

PROPOSED PETROLEUM ENGINEERING BUILDING
... bids to be taken Feb. 10

Structure Bids Let For Modern Pet. E. Building

Plans have been completed for the construction of a petroleum engineering building at A&M. Bids for construction will be received on Feb. 10, 1959.

The board of directors of the Texas A&M College System has allocated $1,140,000 for the new structure, including furniture and equipment.

The three-story structure will be erected on a site just east of the present petroleum engineering building and will be 200 feet long and will contain approximately 43,000 square feet of floor space. Design will be contemporary.

Robert L. Whiting, professor and head of the Petroleum Engineering Department, said the building will contain classrooms and laboratories for undergraduates and research laboratories for graduate students.

Connected to the main building by a covered passageway will be a one-story, high pressure wing. This portion of the building is designed for research on high pressure volatile fluids.

Plans for the building, which will house the Petroleum Engineering Department and the Texas Petroleum Research Committee, have been prepared by Ingram and Harris, a Beaumont architectural firm.

groggy. Well, Eisenhower came in briskly Wednesday and immediately launched into a five-minute lecture on the necessity—indeed, the moral duty—for defending Berlin.

Then came the customary flow of questions.

It wasn't until Truman's name came up that Eisenhower showed he still was in fighting trim.

On Monday, you may remember Truman said Eisenhower had been mad at him since 1952, but "I don't give a damn."

There was nothing personal, Truman said. It was just that he had "raised hell" with Eisenhower six years ago "when he didn't knock Sen. William Jenner off the platform after he called Gen. Marshall a traitor."

"It that good history?" Eisenhower was asked.

The President started out by saying everyone knows he has a little too much sense to get mad at anyone, but he looked at least a little mad as he said it.

Korea Missionary Speaks Saturday

Miss Dorothy Hubbard, who recently returned from teaching in Korea as a three-year missionary, will speak at the Wesley Foundation Saturday night at 7:15 on the topic, "The Mission of the Church in Revolutionary Lands."

Miss Hubbard, a graduate of Millsap College, Jackson, Miss., went to Korea as a missionary and taught at Ewha University, a Methodist school. While in Korea she also worked with local churches, summer Christian Youth Camps and helped guide other activities of young people.

She will return to Korea next year and will work in small village churches.

Traveling under the auspices of the Methodist Board of Missions, and the Methodist Student Movement, Miss Hubbard has worked closely with the Student Volunteer Movement which is concerned with young people of all denominations who are interested in missions.

During her visit to Texas she will visit more than 20 college campuses and will travel over 2,000 miles.

Ike Shows Spirit Despite Party Loss

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP)—The champ has recovered. He can sit up and take political nourishment. He showed he also can dish it out since, without using the exact words, he called former President Truman a liar.

The champ, of course, is President Eisenhower, who has just held his first news conference in five weeks.

His last one had come on Nov. 5, before all the votes had been counted but not before it was obvious that from coast to coast the Republicans had taken a fearful beating.

Reporters hurried in to ask that awful question: "What happened?"

The story of that conference read pretty much like all after-the-fight dressing room stories.

"What did he hit you with?" the reporters ask.

"I don't know," says the baffled warrior.

Political reporters, in reconstructing the Nov. 5 scene, said Eisenhower appeared puzzled. Fight writers, in describing similar scenes, usually use the word
