'Trial by Jury' Makes Hit With Appreciative Audience

Bright faces of an almost capacity crowd left the Ballroom of the Memorial Student Center last night signifying that Bill Turner's production of Gilbert and Sullivan's operetta "Trial by Jury" was an over-whelming success.

The event opened Tuesday night. The comic aria is a musical presentation of a trial of a breach of promise suit. The plaintiff (Carolyn Wilson) is seeking a beau, and in the end she wins the admiration of the judge (Charles Mitchell).

The defendant (John Paxson) is more concerned with the girls' chorus and the bridesmaids than the court proceedings. These young ladies included Suzanne Sorenson, Mercy Goode, Lynda Chalk, Ann Elkins, Karen Mohr, Joanne Hertzler, Mary Margaret Hierth, Barbara Beasley and Barbara Grimes.

Jim Rector played the part of the nervous usher while Charles Arnold portrayed the part of the attorney. The singing jury was composed of Bill Dansby, Justin Jidd, Richard Moore, Gerald Shearer, Frank Reeves and Robert Giggs.

Mary Coslett and Maylene Rushing were in charge of publicity for the operetta, and John Lester and Robert Gibbs were in charge of the stage and set.

The costumes were by Van Horn and Company.

The operetta was directed by Billie Jean Barron, and the entire production was sponsored by the Department of Student Activities.

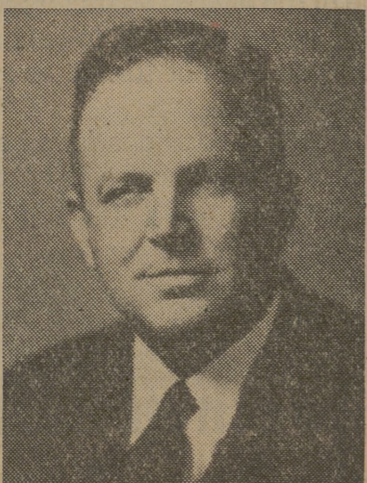

Rudder to Attend Strategy Seminar

President Earl Rudder will attend the national strategy seminar for reserve officers at the National War College, Fort Lesley J. McNair, Washington, D. C.

Rudder, who is a major general in the Army Reserves, will represent this area at the seminar.

Seminar classes begin Monday and end Saturday, July 25. Admiral Arleigh A. Burke, chief of Naval Operations will open the seminar. The Honorable Allen W. Dulles, director of the Central Intelligence Agency will be the graduation speaker.

The seminar will provide conferees with a better understanding of the world conflict and of the organization, resources and methods used by the protagonists in the cold war to accomplish their aims. The course will consist of 28 formal presentations by leading officials and individuals and discussion periods. Course material has been provided by the Foreign Policy Research Institute of the University of Pennsylvania. The course is sponsored jointly by the Reserve Officers Assn. and the Institute for American Strategy.

Chamber Here Studies Plans For New Year

The board of directors of the College Station Chamber of Commerce met Monday night to map out a program for the oncoming fiscal year.

The problem at hand was to decide what can be done by the Chamber of Commerce for the benefit of the citizens of College Station.

A three person committee was chosen to plan the program at the meeting which was held in the Banquet Room of the Sabre Hotel. These three persons included Mrs. Marion Pugh, Hershel Burgess and John Pruitt.

Their job is to outline a program to be presented to the entire fifteen member board on Aug. 11. When this program is accepted by the board as a whole, it will be presented to the citizens at a called public meeting.

Marshall Croft of the Rosenberg Chamber of Commerce was present at the meeting to lend a hand with the programming. He told the board members that College Station will require a special type of programming and that it will require the backing of the entire community if it is to be a success.

Leland Paine, president of the College Station Chamber, was the presiding officer at the meeting.

Advisory Group Gives School Study

The advisory committee of the A&M Consolidated School District recommended that $540,000 worth of improvements be made on the school system at a meeting in the Junior High School Cafeteria last Friday night.

The main provision of the report is that the citizens of the A&M Consolidated District raise the ad valorem tax from $1.40 to $1.90 per $100 evaluation of real property.

The recommendations have been turned over to the school board, and J. R. Jackson, president of the board, told the citizen's committee that the board would consider the recommendations carefully before presenting them to the public.

It is evident that these people have the good of the community at heart as can be determined by what O. M. Holt, a finance sub-committee member said. He said, "We give our school board members and school administrators just so much money to work with. . . They have a set amount within which to operate; only now it isn't enough."

Under the present general law, the highest possible ad valorem tax that a school district can levy is $1.50 per $100 evaluation. Holt explained that a raise of only $.10 would not be enough to do any good. He told those citizens present that Senate Bill 116 allows extra taxing in emergencies, and this is how the extra $.40 tax can be levied.

The advisory committee stated

30th Annual Event To Attract 1,600

Some 1,600 firemen from all over Texas and several other states will invade the campus next week for the 30th annual Firemen's Training School.

The firemen will arrive here Sunday and begin a fire fighting campaign that will last through Friday of next week. The Army, Navy, Air Force and private industry also will be here for the event.

Houses, gasoline pumps, butane tanks, small oil storage tanks, trucks, airplane fuselages, refinery mockups and pit fires will be started on the average of five times a day.

Student firemen will be given basic instructions and then will be on the business end of a fire hose and told how to fight the fire.

★ Finals Tomorrow; Register Monday

Final examinations for the first term of the summer session will be given tomorrow.

Registration for the second term will be held Monday, 8 a. m. to 12 noon in Duncan Hall. Classes will begin Tuesday, July 21. The second term ends August 28.

A&M Wives Group Has Banquet Here

A mother-daughter banquet was held for the members of the Ruth and A&M Wives Circles Monday evening in the Wesley Foundation Building, A&M Methodist Church.

A color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the table decorations with beautiful spring flowers arranged in silver containers. Pink candles in silver holders and lacy pink placemats added to the decor of the tables.

Mrs. Paul Woods, program chairman, introduced Mrs. Kent Hackleman who sang and played "Your Mother and Mine." She was accompanied by Mrs. Woods who read "What is a Girl."

Mrs. Hackleman also sang "Play Gypsies-Dance Gypsies" and closed with "May the Good Lord Bless and Keep You."

About 50 mothers and daughters attended the banquet and hostesses were Mrs. Wesley Calvert, Mrs. Virginia Erickson, Mrs. Pete Hardesty, Mrs. Woods, Mrs. Mary Francis Ross, Mrs. Barbara Payne and Mrs. Bonnei Aylesworth.
