

Highway Problems Of Present, Future On Discussion Here

Problems concerning streets and highways in cities are being discussed by engineers from throughout Texas meeting here yesterday and today.

More than 65 engineers and other interested persons are attending the conference on "Planning and Design of Streets and Highways in Cities." Vice President Earl Rudder delivered the welcoming address.

Opening speaker was C. J. Keese, a professor in the Department of Civil Engineering and a research engineer in the Texas Transportation Institute. He stated that an estimated 1,170 billion miles will be driven on the nation's streets and highways in 1975. This is 400 billion more than in 1955.

"Twenty-one per cent of that travel will be on the new interstate highway system and 79 per cent on remaining highways and streets," Keese said. "The utmost in engineering skills will be demanded to make full utilization of existing and new facilities."

A panel with Keese as moderator was set up for a discussion on the integration of highway routes in the city street pattern.

That popular American plan — installment buying — has caught on in Austria and has boosted consumer sales tremendously.

A&M, Houston Vet Hospital Join in Therapy Training Plan

Cooperative training programs in corrective therapy and manual arts therapy have been approved between A&M and the Houston Veterans Administration Hospital.

Two departments of the college — Health and Physical Education and Industrial Education — will work directly with the Houston hospital in the program which was initiated because of a shortage of corrective therapists and manual arts therapists.

Students are eligible to participate in the program at the completion of their junior or senior year following recommendation by their department and approval by the Veterans Administration.

Applicants selected for this special program will receive six weeks of clinical training in corrective therapy or manual arts therapy at the Houston hospital.

Scientists Attend Three O&M Meets

Research scientists of the Department of Oceanography and Meteorology attended scientific meetings in three states last week.

Dr. William H. Clayton, assistant professor of oceanography and director of the micrometeorological research program, was in New Bedford, Mass., for a discussion on the use of satellites for global weather observation.

Dr. R. G. Bader, geological oceanographer, was in St. Louis, attending meetings of the American Geological Society and the Geochemical Society.

Robert O. Reid, associate professor of physical chemistry, was in Galveston for a hurricane survey conducted by the United States Army, Corps of Engineers.

'Y' Reps to Attend Meeting in Illinois

Representatives of the campus YMCA will attend the sixth National Student Assembly of the YMCA and YWCA Dec. 8 to Jan. 3 at the University of Illinois in Urbana, Ill.

"The focus of the assembly is to be the quest for authentic personal existence," said Carl Zietlow, assistant secretary of the A&M YMCA. According to Zietlow, the one-week conference is held every four years at various colleges in the U. S., and is the only way for the "Y" to speak as a body.

Points of discussion for the assembly will include interracial relationships, men and women in the 20th century, search of world community, and work and vocation.

To help cover expenses for the trip, the "Y" is selling candy and show calendars.

FIRST AID LESSON
NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Jesse Couch learned how to apply a tourniquet by watching television programs and the result may be a Boy Scout life-saving medal.

Dr. M. C. Maddrey says the 10-year-old boy's action in applying a tourniquet on his mother's arm after an automobile accident saved her life. The doctor is signing a certificate to that effect.
