Doctor Zhivago." Last Saturday he had cabled the academy: "Immensely thankful, touched, proud, astonished, abashed."

Senate to Collect For Chest Friday

Members of the Student Senate will wear special badges tomorrow to aid in collecting donations to the Campus Chest Fund from day students, Don Rummel, Campus Chest Chairman, said yesterday.

The Senate members will circulate throughout the campus during class hours to give each and every day student an opportunity to give to the fund, designed to help Aggie buddies in need of financial assistance.

Rummel urged each student to please donate to the "dollar per Aggie" drive.

Pooch Stars Make Film Unrehearsed

Although he may not win an Academy Award Oscar like Walt Disney, Darwin MacAllister, '56, is an amateur photographer who takes very realistic home movies.

Recently his dog, a golden retriever named Lulu, gave birth to twelve puppies. During the birth, Darwin and his wife, Norma, were on the spot to record the happy event on 50 feet of colored movie film.

Lulu and her puppies seem oblivious to their new roles as movie stars and are now leading a happy "dog's life."

The MacAllister's are now anxiously waiting for the film to be developed to see if their photography effort turned out well.

The 12 puppies will soon be wanting to find new homes, Darwin said. Anyone interested in a new dog may contact the MacAllister's at V16-8267.

U. S. Explodes 2 More Shots In Atomic Tests

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (AP)—Two atomic blasts flashed over the desert Wednesday but brisk winds pushed back the hurry-up timetable on three others scheduled during the day.

The Atomic Energy Commission, faced with a Thursday midnight deadline, had scheduled five full-scale weapons tests for Wednesday. This would have been the greatest number ever fired here within 24 hours.

Unsatisfactory weather conditions delayed the shot named Santa Fe. This is a device equal to less than 20,000 tons of TNT, to be fired from a balloon at 1,500 feet.

Adams, a test identical in power, yield and height to Santa Fe, was reset for midnight.

Blanca, a weapon packing the force of 20,000 tons of TNT, was rescheduled for 6 a.m. Thursday. It will be the most powerful ever set off underground by this country if it goes.

Three tests is the most ever conducted in one day here.

Survivors Plea 'Come Get Us'

SPRINGHILL, N. S. (AP)—The faint cry came from men trapped 2½ miles inside a wrecked coal mine—"There are 12 of us here. Come and get us."

Mine rescue workers inched Wednesday night through 60 feet of debris trying to reach the 12 found entombed alive after all hope for them had been abandoned.

Miner Gorley Kempt, in a group of 12 among 174 miners trapped last Thursday night, whispered the dramatic words through a 6-inch broken air line to the rescue crews. . . "Come and get us."

Percy Weatherbee, one of the rescue team, recognized the voice as his uncle's.

"I asked him how many were in there and Gorley said there were 12 of them," Weatherbee recounted.

"I asked, 'How are you?' and Gorley answered, 'We're good, but we need water badly.' Then he called out the names of the 12 men in there."

Arrangements were made to send hot liquids through the tube to the trapped men.

Rescuers said they hoped sometime Wednesday night to be through the rock debris to the pocket where the 12 huddled.

One mine official said it was possible others may be alive.

As the news spread through this tragedy-ridden town and hope was revived among families gathering at the pithead, two more bodies were brought out.

They raised the known death toll to 26.

The miners were trapped by a tremendous underground upheaval that miners call a bump. Of the 174 in the mine, 81 reached safety. Then rescuers began finding bodies by ones and twos.

Last Sunday night one rescue chief said it appeared the men still trapped had no hope of being found alive. If not crushed by rockfalls that reduced the 10-foot high passages to 10 inches, then mine gas spelled their doom, rescuers figured.

The score at dusk Wednesday was 26 known dead, 81 rescued, 12 still alive in the mine debris, 55 fate unknown.

The 12 were at a level that slants down 13,000 from the mine's entrance. The depth underground is about 4,000 feet.

Four Bands at Once

Four bands imported from Arkansas and unique decorations will spark this weekend's activities in the Memorial Student Center, as the MSC Dance Committee presents Cafe Rue Pinalle Friday night and the "Midnight in New Orleans" after-game dance Saturday night.

Two University of Arkansas students, Judy Edwards, vocalist; and Bob Flowers, pianist, will be the star performers for the Cafe Rue Pinalle floor show. For Arkansas visitors, the show will also feature genuine "hoedown" numbers played by John Al Holveck on the fiddle, with guitar accompaniment by Bob Erisman and Malcolm Strole. Harry Candler will emcee.

The Prairie View Collegians, an 18-piece group from Prairie View A&M, tops the list of bands on the "Midnight in New Orleans" agenda. The Collegians, who include a quartet in their number, will play in the Mardi Gras-decorated Ballroom.

Other bands to provide varied music for the affair will be the Richard Smith Combo, a rock-and-roll group which will play in the table tennis area; the Andy Anderson Sextet from the Sam Houston State College, a regular dance band to be in the Assembly Room; and the Bob Arevalos Combo, a jazz group set for the Serpentine Lounge area.

Dance music for Friday night's Cafe Rue Pinalle will be played by the Dave Woodard Combo. Admission will be $1.50 per couple. Admission for "Midnight in New Orleans" will be $2 per couple. Cafe Rue Pinalle will begin at 8 p.m., and Saturday night's event will begin immediately following the Arkansas game.

According to Rue Pinalle Chairman Tom Withey, this week's Cafe Rue Pinalle entertainers from Arkansas were "discovered" as A&M talent prospects last spring by the 1958 Intercollegiate Talent Show audition team. A petite, brunette junior from Bald Knob, Ark-Miss Edwards sings popular ballads.

Variety of Dances On Weekend Slate

Flowers, winner of the Student Union Week Talent Show at the University of Arkansas last spring, plays the piano in a manner similar to that made famous by Rogers Williams, Withey said.

Scenes reminiscent of well-known night spots in New Orleans will form the decorative theme for the "Midnight in New Orleans" dance, reports special dance chairman Arlis Adickes. "We're also giving away surprise favors to add to the atmosphere of the dance," he added.
