

Belgian Missionary Plans Campus Visit

The Rev. Frank McElroy Jr., Presbyterian missionary to the Belgian Congo, will be on campus Wednesday and Thursday to speak and counsel with students and faculty.

The Rev. McElroy will speak at the Presbyterian Student Center Wednesday evening at 7 p.m. and will be at the YMCA Thursday morning for conversation with students and staff.

For the past two years, The Rev. McElroy has been working out of the Moma station, the frontier station of the Presbyterian mission in the Congo, among several tribes, including the Basala, believed to be cannibalistic. Even among these people, he reports that Christianity is making progress.

In 1957, for the first time since work was begun at the Moma station 15 years ago, members of the tribes in the area had progressed far enough in their training as Christians to be ordained as pastors.

Most of the Rev. McElroy's time has been taken with "itineration" traveling to back country preaching points with Congolese evangelists and Session members, conferences and training in the field for evangelists, supervision of outpost schools, office work which includes the preparation of reports to the Belgian Government and to the Board of World Missions, handling finances for the payment of evangelists and layworkers in the area and, if there is time, preaching occasionally in place of native evangelists.

The Rev. McElroy also said traveling occupies much of his time. He states he and his fellow workers travel over almost impassable roads in a pick-up truck given him in 1953 by the men of Lockhart. The Rev. McElroy declared that travel sometimes involved grass taller than the truck and trails in the jungle which are so narrow they can scarcely be passed.

But he says it is work which he loves and the Rev. McElroy claims to feel safer in the Congo than in American cities and traffic.

This may be partially due to the fact that the Rev. McElroy is a native of the Congo, the son of missionary parents. The missionary is a graduate of Austin College in Sherman and Austin Seminary in Austin.

He is married to the former Miss Kathryn Patton of Lockhart and the couple has three children, David, 12, Mary Louise, 10, and Paul, 1. The McElroys are making their home during furlough in Mission Ranch, Austin.

Paul Payne Elected Dairy Science Head

Paul Payne, junior dairy science major from Mt. Pleasant, was elected president of the A&M Dairy Science Club for the coming year at a meeting held last week.

Other officers elected include Bill Lee, vice president; James Bennett, secretary; Ben Woolverton, Agricultural Council representative; Joel Wilson, program chairman; Bob Gambrell, social chairman; and Weems Avant, reporter.

Plans are now under way for the club's spring barbecue which will be held May 5 in Hensel Park. Each member should purchase his ticket from one of the new officers or the secretary at the office of the Department of Dairy Science before May 1.

Agronomy Team Compete in Soil Judging Contest

Five A&M agronomy students competed in a soil judging contest at Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge, La., last Saturday.

They were Boyd S. Proctor of Dekalb, James C. Blue of Clifton, Larry Hausmann of Goliad, Bobby Carlile of Station and Joseph Van Deaver of Deport.

Proctor and Blue are juniors and Hausmann, Carlile and Van Deaver are seniors.

The A&M team competed with teams from Oklahoma State University, University of Arkansas, Mississippi State University, Louisiana State University and New Mexico State University.

The team's trip to Baton Rouge was sponsored by the Student Agronomy Society of which Carlile is president. He is vice president of Region IV of the student division of the American Society of Agronomy and is chairman of the national soil judging committee that arranged the contest at LSU.

Many Messages Received About Aggie Muster

Messages from all parts of the United States and many foreign countries are pouring into the office of the Association of Former Students telling of the 1960 Muster ceremonies or plans made for its observance.

More than 30,000 students, former students and friends of the college, attended the 500 Muster held throughout the world, Dick Herve, executive secretary of the FSA, said today.

Practically every section of Texas and wherever Aggies live, out of the state and throughout the world, a Muster was held.

Musters were observed with ceremonies in Texas, Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Florida, Georgia, Hawaii, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Mississippi, Missouri, Nevada, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia, Washington, Washington, D. C., West Virginia, Wisconsin and foreign countries of Colombia, Dominican Republic, El Salvador, England, Formosa, France, Germany, Guatemala, Korea, Mexico, Nicaragua, West Pakistan, Paraguay, Peru, Philippine Islands, Puerto Rico, Spain and Venezuela.

For Evaluation Development Bigger Test Tower Increases Capacity

The larger experimental tower of the Texas Engineering Experiment Station Heat Power Group's cooling tower laboratory has been enlarged to provide an 8 by 10 foot capacity for packing.

It is especially designed for full scale experimentation and for the evaluation and development of tower components. It has been used in such work since 1949.

It is a counter-flow, induced-draft tower, equipped with a 60-inch, 7-blade, variable pitch fan, which is driven by a 10 horsepower motor. Two entrance bells, or nozzles, are used in determining the air flow rate through the tower.

The diffuser sections attached to the entrance bells recover a large portion of the velocity pressure and distribute the air evenly at the entrance to the tower. Pressure taps are placed within the tower at desired positions to determine the pressure gradients and the pressure drop attributed to various components of the tower.

The water entering the tower passes through sharp-edged orifice plates equipped with corner taps communicating with a mercury manometer. The stainless steel orifices were calibrated in place and were found to yield an accurate measurement of the circulating water flow rate.

The tower is equipped with a spray-nozzle water distributor for normal operation. However, the tower arrangement is flexible enough for the installation of the most commonly used water distribution systems. The cold water from the tower flows by gravity to a basin for heating and is returned to the tower by a 450 gram per minute centrifugal pump, driven by a 15 horsepower motor.

Temperature measuring and recording devices are used to indicate that equilibrium conditions have been established in the tower before test measurements are taken. Mercury-in-glass thermometers are used during the test period for all temperature measurements.

A smaller tower handling 2 by 2 foot packing sections supplements the larger tower on research problems.

Accounting Meet Draws Over 100 Outstanding Men

Top-flight men in the fields of accounting, are on the campus for the 12th annual Accounting Conference today. More than 100 accountants from throughout Texas and the nation had registered Monday morning.

Vice President Earl Rudder in his welcome address pointed out that A&M belongs to the people of Texas and that its facilities and faculty are the finest. He lauded the close cooperation between the accounting business and the Business Administration of the College.

"The Accountant's Responsibility in Connection With Texas Securities Regulations," was discussed by Dewey Berglund of Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Company of Dallas.

"In discussing financial statements and reports," Berglund said, "I would like to point out to you that the independent accountants' report, the financial statements and related footnotes must be included in a prospectus of the registrant."

"The prospectus requirement first became a part of the Texas Securities Act in 1957.

"In addition to the accountants' report and financial statements, the prospectus will include information about the history of the company, its management, products and capital structure.

Such narrative information is usually prepared by the company's legal counsel, but the independent accountant should review it to determine that there are no conflicts between such information and information included in his report or financial statement."
