

Conference Plans No Action In Aggie Basketball Incident

DALLAS (AP)—Ab Curtis, assistant secretary of the Southwest Conference, said yesterday the conference plans to take no action on an incident at College Station Tuesday when Texas A&M basketball fans bombarded officials and players with trash and swarmed onto the floor.

Don Rossi, one of the officials for the A&M-TCU game, visited Curtis yesterday to report informally on what happened.

"Rossi said it was a wild scene," Curtis said. "But we don't do anything unless we get an official protest. The school itself generally takes corrective steps through its student leaders."

The incident began with about four minutes remaining in the game and with TCU leading by more than 20 points.

TCU's Kenneth King was ejected for landing an elbow uppercut on A&M's Jack Collier.

Then Collier and TCU's Ronnie Stevenson exchanged words and staged a brief scuffle.

A crowd of Aggies rushed onto the floor and was met by A&M coach Bob Rogers and the A&M team.

"The fans were going after the officials," Rogers said today, "but we held them off. I shouted for the people to get back into the stands and they did."

"I don't know whether we owe anybody an apology. If we do, I guess we'll apologize. But I don't think anybody has a complaint. I've seen lots worse happen on a basketball court."

TCU coach Buster Brannon said "that kind of thing happens. I'd rather forget about it and think about our next game."

A shower of paper cups and paper airplanes had fallen around the players during most of the game, which TCU won 76-64.

Ruben Amaro, St. Louis Cardinal infielder, was brought up from Rochester this season. He had batted .200 in 92 games. He is a native of Mexico.

The first football scoreboard was used when Pennsylvania played Harvard at Cambridge in 1893.

INTRAMURALS

Class A pingpong finished up Tuesday with C Infantry taking the title. After winning their league, the Infantry crew took Squadron 10, Squadron 17 and A Ordnance to cinch the title.

Class A handball is coming to a close. A Ordnance took Squadron 17 in the semi-final round, and will play the winner of the A Infantry-Chemical game for the championship.

In the quarterfinals in Class A football yesterday, A Ordnance took Squadron 10, 13-6, on two touchdowns and an extra point to cinch a place in the semifinals. A Field downed Squadron 3 in a close one, 6-0. They will meet A Ordnance in the semifinals today.

In the other bracket, A Athletics took a 16-15 squeaker from A Infantry. The athletes scored extra points after each touchdown. The teams were fairly even on penetrations. Squadron 17 will meet A Athletics today, since they took a 12-0 victory over C Field yesterday. The field artillery team had no penetrations while the "ground-pounders" racked up eight.

Eight teams will be contesting for the top spot in Class B bowling. Maroon Band, Squadron 4, B Armor, B Field, A Field, A-TC and A Ordnance have already cinched quarterfinal positions. Squadron 18 and B-AAA will play for the other position.

Squadron 17 leads the Class A intramurals in total points at present with 330. A Field and B Ordnance are tied for second with 295 each.

In Class B, A Infantry is leading the league with 365 total points, followed by Squadron 17 in a solid second place with 360 points.

In other games yesterday, College View scored a 22-8 victory over Puryear to take the Class C football finals. The winners had six penetrations. Puryear won their final game in Class C pingpong Tuesday, taking Walton three out of five games.

Three forfeits were recorded in the Class B handball matches Monday and Tuesday. A Field forfeited to Squadron 6, A Signal to Squadron 17 and A-AAA gave one to Squadron 9. Yesterday, B Composite took two out of three from Squadron 10 in league J.

Two horseshoes games this week saw A Chemical edging out B Field, taking two matches out of three, and Squadron 13 winning two from Maroon Band.

Two leagues have been decided in Class A handball. B-AAA has won league A, winning three and losing none. B Field has won four and lost none in league H.

Slater Martin Uninterested In Longhorn Coaching Post

AUSTIN (AP)—Slater Martin, University of Texas basketball star a decade ago, said yesterday he was not interested in becoming head basketball coach at his alma mater.

"Take my name off the list because I'm not interested now," Martin said from Philadelphia, Pa., in a telephone interview with the Austin American. "It's just a little too early yet. Maybe in a couple of years it might change."

Martin said he wired Texas Athletic Director Ed Olle not to consider him as a successor to Marshall Hughes.

Hughes, 41, announced his resignation last month. The Longhorns are in the midst of one of their worst basketball seasons.

Martin's refusal was the second time he has turned down a job with Texas. He was offered the freshman coaching job three years ago when Hughes moved up to coach the varsity, the Austin American said.

Olle said he did not know about Martin's decision.

"We aren't close to the stage of hiring a coach yet," he said.

Martin was reportedly boomed for the job by exes because of his star playing in the Southwest Conference and as a professional with St. Louis. At 33, Martin is the oldest player in the National Basketball Assn.

SPORT SLANTS

By BOB WEEKLEY

A&M Saturday night will host the Bear basketball team and any members of the Baylor student body that might travel to Aggieland to back their team.

For two consecutive years Aggies have traveled to Waco to stand up for their team as the 12th Man and returned from the parochial school with tattered clothes and bruised pride.

But act like real Aggies Saturday, Ags! Yesterday the Southwest Conference announced it plans to take no action on the incident that occurred in the final minutes of the TCU-A&M game Tuesday. In handing down the statement Abe Curtis, assistant secretary of the conference said:

"We (the conference) don't do anything in these cases unless we get an official protest. The school itself generally takes corrective steps through its student leaders."

A&M is lucky that such a soft-spoken verdict was handed down. If the officials had been mobbed it is entirely possible that the school could have been placed on some type of probation which could have severely hampered the school's athletic program.

The school is also lucky that numerous technical fouls were not called on the home team because of the cup throwing and name calling that took place during the game.

Not only do such actions as this hurt the basketball team, but it also damages the reputation of the school and its students. It takes only one incident caused by some unthinking student to damn the school for years.

Schools that have resorted to physical violence during athletic contests have been heavily censored by the press in the past. People over the state have taken notice of this and the schools concerned have been hurt in both enrollment and their public relations.

There has not been an incident of this type at A&M for years and there will not be one this year. Aggies will prove they are men and act like tradition has dictated in the past.

Revenge will have to come on someone else's home grounds.
