Mexican hats are useful in many ways, finds Rose Marie Bebee of Port Isabel. She is using hers to shield herself from the hot summer sun on South Padre Island, playground of the semi-tropical Lower Rio Grande Valley of Texas which is being boomed for a national park. (AP Photo)

Extension Service Given $40,000 Education Grant

The Texas Agricultural Extension Service here has recently received a grant of $40,000 from the Fund for Adult Education, an independent organization established by the Ford Foundation in 1951.

The grants are to be used to develop pilot projects to advance education in public affairs and leadership for public responsibilities. They are a part of a nationwide effort recently initiated by the Fund to expand educational opportunities for leaders, and particularly emerging leaders in all levels of American life.

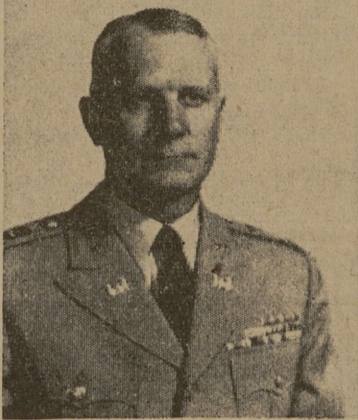

C. Scott Fletcher, president of the Fund, said the program in Texas would be a pilot effort to demonstrate how to advance education in public affairs and leadership for public responsibility within the extension service.

The grants cover a period from July 1, 1959 through Dec. 31, 1961. Each participating state will select two counties and a qualified person to serve in each as resident program consultant with the county staff full time for the duration of the program. Hutchison said the two consultants in Texas would be O. B. Clifton and Edward F. Schlutt. The two counties will be designated at a later date, he added.

The training program for the consultants is now underway at Michigan State University and will continue until mid-September when they will return to Texas and to the designated counties. Hutchison has served as chairman of the national committee which developed the project. He opened the training session in Michigan on June 22, and spoke on "Expectations for the Pilot Project".
