

Design Award Winners

CSC Members To Talk Banquet

The Civilian Student Council Banquet Monday evening is expected to dominate the discussion at the Civilian Student Council meeting tonight at 7:15 in the Senate Chamber of the Memorial Student Center.

The annual banquet will be held Monday at 6 p.m. in the Assembly Room of the MSC. The outstanding council member will be named at the banquet and various other awards will be presented.

Other business on tonight's agenda includes a report on finance, a student Senate report, a report from the Public Information Committee, the leadership retreat and a weekend report.

New business will include a discussion of Parents' Day, a Chaplain Selection Committee report and discussion of the election of officers.

"Incoming members will attend this meeting as guests of the Council so they can become acquainted with each other and Council procedures to better enable them to assume their duties at the next regular meeting," Fred Pendleton, secretary, said.

Foreign Oil Imports Slump to Low Level

NEW YORK (AP)—Imports of foreign oil slumped last week to their lowest level in more than a year, the American Petroleum Institute disclosed Wednesday.

U. S. buyers received 1,114,600 barrels of foreign crude and products a day—lowest since the daily average of 1,080,600 barrels in the week ended Feb. 21, 1958.

Output of U.S. fields averaged 7,133,025 barrels of crude oil and lease condensate a day, a decline of 1,100 from the week before. Daily production a year ago was 6,267,835 barrels.

student and public interest in better lighting and to acquaint students with some of the latest advances in lighting, wiring and other electrical facilities.

Students could enter plans suited for the Northeast, Northwest, Southeast and Southwest regions. The A&M students, the only Texas or Louisiana college students named winners in the national competition, designed houses suited for the Southwest climate.

The homes designed by the students could not exceed 1,300 square feet of living area, nor cost more than $20,000, exclusive of lot, but must accommodate a family of four and include electrical equipment and major appliances.

Frenchman Fails in Balloon Attempt

PARIS (AP)—A French scientist soared away on a string of pearly white balloons Wednesday night for a clear peep at Venus from the stratosphere. Audouin Dollfus came back to earth safely early Thursday, the French Air Force reported, without having attained his goal.

The takeoff was from Paris and the landing between Nevers and Moulins, the air base at Bretigny reported.

An air officer said the maximum height reached was between 38,000 and 43,000 feet. He had hoped to rise to 82,500 feet and make observations of the planet Venus.

Three Architects Win Awards

Three A&M students have been named winners in the 1959 Light for Living Medallion home design competition for student architects.

They are Paul M. Terrill Jr. of Houston, Rex M. Boone of San Angelo, and Brady D. Armstrong of Shreveport, La.

Each student received a check for $400 and A&M received $100 for each student winner.

The contest was sponsored nationally by Edison Electric Institute, in Houston by Houston Lighting and Power Co., in the San Angelo area by West Texas Utilities Co. of Abilene, and in Shreveport by Southwestern Electric Power Co.

The competition, open to students of accredited schools of architecture, was designed to stimulate
