

Cong. Teague Speaks at Gathering

Muster Tradition Termed As Moment of Reflection

Hon. Olin E. Teague
... in outer space lies hope of permanent peace

At Saturday Banquet

Artist - Preacher To Address BSU

By GAYLE McNUTT
Executive News Editor

Jack Hamm, a preacher with a unique method of reaching his congregation, will speak Saturday night before an expected 150 or more guests at the annual Baptist Student Union Banquet.

Hamm, a commercial art instructor at Baylor University at Waco, does his preaching through free syndicated religious sketches and cartoons. The Waco artist spends several hundred dollars each week from his own pocketbook, and sometimes goes in debt, to supply the cartoons free to any newspaper in the world that will print them.

He has many takers. Currently his drawings appear in more than a thousand publications throughout the U.S., and through translations, in 30-odd foreign countries. Through this media, he reaches a public estimated at more than 30 million persons each week.

He has been interested in art since the age of 5 and turned his back on a promising career in commercial art to answer the call of the gospel. Combining his artistic talent and his desire to spread God's word, Hamm's home-styled syndicate was born.

Hamm started the free service as a hobby. But the hobby grew into a job that is a day-and-night project, taking up three-quarters of his time. Each week he and his wife mail out two cartoons (in order to give editors a choice) to each publication on his long list of "subscribers." In the past he has found it necessary to take part-time jobs such as illustrating comic strips to pay the tremendous costs of his "hobby." Except for donations from friends he has carried the entire expense of materials, production and postage, not counting the man-hours of labor on his own shoulders. He staunchly refuses all offers of pay for his service.

"For me it is God's way," states Hamm. "I believe that religion, not world-wide diplomacy, is the answer to today's problems."

The 43-year old artist has won international acclaim for both his art work and service to America and the religious field and has won several national awards for his work.

"Mr. Hamm is without the most outstanding man in the field of religious art," commented Rufus Spraberry, BSU director. "We are indeed fortunate to have him as our guest and speaker."

The banquet will be held at 6:30 p.m. at Clayton's Restaurant in Bryan. Tickets for the dinner are $2 and reservations may be made at the BSU Office at North Gate or by calling VI 6-6411 by noon Thursday, according to Ben Trotter, BSU president, who will emcee the banquet program.

CS Resident Hurt In Collision Here

A car-truck collision at East Gate of College Station at 12:55 p.m. yesterday injured a College Station man, C. C. Rice of 1013 Walton Dr.

Rice, driver of the car, was hit by a truck driven by an unidentified Bryan Negro. The truck was loaded with cattle.

According to College Station Police Chief Lee Norwood, Rice was said by witnesses to have run a stop sign crossing Highway 6 and apparently did not see the truck approaching. The truck slammed into the right side of Rice's car.

Only Rice was injured. He was taken immediately to Bryan Hospital by Callaway-Jones Ambulance. His condition is reported satisfactory.

Tells of Man's Last, Greatest Frontier

By BILL REED
Battalion News Editor

The 57th annual Aggie Muster was termed as "a moment of reflection, of prayer, of thanksgiving for the past, of hope in the future," by the Hon. Olin E. Teague, '32, member of U. S. Congress, as approximately 5,000 persons attended the program in G. Rollie White Coliseum yesterday.

"Today—on the 123rd anniversary of the winning of Texas independence—we participate with Texas A&M men all over the world in a living tradition of loyalty and comradeship.

"And, also, today we dedicate ourselves to the challenging and essential task of making our own constructive contribution to the existing tradition which our forebearers have built," the congressman said.

Speaking at the 57th year of gatherings to honor the heroes of the Battle of San Jacinto and to pay homage to all A&M men who have passed on, Cong. Teague described the United States' conquest for peace.

He told of the bombing of Hiroshima and the development of the atom and more recently the development of missiles and outer space travel.

Outer space is "man's last and greatest frontier," he said in explaining to the students that "it will be your generation's task to win this last, essential frontier and hold it." In it "lies the hope of total, permanent peace."

"When I sat where you are now sitting, I thought I was facing a challenging future," he said. "Compared to what you face, the challenge of 1932 was mere child's play."

He told that it will no longer be sufficient for an educated man to conform, from now on he must perform. There are certain intangibles that he told that are taught better in the U.S. than anywhere else on earth.

"I refer to those intangibles as self-reliance, imagination, loyalty, courage, daring, industry and honor. These have been the proud characteristics of A&M men in the past."

He cited that Gen. Randolph Pate, Commandant of the Marine Corps, told him recently that "in Spraberry, BSU director. "We are indeed fortunate to have him as our guest and speaker."

In closing, Cong. Teague told the gathering to "hold fast to your tradition, hold fast to what you have been taught, and hold fast to what you believe," and "if the world is to be saved from dissolution, it will be saved by you and by others like you in every corner of the free world."

"Preacher with a Pen"

Jack Hamm, noted religious cartoonist, who sends his work free each week to more than 1,000 publications in the United States and foreign countries, displays one of his larger drawing samples. He will speak Saturday night at the Baptist Student Union Banquet.

Army Inspector Team Due Here Tomorrow

Annual Inspection Set All Day Friday

News of the World

By The Associated Press

War In Germany "Militarily Hopeless"

MOSCOW—The Soviet Union warned West Germany Tuesday that its position as a nuclear arsenal of the West in any future war would be "militarily hopeless."

The note re-emphasized that West Germany is laying itself open to dangerous consequences by arming with U. S.-supplied nuclear weapons, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko said.

★ ★ ★

Starkweather Goes to Chair May 22

LINCOLN, Neb.—Nebraska's pardon board refused Tuesday to commute killer Charles Starkweather's death sentence.

It set May 22 as the new date for his death in the electric chair.

The decision followed quickly after a hearing at which the 20-year-old redhead told the board, he "just wasn't represented right" by counsel at his trial last year.

★ ★ ★

Dalai Lama Resides in Exile

MUSSOORIE, India—The Dalai Lama took up residence in exile Tuesday in a 32-room mansion 75 miles south of the snow-covered Himalayan border of Tibet.

The Tibetan god-king ended his trip by foot, donkey, pony, car and by train five weeks after fleeing from Lhasa, his Communist-occupied capital.

Scores of security police and plainclothes men dotted the 55-acre grounds of his new home behind a still incomplete barbed wire fence as the Dalai Lama arrived with his usual sunny smile.

Senators Refuse Teacher Raises

AUSTIN (AP)—Senators balked Tuesday at considering passage of the 123 million dollar a year Hale-Aikin school package without having any money to pay for it.

The school improvement program, centering on an $800 a year teacher pay raise, may be lost for the regular session unless a tax bill and final appropriations budget are whipped through before the session dies in three weeks.

Sen. A. M. Aikin Jr. of Paris got only a 16-15 vote on his motion to lay out his bill, SB5. Two thirds of the members voting, or 21 votes were necessary.

Aikin admitted the vote "was a bad setback, but I'm not going to give up. I may try to bring it up again if the opportunity presents itself. I'll do all I can to pass it."

Before the vote, he told his colleagues he would submit an amendment that the bill could not become effective until a financing method has been approved.

Sen. R. A. Weinert, Senate dean and backstage voice of the conservatives, led the charge in a rare flood attack. He said "the timing of trying to bring it up now is utterly wrong. We don't even have a tax bill over here. . . no one knows how much that tax bill is going to raise."

"The little land and home owners can't take it any more. If you were at home looking at the family budget you would figure you had this much credit and could afford to spend this much money. This is going at it just backwards. We are going to spend it and then how are we going to find the money to pay for it?" Weinert said.

Sen. Hubert Hudson of Brownsville objected to the inclusion of all recommendations of the Hale-Aikin school study committee in one bill.

Last Bomarc Series

Snark ICBM Logs Trip Over Atlantic

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A Snark intercontinental guided missile logged an apparently highly successful round trip yesterday after being fired by a crack military crew.

The fiery launching was one of the final tune-ups for the 69-foot Northrop missile that is expected to be assigned to combat troops within the next two months.

Sources said the predawn shot ran like clockwork as the sleek missile cruised close to 1,000 miles over the Atlantic, spun around and alighted back on the Cape's landing strip several hours later.

The same missile completed a similar flight several months ago. Later, a supersonic Bomarc interceptor missile blazed aloft to seek out and "kill" a simulated enemy target over the Atlantic. It was the final launching of the present Bomarc series from the Cape.

The sleek Boeing missile, which has made more than 50 flights from the Cape, was aimed at a

By DAVE STOKER
Battalion News Editor

An 11-man Army team, headed by Col. Robert J. Hill Jr., will arrive here tomorrow afternoon to conduct the annual federal inspection of the Army Corps of Cadets all day Friday.

Expected to arrive with Hill and the team are Lt. Col. John C. Allan, GS (Armor); Maj. George H. Worf, Artillery; Lt. Col. Walter C. Henderson, Engineer Section; Maj. Festus E. Harrison, Chemical Section; Col. Charles Askins, Ordnance; Maj. Fred W. Dollar, Quartermaster Section; Lt. Col. Gerald M. Cravens, Signal Section; Lt. Col. Gordon F. Tyrrell, Transportation Section; Lt. Col. Harold M. Kennedy, GS (Infantry), Combat Arms; and Capt. Arthur J. White, Army Aviation Section.

Each officer will inspect his respective branch here on the campus.

The team is expected to arrive at Easterwood Airport, Bryan, tomorrow at 3 p.m. Members to comprise the inspection team will mainly be several officers from Fourth Army Headquarters, Fort Sam Houston.

Federal inspection of the Army will begin Friday morning. According to Capt. John W. Simmons, Department of Military Science, A&M, the team will cover the campus Friday inspecting each corps class, military science classroom instruction, the use of government property and training schedules.

The last 15 minutes of each military science class will be given to team inspectors who will ask questions, Simmons said. Friday at 5:30 p.m. the inspection team will inspect the Corps in front of the dorms.

A Federal Review will be held on the drill field in front of the Memorial Student Center Saturday morning at 9, weather permitting. Maj. Gen. L. S. Griffing, deputy commanding general Fourth Army, Fort Sam Houston, will be (See INSPECTION Page 4)

CORRECTION

Tuesday's Battalion reported that this year's Aggie Muster was the 56th annual Muster gathering.

Since the Muster Ceremonies were started on April 21, 1903, this year makes the 57th year.

The Battalion regrets making this error and wishes to record the correct number for future use.

House Director Speaks Tonight In Ballroom

Dr. Charles S. Sheldon, present technical director of the House of Representatives Committee on Science and Astronautics, will speak on "The Exploration of Space: A Challenge to America" tonight at 8 p.m. in the Memorial Student Center Ballroom.

Sheldon has helped prepare many congressional space reports and studies.

A graduate of the University of Washington, Sheldon also received M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from Harvard. At various times he has taught course in economics; air, rail, highway and water transportation; foreign trade; and related subjects at the University of Washington.

He served intermittently in the U. S. Navy from 1943-1952. He first served as logistics officer of the Oakland Naval Supply Depot and on the staff of the Naval Intelligence School.

Since 1955 he has had assignments with the Joint Economic Committee of Congress as staff economist for foreign economic policy, defense essentiality and United States-Soviet comparisons.

Among other things, he has studied at the California Institute of Technology, White Sands Proving Grounds and the atomic defense, biological and chemical warfare schools at Fort McClellan, Kan.

CS Kiwanians Host Secretary Group

"Give your secretary your best and she will give you her best," Mrs. Sue Cox, president of the local chapter of the National Secretaries Assn., told College Station Kiwanians yesterday.

In observing National Secretaries Week, the Kiwanis Club hosted 28 secretaries of club members at their Tuesday luncheon. In accordance, the title of Mrs. Cox's speech was "You and Your Secretary."

"A secretary appreciates a good 'boss' just as a good 'boss' appreciates a good secretary," Mrs. Cox said. "If she knows her work is appreciated she will go out of her way to see that she does a better job than is expected of her."

She gave a summary of the characteristics that are required to become a successful secretary, as well as those necessary in an employer to get the best work from his secretary.

In closing, Mrs. Cox urged all Kiwanians not to "let the world pass their secretaries by" but to help them in bettering themselves by allocating time and money to their secretaries for extra training and membership in the NSA, which is dedicated to raising standards and efficiency of secretarial work.