Workers' Compensation Right Upheld for College Students

AUSTIN—In a landmark case, the Texas Employment Commission has upheld the right of students to draw unemployment compensation when they are unable to find work during their off-school hours.

The case, involving a student named Walter A. Riddle of Odessa, was sparked by the Texas State AFL-CIO. In an unanimous decision, the three members of the TEC reversed many previous 2-1 decisions denying students unemployment compensation solely on the grounds that they are students and therefore unavailable for work during "normal working hours" of 8-5.

Robert F. Newman, member of the commission representing employees, hailed the decision as a far-reaching breakthrough which may mean payments to thousands of Texas students who are unable to find jobs but are available for work and who have a work history in employment covered by the compensation act.

Riddle, a student at the University of Texas, formerly was a telephone company employee at Odessa. While in the University, he was employed part-time as a mailing clerk by the Texas State AFL-CIO, a job not covered by unemployment insurance. He was laid off April 4. He was covered from his previous employment, however.

At the end of the spring semester, Riddle enrolled in East Texas State College at Commerce for the summer term, but he was unable to find a job. He applied for unemployment compensation but was held ineligible by the TEC office on the grounds that he was a student and not available for work during "normal working hours" of 8-5. The State AFL-CIO, as his last employer, was notified of the action. The state labor organization sided with Riddle and developed a record to appeal the ruling. Its attorney, Sam Houston Clinton, Jr. participated in the case contending the 8-5 ruling was administrative and was not in the law.

Clinton introduced into the record a large volume of evidence showing that there are many jobs available requiring workers at hours other than 8-5.

State AFL-CIO Secretary-Treasurer Fred Schmidt pointed out that the decision means that "in any future case we look for the TEC to do just what the law said all along in making payments. If the student is wanting to work and cannot find a job, then he is eligible for unemployment compensation if he is covered."

Aggies Get Chance To Win Television

A free 17-inch portable television set will be awarded to some Aggie Nov. 20 through a contest now being conducted by Don Groves, campus representative of Phillip Morris, Inc.

The contest runs through Nov. 19.

Students deposit packages of the four brands of cigarettes manufactured by the company in boxes located in the Memorial Student Center Bowling Alley and the Exchange Store. The name and address of the student must be written on the package, Groves said. The drawing will be held at 3 p. m. Nov. 20, said Groves.

West Virginia football coach Art Lewis coached the professional Cleveland Rams in 1937 when he was 26 years old.

HORTICULTURE GROUP SLATES PARLEY IN MSC

The Southern Regional Marketing Horticulture Specialty Crops Technical Committee will hold its annual meeting Nov. 3-5 in the Memorial Student Center here.

Dr. H. B. Sorensen, associate professor in the A&M Department of Agricultural Economics and chairman of the technical committee, said the session will review past work and co-ordinate activities on future research projects. Representatives from 10 southern states will attend.

The meeting will start at 8:30 a. m. the first day and the program will include a tour of floriculture facilities and the Department of Agricultural Economics and the Department of Sociology on the college campus.

On Wednesday, the group will travel to Tyler to inspect that city's rose production industry. Thursday's program starts at 8:30 a. m. in the MSC here.

who own taxed property will be eligible to vote.

In addition to voting on the approval of the $350,000 bond issue, voters will decide on the approval of the adoption of state Senate Bill 116 and the assumption of outstanding bonded indebtedness caused by the change in school district boundaries.

The board also approved a long range master plan for the development of health and physical education facilities and an administration building. These plans provide also for securing land for other buildings which may be needed in the future. Target date for the completion of these facilities is 1964.

A meeting will be held Nov. 10 in the high school auditorium to provide an opportunity for the general public to discuss the bond issue.
