Corps Baseball Play Begins Again Monday

No games are scheduled this week in the Corps Baseball Program because Travis Park is being used by area high school teams, but activity will resume Monday night.

After rough sledding since the start of play in February until the Easter holiday break, the 8-team Air Force and Army leagues find themselves with a total of 35 games to be played before the end of the season. Each team must play seven games in all.

Rain and a shortage of umpires caused postponement of numerous games in the first round of play, and high school teams now using the diamond on some nights have further complicated matters. However, the schedule for the second half calls for play to be wrapped up around May 7.

The rules committee will attempt to arrange for some makeup games to be played on the A&M varsity and fish diamonds when those teams are playing out of town.

No definite plans for a playoff at the end of regular play have been made as of now. Details will depend on how soon all scheduled games are played and will be announced at a later date.

Team captains of both leagues will meet in the Press Club Library Monday at 5 p.m. to pick up schedules and iron out remaining rough spots in the program, Fred Meurer, coordinator, announced.

Monday night's games will see the AAA battalion square off with the Civilians at 7:30, while the 4th Group takes on the Air Force Civilians in the 9:15 nightcap.

Superstitious Men Like No. 13 Horse

LONDON (AP)—Horse players will be watching for the next race of Hands Off, a steeplechaser.

At Whetherby, Yorkshire, Tuesday Hands Off was No. 13 on the race card. His owner, Tom Todrick, was given club badge No. 13 and Hands Off was ridden by Jockey Patrick Hurley, who has 13 letters in his name.

Hands Off won at the nearest price British bookies lay to 13-1—100-8.

SPORT SLANTS

By BOB WEEKLEY

The Aggie football team, a single-wing unit last fall which finished with a 4-6 record, will try to improve its record in the conference next season with a new offense and a fine crop of young sophomores.

For the second year in a row Coach Jim Myers, now in his second season as head coach at Aggie, will install a new system, the multiple offense. The offense is multiple in that the Cadets will still favor their old single-wing but will switch to the T-formation when the occasion warrants.

There are a lot of reasons for this, but the main one might well be that of trying to get more punch inside the 20-yard line. Last year the Farmers penetrated that far 20 or 30 times but couldn't muster the power to push the ball across the goal line.

In this new formation the Cadets may run their single-wing formation as much as half the time before switching into the "T" that will be winged and feature all the traditional variations.

Focal point of the offensive attack will again center around Charley Milstead, the aerial ace from Tyler. Milstead's speed, or rather the lack of it, won't hurt him so much from the quarterback slot while his experience at the tailback position will prove invaluable.

The switchover from the single-wing won't be such a large problem as Myers and his staff experienced a year ago in bringing that formation to Aggie. Really the only difference in the attack is that the tailback is under the center while the linemen still trap in the single-wing method.

Milstead will be more effective at the quarterback position because of the running-pass plays. He should have time to build up his speed in case he needs to turn the corner while his pass will be a threat that every defensive back and linebacker will have to respect.

Sophomores will fill in the much needed speed gap the Aggie backfield lacked last year, and they are also expected to lend weight and depth to the Farmer line.

Such standouts as the speedy Jesse McGuire and the hard running Rodger MacFarland will be ready to move into position in case the durable Milstead falters, while Daryle Keeling, Eddie Van Dyke and Jim Murphy have power to spare when it comes to bulling their way through the opposing line.

Myers also has a hard core of veterans around which to form his new formation. There are lettermen at every position while the starting backfield could remain entirely unchanged from last season.

Co-captain Gale Oliver, a center last season, has been moved to the tackle position while prospective junior Roy Northrup hold down center now.

The guards return intact this season with both Allen Goehring and Carter Franklin ready to fight for their starting roles.

Both of the ends will be new at the starting post, although both of them did start several times last year. They are Ralph Smith, brother of graduating starter Don, and Jack Estes, the rangy sophomore from Olton.

Meanwhile the backfield will be composed of such worthies as Gordon LeBoeuf, Milstead, Randy Sims and Jon Few.
