Texas Co. Prexy, General to Speak

The closing programs for graduating seniors—commencement and commissioning exercises—will get underway Saturday morning and afternoon in G. Rollie White Coliseum.

Nine hundred and eighty students are candidates for degrees with 105 of these candidates for advanced degrees.

One hundred and fifty eight Army cadets are candidates for reserve commissions as second lieutenants with 35 of this group candidates for regular commissions. Ninety-four Air Force cadets are candidates for reserve commissions with 15 of these candidates for regular commissions.

Principal speakers at the ceremonies will be James W. Foley, president of The Texas Co. in New York City, at the commencement exercises at 9 a.m. and Gen. O. P. Weyland, commander of the Tactical Air Command located at Langley AF Base, Va. at the commissioning exercises at 3:30 p.m.

Foley, a native of San Augustine, attended Sour Lake High School, and graduated from A&M with the Class of '32. He received a B.S. degree in petroleum engineering.

Weyland received his B.S. degree in mechanical engineering with the A&M Class of '23. He was born in California, but moved with his parents to the Taft ranch near Corpus Christi. Later, the family moved to Hempstead where they lived while he attended A&M.

Upon graduation from A&M Foley joined the Producing Department of The Texas Co. and in 1937 was transferred to the Middle East oil fields. Foley was a member of the board of directors in 1954 and president in 1955.

Weyland was captain of the Texas Aggie Band in his senior year and was council-at-large of the Assn. of Former Students. After graduation, he was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Air Corps and became a flying instructor at Kelly Field in San Antonio.

Following his promotion to brigadier general, he was sent to England and shortly thereafter became commander of the 19th Tactical Air Command.

Weyland was awarded the Bronze star on recommendation of Gen. George S. Patton for the invaluable air support given the Third Army of Patton.

J. G. H. Thompson, professor of mechanical engineering, won the individual student relations award.

For December Meet

Executive Heads Named for SCONA

Chairmen to serve on the executive committee for the fifth Student Conference on National Affairs which will be held next December have been announced by Jarrell Gibbs, who will serve as SCONA V chairman for the coming year.

The committee will be composed of 14 students who have shown exceptional interest and outstanding work in previous SCONA programs, said Gibbs.

The following men will serve as chairmen for their respective committees: Gibbs, executive committee chairman; Sydney Heaton, sophomore from Tyler, vice chairman; Kenneth Keller, junior from San Antonio, vice-chairman for finance; Gustavo Berrera, junior from Port Isabel, secretary; John Vaughn, junior from Austin, conference manager; Herbert Whalen, senior from Beeville, arrangements chairman; Percy Mims, junior from Houston, housing chairman.

Frank Buchanan, junior from San Antonio, planning committee chairman; Bruce Keith, junior from Scarsdale, N.Y., program chairman; Jack Hartsfield, senior from Waco, publicity chairman; Charles Bell, junior from Donna, secretary; and Mike Reid, junior from Dallas, will serve as transportation committee chairman.

The remaining two members of the executive committee will be Ronald Buford, senior from Livingston, MSC Council and Directorate president for next year; and Mike McGuire, junior from College Station, who will serve as Great Issues chairman for 1959-1960.

The objectives of the annual December event serve a three-fold purpose, said Gibbs. They are to conduct a series of informative and stimulative discussions on "The Role of the United States in World Affairs," to provide an appreciation of the complexities of the foreign policy of the United States to an increasingly large representation of college students of the South and Southwest and to help promote a generation of responsible leaders in international affairs by a serious exchange of ideas between students over a period of years.

Although speakers for next year's conference have not been selected at the present time, it is certain that they will be no less distinguished than past speakers, including such men as General Carlos P. Romulo, Philippine Ambassador to the United States; Senator Hubert H. Humphrey from Minnesota; and Eugene M. Zuckert, former assistant secretary of the Air Force and former member of the Atomic Energy Commission, said Gibbs.

Announcement of the exact date and speakers for the conference will be released later in the year.
