Prison Rodeo Finishes Season With Sunday Show

HUNTSVILLE—Sunday, Oct. 25 will be the last time the public can view the colorful 28th annual Texas Prison Rodeo here in the prison stadium, where convict riders will entertainment personalities to wind up another successful Rodeo series.

The show begins at 2 p.m. and the featured attraction will be Guy Madison, well-known movie star and hero of the television series "Wild Bill Hickok."

Also appearing with Madison will be his charming wife, Sheila Connolly, singer and dancer, who also is a television star in her own right.

This is the first time that the couple will appear together on the same stage.

Another first for the popular couple will be the observance of their fifth wedding anniversary "In Prison," and inmates plan a be teamed with the nation's top special surprise for them for the event.

Although outside stars are to be headlined, inmate contestants promise to present a "do-or-die" performance to make certain that the largest fourth Sunday crowd in history will be present for the finale.

Rodeo officials promise that, regardless of the size of the crowds, no one will be turned away.

The public is reminded, too, that net proceeds from ticket sales go to the inmates' welfare fund for services not furnished by the state.

Reserved seat tickets may be purchased prior to the Rodeo at the Prison Rodeo Box Office.
