

Awards Given at Publications Banquet

Thomas L. Keith, journalism student from Cleveland, was awarded first prize in the C. L. Babcock competition at the Student Publications Banquet Friday.

Keith was presented a certificate and a check for $250 for his essay on "Texas A&M—What It Means to Me." The award was presented by Babcock, a Beaumont businessman.

Nine other students received certificates of merit for their essays on the same subject. They are: James A. Brady, Kenneth Cox, Don Elledge, Olan Hunter, James E. Ledbetter, Thomas N. Payne, Troy David Spencer, Mickey E. Walker and Stanley Wied.

In other activities, the outgoing editors of each of the student publications recognized their staffs and were presented gold watches by L. A. Duewall, director of Student Publications. Watches were presented to Tommie A. Hennard,

The Southwestern Veterinarian; Louis C. Stipp, The Engineer; Rod-erick D. Stepp, The Aggicland; Delmar Deterling, The Agricultur-ist; Joe Buser, The Battalion; and Robert T. Kerr, The Commentator. The Battalion's summer editor, Johnny Johnson, was also pre-sented a watch.

Each editor then presented the 1959 editor of their respective pub-lication.

The Smorgasbord dinner began at 6:45 p.m., and was followed by voting by the audience on the Van-ity Fair candidates.

Buser, acting as master of cere-monies, presented the annual Bat-talion awards to outstanding peo-ple on the campus. The awards were presented to Don Cloud, ca-det colonel of the Corps; Robert L. Melcher, civilian student coun-selor and foreign student adviser; W. L. Penberthy, director of Student Activities; W. D. (Pete) Har-desty, student organizations ad-viser.

L. A. Duewall, director of Stu-dent Publications; Ted Cathey, clerk in the Office of Student Pub-lications; Jones Ramsey, sports publicity director; Tom Chandler, baseball coach; Dr. C. R. Lyons, director of Student Health Serv-ices; and James L. Nucho, printer's assistant at the A&M Press.
