New Braunfels Aggie Key Figure in Location of A&M

A&M might today be located in Austin had it not been for the work of one New Braunfels citizen. This man brought 210 legislators and 16 page boys from Austin to College Station by train, determined to convince and show them that Brazos County was the best place for A&M.

Needless to say, he did just that.

That man was Walter Wiprecht, Class of '84, a familiar face around Aggeland for many years, who until 1950 owned a cotton plantation in the Brazos bottoms.

Wiprecht, born of German parentage, moved to New Braunfels with his parents when he was four years old. The Wiprecht family moved there in 1868 from Sisterdale in Gillespie County, following unbearable hostility from Indians in that area.

He was a freshman on the A&M campus in the fall of 1881. His father was professor of language at A&M when Wiprecht enrolled. When he first went there, he was quartered in an old wooden barracks, something you don't see at A&M now.

While he was a student, he was one of the officers of the Calliopean Literary Society. This society and the Austin Society jointly published The Collegian which was the forerunner of The Battalion, the present daily student newspaper at A&M.

Wiprecht graduated in 1884 and then returned in 1885 to receive a B.S. degree in Agriculture. He was the first man in A&M College history to receive this degree.

After he received his BSA, he became an instructor in physics and chemistry at A&M from 1885 to 1886.

Wiprecht then went to Europe and did some more work in chemistry.

Upon returning from Europe, he went to work for the A&M Agricultural Experiment Station and was the first chemist ever to be employed by them.

He spent two years with the Experiment Station and then left to become tax collector for Brazos County.

From 1914 to 1937, he was business manager of the college. He became manager the same day that Dr. W. B. Bizzell became president of A&M. For the following 23 years he served the college in this capacity.

Wiprecht's favorite boast was, "In my 23 years as business manager of the college, my books were out of balance only $1.82. I never found the mistake—but neither did my auditors."

During his later years, after his retirement in 1937, Wiprecht, who had spent so many years of his long life in the service of A&M, from his early student days to his crowning success as business manager of the million-dollar college organization, liked to reminisce on the early days of A&M. He often referred to the college's great growth for the good of Texas and Texas boys. He was certainly a great friend of A&M and a small part of Aggeland was with him wherever he went.

On Friday, Sept. 28, 1951, in a Bryan hospital, just 70 years after entering A&M as a freshman in 1881, the curtains closed on the story of a New Braunfels Aggie who was instrumental in the founding of A&M.

procedure for doing things," was also a common criticism.

Blisters
"The incoming freshmen should be advised to buy a pair of military shoes no less than a month in advance and break them in. If he doesn't, he will probably have blisters as bad as I do," was some advice for the future.

Some asked for more instruction. "You need to schedule a drill period and more 'poop sessions.' Someone should have told me what this school really is like instead of all the inspiring speeches," he added.

One brief statement in the remarks section simply stated, "No upperclassmen!"

Most of the remarks were in praise of the present setup, according to Hannigan, and the consensus of opinion seemed to be as stated by another individual.

"A&M is not only a great school, but it will develop a boy into a man."

And in many cases, added Hannigan, the only remark was "Gigem Aggies!"

Saving Bond Sales Total $213,833

"Savings Bond sales through August, 1959 totaled $213,833," Judge W. C. Davis, chairman of Brazos County Savings Bond Committee reported today. "Our county has now reached 42.8% of its 1959 goal of $500,000. August sales were $21,839."

Sales in Texas for the first eight months of 1959 were $104,463,536 which is 57.2% of the state goal.

"Never before have United States Savings Bonds been so attractive to investors and small savers alike," Judge Davis said today in commenting on the one-half per cent increase in interest rates on old and new Series E and H Savings Bonds.
