

Now Is The Time

With final examinations less than two weeks away, one Aggie shows that he firmly believes that now is the time to hit the books. However, it looks as if he may have overexerted himself in the study department, and could now hit the sack.

Former Student to Address Ring Banquet Saturday Night

A. O. Saenger, '32, of the Humble Oil and Refining Co., will be the principle speaker at the annual Senior Ring Banquet in Duncan Dining Hall Saturday evening at 6, John Sackett, social secretary of the Class of '59, said yesterday.

Following the banquet will be the Senior Ring Dance from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. in Sbis Dining Hall to highlight the evening's activities.

Special guests at the banquet and dance will include President and Mrs. M. T. Harrington, Vice President and Mrs. Earl Rudder,

Aggie Generosity Keeps 'Rev' Eatin'

Reveille can eat in fine style for the rest of the year, thanks to generous Aggies.

Announcements were made in the dining halls Monday and Tuesday that funds for keeping Rev had run out. Receptacles were put outside the doors, and students were encouraged to help the mascot.

The result was $90.84 donated over the two-day period. According to Jerry Brown, Second Regiment, Third Battalion staff senior, the donation will get A Quartermaster out of debt and will carry over into next year.

RV Company Picks Dover to Command

Wade Dover, Corps Staff junior petroleum engineering major from San Angelo, was elected commander of the Ross Volunteer Company for 1959-60 at a meeting in the lecture room of the Biological Sciences Building yesterday.

A Squadron 14 junior, Hubert Oxford, mechanical engineering major from Beaumont, was named executive officer.

Calvin Hines, A Infantry junior history major from San Antonio was elected administrative officer.

Platoon leaders are Lester Nichols, Corps staff physics major from Quitman; Joe Leeper, Squadron 1 general business major from Dickinson; and Jon Pierce from Pilot Point, mechanical engineering major in C Field Artillery.

Don Alexander, B Field Artillery business administration major from Dickinson was named first seargent for next year.

Mel Glasscock, present commander of the RV's said that yesterday's meeting would be the last the Executive Committee of the college, unit faculty advisers and other college officials.

Gary Pepper, president of the senior class, will act as master of ceremonies at the banquet. Stephen Paul Voinis, vice president, will introduce the special guests.

The invocation will be delivered by Len Dorney. Steve Edminston, historian, will read the senior class history.

Sackett will introduce Saenger.

Special entertainment at the banquet will be provided by The Silvertones, an all Aggie singing quartet.

Six hundred and fifty tickets have been sold for the dance, Sackett said. Tickets are now on sale in the Office of Student Activities, second floor of the YMCA and will be available at the door Saturday night.

Music for the dance will be provided by the band of Jimmy Dorsey under the direction of Lee Castle.

Highlighting the dance will be the taking of ring pictures in the two large mock Aggie rings from 8-12. As each senior has his picture made in the ring, his date will turn his ring around on his finger.

Tickets for pictures are green and white. The green ticket designates that the senior will have his picture made in Ring A and the white ticket is for Ring B.

Student Publication Annual Banquet Set

Election of Vanity Fair winners, Student Publications staff awards and the awarding of watches to outgoing editors will highlight activities at the annual Student Publications Banquet in the Ballroom of the Memorial Student Center tomorrow at 6:45 p.m.

Also on tap for the evening will be awards from The Battalion to outstanding personalities on the campus, the Southwestern Veterinarian awards to outstanding staff members and the introduction of 1959-60 editors.

Six Vanity Fair winners will be selected by the 250-member audience and will be announced at the annual Senior Ring Dance Saturday.

Wrist or pocket watches will be presented to the six retiring editors. They will be appropriately engraved with the editor's names, their publications and the periods they served.

Corps students attending the banquet have been authorized by Col. Joe E. Davis, commandant, to wear coats and ties.

Tickets are available until noon tomorrow in the Student Publications Office at $1 for staff members and $2 for invited guests.

Keys will be presented to 120 students publications staff members.

Pictures of the Vanity Fair entries, their names and the names of their escorts will appear in tomorrow's edition of The Battalion. The twelve entries were picked by a committee from the staff of the Aggieland '59.

Graduation Notices Are Still Available

Extra graduation announcements went on sale this morning at the Department of Student Activities, said W. L. Penberthy, director of Student Activities.

Penberthy also said that the announcements would be sold on a first-come, first-serve basis. He urged seniors who have not yet picked up their announcements to do so as soon as possible.

Fireman's School Set for July 19-24

The 13th annual Fireman's Training School will be held on the campus July 19-24, with approximately 1,400 firemen expected for a week of intensive training.

These men will represent 425 Texas cities, industries and military installations. Last year 15 states were represented in addition to Texas.

About 200 experienced instructors will work with the students. Students will be assigned to small groups for individual instruction in their specific course. They will use all types of equipment to control various types of fires. They will disassemble and overhaul apparatus and equipment. Some will attend classes for technical information and observe demonstrations or practice teaching with other students.

All types of approved fire fight-

Herter's Challenge Rejected by Reds

GENEVA (AP)—Secretary of State Christian A. Herter challenged the Soviet Union yesterday to enter serious negotiations for concrete, self-enforcing agreements for European peace, but drew no encouragement from Andrei Gromyko.

The Soviet foreign minister rejected in advance the West's package plan for solution of the Berlin, Germany unity and European security issues.

Gromyko called the package plan, due to be presented in the Big Four foreign ministers conference Thursday, an attempt "to muddle together various political problems into one tangle." He declared such an approach would completely block the work of the conference.

Herter got the conference down to business as chairman of the third day of a session previously snarled by Soviet procedural moves.

He announced the United States, Britain and France will introduce proposals to ease tension "now spoiling relations between the free world and the Soviet Union." He promised U.S. participation in summit talks, which Moscow has been urging if the Soviets will dicker here in earnest.

All four ministers finally presented their opening speeches, delayed by a dispute over Gromyko's efforts to seat Communist Poland and Czechoslovakia as full negotiators in the conference.

Gromyko persisted yesterday but got nowhere.

Summer Students Must Record Autos

All students attending summer school will need to register their automobiles at the Campus Security Office, ground floor, YMCA, Fred L. Hickman, chief of Campus Security, said yesterday.

If a student knows where he will live, he can register for the summer beginning Monday, said Hickman.

The wives of students who work for the college and whose husbands will not be a student in either summer semester may pick up their special permits without cost. These permits will be issued any time beginning Monday, Hickman added.

Sociology Head Leaving June 1 On World Trip

Dr. Daniel Russell, head of the Division of Rural Sociology in the Department of Agricultural Economics and Sociology, will leave June 1 for a second trip around the world as Program Officer of the International Voluntary Services of Washington, D. C.

The trip will take him to more than 20 countries in Europe, Africa and Asia. There his job will be to visit and advise the teams and see if additional teams in other countries are desired or needed. He will return in time for the opening of classes in September.

The International Voluntary Services is made up of representatives of about 12 major religious bodies. The organization sends teams of young college graduates under an adult leader to live in the villages of underdeveloped countries to help improve the life of the people with special emphasis on agriculture, health, education and minor public works.

Russell will go first to Washington, D. C., where he will meet with the Board of International Voluntary Services, and from there will go east from New York. He will return by way of San Francisco in September.
