

A Touch of Coeducation

Caught passing the time in front of Leggett Hall this week were these high school 200 girls here for the First Annual Journalism Workshop. This is only a few of the some girls here for the event which draws to a close tomorrow.

Tefertiller Joins Ag Economics Staff

Dr. Kenneth R. Tefertiller joined the staff of the Department of Agricultural Economics and Sociology at A&M on Aug. 1, Dr. Tyrus R. Timm, head of the department, said this week. Tefertiller is a native of Oklahoma where he received his B.S. degree from Oklahoma State University in 1952. He then served two years as a commissioned officer in the Army and returned to Oklahoma State University where he received his M.S. degree in 1956.

He then went to the University of Illinois where he recently received his Ph.D. degree. In 1957 he won the award of the Western Farm Economics Assn. for an outstanding graduate study paper. The paper was entitled "Rates of Concentrates-Roughage Substitution and Economic Optimums in Feeding Yearling Steers and Heifers."

Tefertiller's major interests are farm management and production economics and he is especially interested in linear programming. He has been trained in economic theory, production economics and linear programming, and because of this says Timm, "He is particularly well qualified to work with other departments in analyzing their research results."

At A&M Tefertiller will do both graduate and undergraduate work as well as research. Tefertiller is 28-years-old.

'Flick' to Present Stories of Towns

A color panorama of life in San Francisco and the story of the rebuilding of Waco after the disastrous 1953 tornado will unfold on "Operation Flick" — free films to be shown Sunday at 3 p.m. in Rooms 2A-2B of the Memorial Student Center.

The color film "San Francisco" emphasizes the more spectacular and exotic aspects of the city and includes a brief historical sketch. "The search" illustrates the four major phases entered into by the people of Waco following the tornado; a state of shock, the emergency relief period, the reaction and the final readjustment.

Both Doctors And Children Dread Shots

AP Newsfeatures

IT GOES without saying that youngsters don't like shots. And believe it or not, doctor's don't like to give shots to children. Doctors don't like to hurt youngsters. They give shots only because they know the child will benefit from the medicine poked into him this way.

Most shots hurt very little. Some really don't hurt at all. Lilly has to have a shot. She closed her eyes, stuck out her arm. The doctor worked quickly and talked hard and fast; after a bit Lilly said:

"Please hurry doctor and get it over."

"Why, child," said the doctor, "You had that shot long ago."

"I did?" said the child in amazement. "I didn't feel it at all."

This happens often.

Nevertheless children dread shots.

When a child knows he is going to get a shot he is apprehensive until it is over, then he can relax and enjoy the rest of the visit to the doctor's office. If a child has to wait a little before his turn to see the doctor, it's often a good idea to bring the child into a side room, give him the shot quickly, let him go back and play until his turn to be examined comes up.

Be Honest

Much as children dislike shots it's necessary to be honest with them about it.

Mrs. Traymore promised Ted that the doctor wouldn't give him a shot today. Ted came happily into the examining room. Mrs. Traymore knew the child was due for a shot, in fact she had made the appointment for that very purpose. She simply lied to her child because it was the easiest thing to do at the moment.

It's impossible for a doctor to build up confidence in a child when the basis of trust is destroyed by direct lies. Not only was Ted full of resentment against the doctor but also against his mother.

Occasionally one runs into a parent who uses the doctor as a threat over a child to make him behave. "If you don't eat those vegetables, I'll take you right down to the doctor and he'll give you a shot."

This is the modern version of the old bogey man. The great difference being that the doctor is a real person who is trying his best to establish a friendly confident relationship with the child.

Former Student In Little Rock

Capt. Thomas Z. James of Pochontas, Ark., a former A&M student and a 1951 graduate of the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, reported to the Little Rock District of the Army Engineers July 31 after a two-year assignment in Viet-Nam.

While in the Little Rock District, he will be assigned to the Dardanelle Lock and Dam project.

Following graduation from West Point, Capt. James attended the Infantry Basic Officers Course, Fort Benning, Ga. He went to Alaska in 1952, remaining there two years during which he transferred from the Infantry to the Corps of Engineers. He was stationed at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., to August 1955 when he attended the Engineer Advanced Course at Fort Belvoir, Va., and then A&M, where he received the master's degree in civil engineering in 1957. While in Viet-Nam, he was Engineer Advisor with the Military Assistance Advisory Group at the Viet-Nam Military Academy.

Capt. James is married to the former Miss Darlene M. Hornung of Hondo, Tex. They have a 5-year-old daughter and 2-year-old son. A sister of Capt. James, Mrs. Warren Brown, resides in Walnut Ridge, Ark.
