

Maroons and Whites Fight to 0-0 Tie In Defense Sparked Intrasquad Battle

The Aggie spring gridsters found the aftermath of three straight days of rain too much and the Maroon and White intrasquad teams battled to a muddy, scoreless tie on rain-soaked Kyle Field Saturday.

Heavy rains, which forced many practice postponements for the Farmers, halted the triangular track meet with SMU and Rice, and canceled the Rice-A&M baseball game that was scheduled for the annual High School Spring sports day.

The Maroons, composed largely of varsity players, edged the younger Whites in the statistical battle, but the enthusiastic sophomores-to-be put up a whale of a fight.

"I was pleased with the poise and defense of both units," said Coach Jim Myers following the game. "We needed to pass more but it was simply too muddy."

Jon Few, operating from left half and tailback for the Maroons, took top laurels among the backs with powerful thrusts off tackle and the ends netting him 72 yards in 16 tries. Maroon fullback Gordon LeBoeuf was next in the rushing department with 61 yards on 16 tries.

The Maroons far outdistanced the Whites in statistics, gaining 205 yards rushing to 78 for the Whites. The Maroon squad made 15 first downs to 7 for their opponents.

Maroon quarterback Charley Milstead completed four of eleven passes for the Maroons and had two intercepted while Eddie Van Dyke completed the only White pass.

The Aggies, considered one of the passingest teams in the nation last year, found little opportunity to sling the slippery pigskin around Saturday night and only once did either team threaten to score, but it was a pass that set it up.

Late in the second quarter the Maroons threatened after LeBoeuf intercepted a pass thrown by Roger MacFarland. Few swept right end for 20 yards to move the ball down to the 30 and Pete Angermiller advanced the ball to the 15 on a dash up the middle.

Few collected only two yards on the next play but Milstead's trusty arm came to the rescue on a 13 yard pass to Dick Love that put the oval on the two.

Disaster then hit the Maroons when Milstead fumbled on the next play and left end Bob Phillips raced in to recover the ball. The half ended before the Whites could put the ball in play.

The only other prolonged drive of the game came in the fourth quarter when the Maroons again opened an offensive drive that carried to the White 25.

They moved 52 yards in 15 plays. LeBoeuf and right half Randy Sims accounted for most of the yardage before the drive was halted when two of Milstead's passes fell incomplete. A 15 yard clipping penalty had forced the Ags to try the aerial route.

The Aggies will have another intrasquad game Saturday. Only four days remain on the Cadet spring training schedule.

"LOVE IS BLIND"

Next to the Bible, Shakespeare is the richest source of common quotes. He's responsible for this one, too. See his "Merchant of Venice," Act II, Scene 6:
"But love is blind, and lovers cannot see The petty follies that themselves commit."

"THIRTY DAYS HATH SEPTEMBER," ETC.

No need to recite further from this bit of doggerel which has served us all as a pony ever since grade school. For this universal handy reference we are indebted to a man named Richard Grafton who was nice enough to compose the rhyme way back in 1570.

"PUT IT IN YOUR PIPE"

No, Sir Walter Raleigh didn't originate this smoker's challenge. It was R. H. Barham, in "The Lay of St. Odille's"
"For this you've my word, and I never yet broke it, So put that in your pipe, My Lord Otto, and smoke it."
