

New Church, New Center Available to Catholic Aggies

(Ed. Note: This is the second in a series of articles designed to familiarize students with churches in the area in connection with Religious Emphasis Week.)

By ROBBIE GODWIN
Battalion Staff Writer

Perhaps it was mere coincidence that brought the Catholic Student Center and the Rev. Charles Elmer to the A&M campus at the same time five years ago.

The modern center, completed in 1953, houses the chaplain's office, a chapel, television lounge, record library, kitchen and a recreational area.

Just after its completion, Father Elmer was assigned chaplain of St. Mary's Chapel and the Catholic Aggies. The Rev. Tim J. Valenta of Bryan is pastor of the church.

But the center is not all that's new at St. Mary's. A $280,000 chapel was built during the past year and it was dedicated to the late Msgr. J. B. Gliessner, pastor at A&M since 1904, last Oct. 19.

Father Elmer, besides being active in all phases of church work, is a captain in the 318th Infantry Reserve, acting as chaplain of that unit. He is also chaplain of the A&M Newman Club.

Ruring RE Week, the daily 6:30 a.m. Mass will be said by the Rev. Charles Lemieux, who for 12 years was professor of philosophy at Loyola University in New Orleans. A 5-minute meditation will follow each Mass.

At 5:15 p.m. each day, he will say Mass and hold a 20-minute conference on spiritual life. Benediction and another conference will be held daily at 7:15 p.m.

Father Lemieux will hold a special conference on Tuesday night when he will talk to married students, and on Wednesday night when he will address those planning marriage.

Father Elmer said RE Week service last year were well attended and expects even better attendance now with the added facilities.
