

BOWEN

values and define our life objectives," Bowen said, "I believe that the fabulous economic progress of the United States has been based largely upon education."
"Our kind of economic system was built largely through education," stated Bowen. "Machines are rapidly taking over the tasks that were once done by unskilled human beings and usually do it better. Consider the jobs that used to be done by men and that are now done by machines, for example, ditch-digging, road-building, weaving of cloth, corn-picking, sawing of lumber, and even book-keeping."
"But to build, service, and operate machines requires scientists, engineers, mechanics and skilled operators. There is virtually no place in our economy for people who do not have at least the abilities to read and write, and certain qualities of responsibility and self-discipline."
One of the greatest opportunities and obligations of a rich advanced nation such as ours is to assist the more backward peoples of the world in overcoming hunger and misery, Bowen said.
"It is obvious that our aid to others should be in the form primarily of helping them to help themselves and not in the form of direct relief having little significance for long-range improvement," Bowen pointed out.
"It is not enough for us merely to spend our money and to ship our goods abroad. We must also send our people out as educators and technical consultants."
"One of the greatest opportunities open to our young men and women today is to devote their lives to the advancement of underdeveloped peoples of the world. This in turn requires the learning of languages, the understanding of foreign cultures, and above all the willingness to serve in a spirit of respect for one's fellow men and a humble willingness to learn from them as well as to teach them."
"But education," Bowen concluded, "is the key not only to economic growth but also it is the key to the good life."
"When it is realized that education is good in itself, without reference to economic objectives, the case for a massive expansion of our whole educational effort becomes overwhelming."

THE BEST CHRISTMAS OF ALL

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ... ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	Isaiah	4	2
Monday	Luke	2	7-11
Tuesday	Luke	2	12-16
Wednesday	Luke	2	17-21
Thursday	Matthew	2	1-6
Friday	Matthew	2	10-15
Saturday	Luke	1	46-55

Mommy said that this year I could help trim the tree, if I'd be very careful. The ornaments are so shiny and bright, and it's such fun to decide where to put them.
Mommy let me help fix our little crèche, too. I put in the figure of the Christ Child and He looked so pretty ... all sort of pink and gold.
We fixed the crèche first because Mommy said that we must always remember that Christmas is, first of all, the Christ Child's birthday. When we finish trimming the tree, Mommy is going to read us the story about the first Christmas ... about the shepherds and the angels ... about the Wise Men and their star ... about the little Jesus, born in Bethlehem, in a manger.
Mommy's told me the story before but she says that this year I'm big enough to stay up with the rest and hear her read it. And, of course, we'll go to Church, and Mommy says I can carry my fur muff.
I think this is going to be the best Christmas I've ever had!

UNCOVER PAST
WINNECONNE, Wis. (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Riley discovered they are building their new home on the site of an Indian village of 100 and 150 years ago.
The Rileys found some bones and a skull after a bulldozer excavated for the basement. An archeologist confirmed the site was once an Indian village.
