Goal In Sight

The College Station United Chest Drive is entering its final five days. And the citizens have shown excellent response thus far, upping the total collection near the $10,000 mark—almost 75 per cent of the goal set at $13,150.

In addition, this sum is exclusive of the contributions from College Station merchants and employees and an estimated $500 from Bryan merchants and employees.

This drive is a more than worthy cause with 14 agencies receiving allotments to use in accordance with their reports to the drive committee. The funds will go for community aids, charity aids, youth aids and medical aids.

If the contributing pace continues at the pace maintained in the initial 10 days of the drive, the goal undoubtedly will be attained.

College Station citizens have donated almost $1,000 per day during these 10 days with the funds now totaling more than $9,500. At the rate, the drive would easily surpass its goal in the final five days with funds exceeding the $15,000 mark.

And it all comes back with citizens benefitting from the bulk of these donations in local services aided by the drive.

A letup now would be a poor supplement to this display of charity.

A feather would decorate the caps of College Station citizens if the drive goal were surpassed by a large amount.

Letters To The Editor

Editor, The Battalion: Justice is defined as the principle of rectitude and just dealing of men with each other. I offer this undisputed definition in view of the notable absence of this concept obvious in the laundry service of A&M. mistakes while the laundry lightly passes over its mistakes. Where, may I ask, is justice in this type of dealing? True, the fine was a small amount, but that nickel nonetheless trod upon justice. J. P. Wick, '62

In my first encounters with this service, I was prone to overlook the missing buttons, the ruined zippers and the lost articles with a tolerance I felt, perhaps not gladly, due a laundry of this type. Then to my amazement, I learned a fine was imposed upon me for being unable to produce my claim tab—I had failed to tear it from the laundry slip. I could have lost it, I could have mistakenly destroyed it; in any instance, it would have been a mistake. I now find I must pay for my

Services Tonight Honor Ag War Dead

A non-denominational memorial service honoring the war dead of A&M will be held tonight at 7:15 p.m. in the Interfaith Chapel.

The service is being sponsored by the Lutheran Assn., which originally planned the service as a part of association activities for the fall.

Original plans were to conduct the service in Our Saviour's Lutheran Church, but it was decided to change the location of the service so that more Aggies could participate in the Veteran's Day ceremonies.
