TWU Group Highlights Yell Practice in The Grove

Invitation Offered By Aggie Queen

By BILL HICKLIN
Battalion News Editor

The robust Aggies greeted a lovely feminine delegation from Texas Woman's University last night at the traditional Monday Yell Practice in The Grove.

An invitation was extended from the lasses to the Ags for the pre-Corps Trip Dance in Denton this weekend.

However, the highlight of the evening was the introduction of the newly-elected Aggie Sweetheart, Miss Rose Ann Annaratone, junior from Memphis, Tenn.

Each class at TWU was represented—Jeanine Fitschen, senior class president; Sandra Minger of the Student Campus Governing Assn.; Myrtice Conn, sophomore class president; Genevieve Hogue, freshman class president; and, of course, Miss Annaratone as representative of the junior class. Dean of Women Sammie Ross was also present.

Miss Annaratone expressed appreciation to the Ags for her selection and declared she was especially proud to represent the men of Aggieland. She also extended an invitation to the Aggies for the weekend activities.

All the class representatives offered invitations for the traditional weekend. Miss Fitschen, who acted as mistress of ceremonies also told of an open house scheduled this weekend.

Class distinction was also inserted into the gathering as each of the classes brought out features of their respective group.

Miss Hogue said she had noticed that the freshmen "are the best looking at A&M." Miss Conn said the sophomores here were "the loudest," and cordially invited the Ags to Denton Friday.

Miss Minger declared the senior class was the "proudest class," and wished the Aggies success in their clash with the Toads of Texas Christian University in Fort Worth Saturday afternoon.

Miss Annaratone in addition to extending an invitation to TWU, said she "was proud to be representing the junior class, but especially proud to be representing the men of Aggieland."

Miss Fitschen was escorted by J. C. Burton, Commander of the 1st Wing; Miss Minger by Ed Lux, commanding officer of Squadron 8; Miss Conn by Allan Burns, president of the Class of '60; Miss Hogue by Joe Leeper, head yell leader; Miss Annaratone by Stanley Weid, commanding officer of Squadron 10 and vice president of the Class of '60, and Miss Ross by Bill Heye, colonel of the Corps.

Miss Annaratone is a clothing design and textiles major.

Team Due Here This Week For Inspection

A joint inspection team representing the Army and Air Force ROTC's will be on the campus Thursday and Friday for the annual inspection to determine A&M's status as a military college. Col. Joe E. Davis, commandant, told unit commanders Monday afternoon.

Each branch will have two officers conducting the informal inspection, Col. Davis said.

The outcome of the inspection will determine whether A&M keeps the rating as a military college which it was given last year.

There will be no planned activities. The officers will inspect any and all phases of the Corps of Cadets and military and air science instruction, said Col. Davis.

Also discussed at the meeting was the Corps Trip to Fort Worth this weekend and the march-in to the University of Houston game Saturday night.

The Corps will wear fatigues as uniform-of-the-day today and Wednesday to allow cadets to prepare for the inspection, said Col. Davis.

Ticket Sale Ends Wednesday at 5

Date and student tickets to the TCU game in Fort Worth will be on sale until Wednesday at 5 p.m., according to Pat Dial, business manager for the Department of Athletics.

No student or student date tickets may be purchased at the game, Dial said.

I Love A&M

Aggieland, Aggies Impress Newly-Elected Sweetheart

By DAVE STOKER
Battalion Managing Editor

"I have always been impressed with A&M, and I am even more so now."

These were the smiling words of Rose Ann Annaratone, 1960 Aggie Sweetheart, as she gleamed before popping flash bulbs in the Memorial Student Center last night following yell practice.

The lovely lass from Texas Woman's University and Memphis, Tenn., was here with a delegation from Tessieland inviting the Ags to pre-Corps Trip activities at TWU this weekend.

Sweetheart Arrives

Arriving on the campus yesterday, newly-elected Aggie Sweetheart Rose Anne Annaratone was escorted through a saber arch by Cadet Colonel of the Corps Bill Heye.

Luedecke To Head Atomic Talks Here

Alvin J. Luedecke, '32, general manager of the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission, will be general chairman of the second annual Texas Conference on the Utilization of Atomic Energy, to be held on the A&M campus, Nov. 12 and 13.

Nuclear scientists from throughout the nation will present papers on the latest developments in the use of atomic energy during the two-day meeting. The first day's papers will deal with nuclear developments in the physical sciences and the second day will be devoted to the life sciences. The meetings are open to representatives of educational, governmental and industrial organizations throughout Texas.

Three members of the staff of the A&M College System will serve with Luedecke in operating the conference. Dr. George M. Krise of the Radiation Biological Division of the Texas Engineering Experiment Station, is local chairman. Vice chairmen are R. G. Bader and Dr. R. E. Wainerdi.

Papers scheduled for Thursday, Nov. 12, include:

"The Determination of Trace

Elements by Activation Analysis," by Dr. George W. Leddicotte, Oak Ridge National Laboratory; "Chemistry of Fission Products in Circulating Fuel Reactor Systems," by Dr. George Watson, Oak Ridge National Laboratory; "The Effect on the Residual Natural Gas If Radioactive Waste Materials were to be Stored in a Suitable Abandoned Gas Reservoir," by Dr. George Crawford, University of Texas; "Nuclear Power—How, When, and If," by W. Dickinson, Bechtel Corporation; "Reactors for the Propulsion of Manned Aircraft and Missiles," by Lt. Col. J. E. Bicknell, Missile Project Branch, Division of Reactor Development, U. S. Atomic Energy Commission; "Design Considerations of the Nuclear Science Center Reactor Facility," by Dr. R. E. Wainerdi, Texas Engineering Experiment Station; and "The Problem of Achieving Thermonuclear Power," by Dr. D. W. Kerst, General Atomic, a division of General Dynamics Corporation.

Luedecke will deliver the banquet address.

Two Positions Open on CSC

Positions for Freshman and Senior Class Representatives to the Civilian Student Council are now open, it was announced at the last CSC meeting.

Filing for these positions will begin today and end Monday.

Applicants for the positions can file with their respective dormitory counselors. The election will be held Wednesday, Oct. 21, in each dormitory.

Votes can be polled with the designated dormitory council member in his own particular dormitory, or row representative for College View and Project Housing areas.

Concessions, Game

Consolidated Fete Slated Saturday

John H. Southern, president of the A&M Consolidated Band Boosters Club, said today that "There'll be lots of fun and laughter for all ages at the Band Boosters' Carnival this Saturday at the A&M Consolidated Campus."

Southern announced that activities will begin at 5:30 with a supper in the school cafeteria. Concessions, games and other activities will begin at 6. The carnival is planned to include the whole family. There'll be a big variety of games, shows and refreshments. The school band under the direction of James Atkins will present a concert.

The carnival will include a country store operated by Mrs. E. S. Holdridge, a spook house operated by John H. Southern, Ernest Tanager's snake house, games operated by the College Station Lions Club with C. E. Cosper in charge and a beauty bar operated by Mrs. Joseph H. Brusse.

Three shows will be given by James Baldauf, charcoal portraits will be sketched by Keith McCreary, the fish pond will be operated by Dr. and Mrs. Dale F. Leipper and Mrs. James Atkins. Dr. A. F. Isbell will sell balloons and the Girl Scouts will conduct a puppet show. There will be a fortune teller and Richard Rasmussen will be the carnival barker.

Mrs. P. H. Callahan is general chairman of the foods committee. Others include Mrs. M. M. Rasmussen, Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Varvel, Mrs. Fred R. Brison, Dr. and Mrs. John Sperry and Mr. and Mrs. J. G. McGuire. Dr. W. N. Williamson is publicity chairman, L. P. Dulaney is in charge of lighting. Dr. Charles LaMotte, grounds and T. D. Ledbetter is ticket sales chairman.

All funds resulting from the annual carnival are used for instruments, uniforms and activities of the A&M Consolidated Band.

Harrington Speaks To Ross Volunteers

An address by Dr. M. T. Harrington will be the feature of the Ross Volunteer Initiation Banquet to be held tonight in the Ballroom of the Memorial Student Center.

Wade Dover, his year's commander of the Ross Volunteers, commented that the seventy-three Corps juniors being initiated were the outstanding cadets of their class and that the stiff grade point requirements had been relaxed in some cases due to outstanding leadership traits and character.

Salute To The Sweetheart
