Corps Adds Men

The ranks of the Corps of Cadets have been swelled by the addition of 46 useful and willing workers.

These new men are a little older than the average cadet—they are faculty members who have donated their services to various Corps units as faculty advisers.

Working with all cadets, the advisers will give special attention to the needs of freshmen who are having academic troubles.

Another valuable contribution of these men will be to further relations between the Corps and members of the faculty.

These faculty members will be carrying on in the footsteps of faculty members who volunteered their services last year to initiate the program.

The introduction of the program was a valuable move in regard to grades and relations.

In some cases the new faculty advisers will have big footsteps to fill in following the advisers of last year.

First semester grades for the Corps last year were higher than they had been in years. The faculty advisers drew much of the praise for this.

Student-faculty relations showed a marked improvement. Again the faculty advisers were given well-deserved thanks.

The precedent has been set. Now it remains for the Corps of Cadets to cooperate with these faculty advisers in equalling and surpassing the advancements made last year.

With the high quality of leadership being shown by Corps members this year and the devotion to the welfare of students shown by the volunteering faculty members—the program can achieve new peaks of success.

All it needs is full support and cooperation.

Insurance Handy

Through the work of the Student Senate and the administration of A&M in 1958, Aggies are now able to take advantage of the Students' Accident Insurance Plan.

For only $4 students can be insured on their travel to and from the college during holidays, between semesters and during the summer vacation.

Some 2,000 Aggies have already enrolled in the beneficial plan and time is quickly running out for other students. Saturday is the last day.

A person never knows when he might sustain an injury—serious or otherwise—and it no doubt pays to be "set" when such an injury does occur.

Payment of up to $1,000 is made in this low-cost plan. Expenses include X-rays, laboratory costs, hospital bills, nurses, physicians and surgeons fees, medicines, surgical appliances and practically any medical costs incurred as the result of an accidental injury.

It never enters the mind of many people that an injury can occur to them. These are the people who eventually are hit the hardest and have to dig the deepest for hospital aid and such.

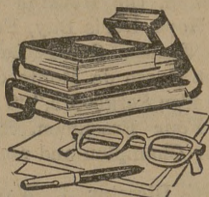

It is always better to be safe.

Moore Joined A&M in 1954

By TOMMY HOLBEIN
Battalion Staff Writer

Clarence Albert Moore associate professor in the Department of Agricultural Economics and Sociology and acting chairman of the marketing section of that department has been with A&M since June, 1954, when he became an assistant professor. During his time here, he has had numerous articles published in his field as well as conducted intensive research.

Some of his more important articles include "Agricultural Development in Mexico", published in the Journal of Farm Economics in September, 1954; "Recent Developments in Brazilian Agriculture", published in the Journal of Political Economics, August, 1956; and in addition fourteen Agricultural Experiment Station research publications. He has also written several technical and non-technical articles released in other publications.

Moore was born on June 19, 1919, in Loraine, located in Mitchell County. As a member of the Coast Artillery, U. S. Army, he served at Camp Davis, N. C., from late December, 1942, until the end of May, 1943. After finishing his military service, he married Jane Feathersion Moore in 1946. At present, he and his family, including his three children, Clarence Melton, Jerry Lynn, and Dale Wayne, are residing at 607 Fairview, in College Station.

Moore attended West Texas State College, the University of Illinois and the University of Chicago. Since 1946, he and his family have lived in numerous places. In 1946 they lived in Tucson, Ariz., but moved to Fayetteville, Ark. where they lived until 1949. Then they lived in Palmer, Alaska, where they stayed until 1951. Manhattan, Kan. was their home from 1951 thru 1952. Chicago became their home during 1953-54, until Moore obtained his assistant professorship here.

Besides his teaching at the graduate level, Moore has done research in grain marketing and utilization and in integration by cooperative organization in conjunction with his work with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.
