

Revolutionists Dissolve Batista Ties in Cuba

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—The revolutionary government dissolved Congress Tuesday and announced it will rule Cuba by decree for at least 18 months when new elections are planned.

The government suspended all criminal courts, regarded as a symbol of the fallen dictatorship of President Fulgencio Batista, and was reported preparing a decree abolishing all political parties.

The provisional regime dismissed all provincial governors, mayors and councilmen. Apparently their functions will be taken over by new civilian appointees prepared in advance for the task.

Other decrees, informed sources said, would ban all candidates in the 1954 and 1958 elections from Cuba's political life, freeze the private bank accounts of all Batista officials, and stop the cashing of all outstanding checks against the Batista regime.

Revolutionary courts were reported being prepared to try Batista, now in exile in the Dominican Republic, and other officials who may be accused of crimes during his rule.

In Washington, U.S. Atty. Gen.

William Rogers said Tuesday Batista would not be granted asylum in the United States if he sought it.

Batista is now in the Dominican Republic.

"There seems to be no question about any physical danger to Batista in the Dominican Republic," Rogers told newsmen.

Rogers noted that U.S. grants of asylum always involved a showing that the person seeking entry would be in physical danger if he remained where he was.

The initial policies of the new government were being shaped as Fidel Castro, the rebel leader who shoved Provisional President Manuel Urrutia to power, was still plodding through adoring throngs toward the capital. It was doubtful he would reach Havana today as planned.

The decree abolishing Congress said the Urrutia government could rule by ministerial decree until free elections were held. Urrutia has announced that these would be held in 18 to 20 months.

Aggie 'Y' Members Attend Nat'l Meeting

Sixteen Aggies attended the National YM-YWCA Student Assembly at the University of Illinois, Champaign, Ill., Dec. 27-Jan. 3.

The assembly is held every four years to discuss collegiate and world problems and to plan the next term's program.

Prominent national speakers gave talks on problems of the day and conflicts around the world. "Men and Women of the 20th Century," "Interracial Relationships," "World Community" and "Work and Vocation" were the discussion topics for the sectional meetings.

Rob Coffman, Dick McGlaun, Bill Shenkir, David Wallace and Jimmy Wolfe of A&M proposed that an "evaluation and study be made of the effectiveness of integration of student YMCA into general YMCA."

The group also felt there was a need to "study and evaluate the effectiveness and operation of the YM-YWCA staffs and structure of student movement and lines of communication on national, regional and local levels.

The trip was made by chartered bus and was financed by the "Y" candy sale and by individuals themselves. Students making the trip were Bobby Bennett, Mike Bozart, Coffman, Bob Compton, Jim Crouch, Alton Fischer, Spencer Hodge, Curtis May, Malcolm Maxwell, McGlaun, Billy Phillips, Roger Ratliff, Shenkir, Paul Van Nieuwenhuize, Wallace and Wolfe.

J. Gordon Gay, coordinator of religious life, and Carl Zietlow, associate secretary, YMCA, accompanied the students on the trip.

Neelley Appointed Fan Testing Chief

Charles E. Neelley has been appointed supervisor of the Fan Testing Services operated by the Texas Engineering Experiment Station, Dr. Aaron Rose, director of the TEES, said yesterday.

Neelley is a mechanical engineering graduate of A&M and has been associated with the fan testing and research program of the station for the past three years. He has had a part in the planning and designing of the modern fan testing laboratories of the station that are serving the needs of industry.

The laboratories are equipped with four modern plenum chambers for axial-flow fan testing and recently added facilities for centrifugal fan testing, Rose said.

Instrumentation Symposium Set

The 14th annual Symposium on Instrumentation for the Process Industries will be held at the Memorial Student Center, Jan. 21-23.

The symposium, presented by the Department of Chemical Engineering, is designed to lead to an improved understanding of the principles and practices of instrumentation as applied to industry, according to N. E. Welch, the symposium's director. Particular attention will be given to new developments, he said.

Dr. J. D. Lindsay, department head, is a member of the steering committee.

Talks will be directed toward all engineers whose work required knowledge of industrial instrumentation. Any person interested in the subject is invited to attend the sessions, Welch said.

A&M FORMER

to broaden the base of support for higher education, is sponsored by American business and industry and has been launched this year by a grant from the United States Steel Foundation. It is administered by the American Alumni Council.

Nine Classifications

The participating institutions competed for the awards in nine different classifications, a first-place certificate and check for $1,000 going to the leading college or school in each category. A&M, as the winner of the tax-supported college classification, was one of the nine which then were considered by the judges for the grand award and an additional $9,000 prize.

Texas Lutheran College of Seguin was the other Texas institution cited as the winner in the small co-educational college division. Princeton University in New Jersey was cited for private universities.

Aero Head Directs New York Session

A. E. Cronk, head of the Department of Aeronautical Engineering, will direct one of the technical sessions at the Symposium on Aero-Space Technology of the Institute of the Aeronautical Sciences in New York City, Jan. 26-29.

The session is one of the challenge of space technology to aeronautical engineering education.
