New York Artist To Present Exhibit

The Creative Arts Committee will present an art exhibit by Harvey Schmidt, New York City freelance artist, in the Memorial Student Center, Oct. 1-15.

Schmidt calls Bryan his home. His parents, Rev. and Mrs. E. C. Schmidt, recently moved to Bryan following Rev. Schmidt retirement as a Methodist minister.

Formerly with the National Broadcasting Company in New York, Schmidt is well known to followers of television graphics and magazine illustrations. Still in his twenties, young Schmidt has already accomplished more creatively than most artists seem able to do in a lifetime.

The show to be presented will be entitled "Drawing and Painting on Assignment." The exhibition will be composed of 20 drawings or tempera paintings done in Mexico and reproduced in Look Magazine; three pen and inks reproduced recently in Esquire; and six from a group on roadbuilding commissioned by Standard Oil of New Jersey. Another, executed in grease pencil, is a portrait sketch of the late Joseph McCarthy for Esquire, and four other works from private collections of Tom Jones and Robert Benton.

The exhibit is the only showing Schmidt expects to present in Texas this year, although showings of his work are popular throughout the United States.

Schmidt also is co-author of a book published in May. The book, entitled "The In and Out Book" with Robert Benton is an accomplished collaboration with Tom Jones on lyrics and composition for New York musical revues.

According to MSC Art Advisor Emalita Newton Terry, a personal friend of Schmidt, he planned to attend the opening of his showing here, but will be unable to do so. Instead, Schmidt is off to cover the World Series in paintings for Sports Illustrated.

Other works credited to Schmidt include a group of paintings on the lumber industry which appeared in the July edition of Fortune.

Paintings to be published in the future by Schmidt will be seen in the November issue of Esquire carrying football paintings; the November Harpers Bazaar carrying a series of drawing of theatrical personalities opening on Broadway this season; and an future issue of Life will have several paintings accompanying James Micheners text of "The Birth of Hawaii."

The public is cordially invited to visit the exhibit of paintings done by this very talented young artist.
