Aggie Wives Plan Operator's School For April Carnival

The Aggie Wives Council will present a carnival on Saturday, April 4, at the A&M Consolidated High School Gymnasium to raise funds for one of the local charity groups and the respective wives clubs.

There will be 28 booths operated by various student wives clubs on the campus. Found in the booths will be a baby photo contest, a powder puff throw and a kissing booth, along with pony rides, a wild animal show, a cake walk and a Charleston line.

Hamburgers, hot dogs and cotton candy will also be sold.

There will be a one cent general admission fee.

Manila Engineer Here for Study

Edmundo H. Capistrano of the Philippines has arrived at A&M for a three-week study in the Department of Oceanography and Meteorology.

He is working with Dr. Basil Wilson and Robert O. Reid, associate professors of oceanography, on a study concerning waves generated by hurricanes.

Capistrano is senior civil engineer, Division of Ports and Harbors, Manila, Philippines. He attended the University of the Philippines in 1939-41 and received a B. S. degree in civil engineering from Mapua Institute of Technology in Manila in 1949.

He will be in this country until the end of April as a participant in the training program sponsored by the International Cooperation Administration. From A&M he will go to the Vicksburg Waterways Experiment Station, Vicksburg, Miss.

Operator's School Has 26 Students

Maximum enrollment of 26 was reached for the Heavy Equipment Operator's School which began March 9, under the sponsorship of the Engineering Extension Service.

This school limits the enrollment to 16 students in phase one and 10 students in phase two of the course. This makes available a machine for every student and the instructor can spend ample time with each student, said Alvin W. Jones, chief instructor.

Phase one gives training in the basic care and operation of crawler and rubber-tired tractors, motor graders, scrapers (both tractor-drawn and self-propelled), and all equipment used with these machines, he said.

Phase two of the program gives training in the operation of excavating equipment such as cranes, draglines, clamshells, shovels and hoes.

These courses consist of 60 hours of classroom instructions, 80 hours of field maintenance and 100 hours of practical operation.

Ch.E. Juniors Plan Houston Field Trip

Junior chemical engineers will make an annual inspection tour of several Houston industrial companies March 23-25.

According to Dr. J. D. Lindsey of the Department of Chemical Engineering, the juniors will go to Houston and surrounding areas to make an inspection of the following companies:

Monday—Magnolia and The Kopper Company.

Tuesday—E. T. Dupont Company and Texas-United States Chemical Company.

Wednesday—Sheffield Steel and Champion Paper & Fiber Company.

The trip is three-fold in purpose. It will give the students a chance to see some of the class room theory in use, give the companies a chance to see some of the future graduates and give the companies a chance to show their facilities, Lindsey said.

WHO SAID IT FIRST?

A column of incidental intelligence by Jockey brand

"LOVE IS BLIND"
Next to the Bible, Shakespeare is the richest source of common quotes. He's responsible for this one, too. See his "Merchant of Venice," Act II, Scene 6:
"But love is blind, and lovers cannot see
The petty follies that themselves commit."

"THIRTY DAYS HATH SEPTEMBER," ETC.
No need to recite further from this bit of doggerel which has served us all as a pony ever since grade school. For this universal handy reference we are indebted to a man named Richard Grafton who was nice enough to compose the rhyme way back in 1570.

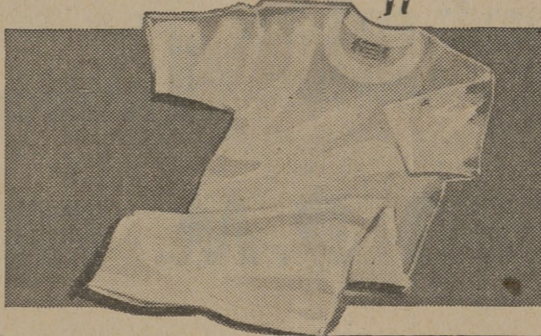

"PUT IT IN YOUR PIPE"
No, Sir Walter Raleigh didn't originate this smoker's challenge. It was R. H. Barham, in "The Lay of St. Odille":
"For this you've my word,
and I never yet broke it,
So put that in your pipe,
My Lord Otto, and smoke it."

Jockey T-Shirts

The most respected, creative name in underwear is Jockey brand. It stands to reason, then, that Jockey brand T-shirts are unmatched for quality as well as styling. You can choose from standard T-shirt, "taper-tee" shirt, sleeveless t-shirt, and V-neck T-shirt models. Every man needs a drawer full of T-shirts—and the label to look for is Jockey brand. Let it guide you to the world's finest underwear.

D. M. Shelton... new staff member

Electrical Expert Assumes Position

D. M. Shelton, electrical superintendent at Bowie for the past 13 years, has taken a position as instructor in charge of municipal electrical training for the Engineering Extension Service.

Shelton's duties will include travel over the state conducting classes to develop sound, practical training and safety programs for municipal electrical employees. His headquarters will be maintained at College Station.

Born in Mertens, Shelton worked for six years as electrical lineman in the Fort Worth and Eastland areas before entering the U. S. Navy as Chief Warrant Electrician during World War II. He was recalled to active duty during the Korean conflict, then accepted the position at Bowie where he worked until joining the Engineering Extension Service.

Bridge Tournament Slated in MSC

The Memorial Student Center, Bridge Tournament, sponsored jointly by the MSC Bridge Committee and the National Intercollegiate Bridge Tournament, will be conducted in the MSC March 20.

Entry in the tournament is open to undergraduates who are regularly matriculated and enrolled as candidates for an undergraduate degree at the time of the tournament, according to Miss Gladys Black, advisor to the group.

Awards will be given to the winning college. Campus winners will receive a certificate suitable for framing, she added.

President Fears Nuclear War Over Berlin

WASHINGTON (AP)— President Eisenhower Wednesday ruled out ground warfare in Europe and said everyone might as well understand that nuclear warfare over the Berlin crisis is not "a complete impossibility."

Yet Eisenhower stood firm at a news conference against pressure from some powerful congressional Democrats to bolster the nation's defenses with more money, missiles and men—particularly men.

If Congress persists in providing more manpower for the Army and Marines, the commander in chief said he supposed he'll have to put them "some place where it's nice, to keep them out of the way, because I don't know what else to do with them."

A bit plaintively, Eisenhower said that every time something called a crisis develops, whether it is Sputniks, Quemoy or Korea, "everybody has an answer."

He pleaded with the country to stand steady, to avoid hysteria and going "a little bit off half-cocked." Because of the actions and attitudes of communism, the President said, "we are living and we are going to live in a tense period."

He said it would be ruinous to be "pushed off" time and again, by something suddenly described as a crisis, from a defense plan which he said represents the nearest approach to a consensus of those people who are best informed on the subject.

While he was at it, Eisenhower took a dig or two at what he termed wisecracks of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev. He didn't think much, he said, of Khrushchev's suggestion for making West Berlin a free city and garrisoning it with Soviet as well as French, British and U. S. troops.

He took a series of swipes, too, at critics of his defense program, and at those who say it ought to be strengthened regardless of whether this throws the budget out of balance. Key Democrats fired back, in a manner to indicate they still intend to write their own ticket on defense.

Eisenhower said he was tired of talking about "the idea of balanced budget against national security," and he added: "I say that a balanced budget in the long run is a vital part of national security."

If a defense spending goes up 5 billion dollars this year, and then 7, 8, 9 and 10 more, he said, the economy will wind up as a garrison state.
