Regional Leadership Meet

JETS Convene Here Saturday

The Junior Engineering Technical Society will hold its southwest regional leadership conference here Saturday, with an awards luncheon honoring clubs and individuals to highlight the day's activities.

The society, better known as the JETS, is an organization for high school extracurricular clubs which exists to promote interest among junior and senior high school students in engineering and science careers.

Purpose of the conference is to bring together those interested in the promotion and success of the organization. It is being held in conjunction with JETS, Inc., of East Lansing, Mich.

Speaker at the luncheon will be Dr. John C. Calhoun, vice chancellor for engineering and a member of the board of directors of JETS, Inc.

Among the persons to be honored at the luncheon will be Frank Oppenheimer of New York City, president of the Gramercy Guild Group and the man who has made available the Gramercy JETS Scholarship.

The $250 annual scholarship has for the past three years gone to Donald Patton of College Station, a junior in the Department of Mechanical Engineering.

A student may receive scholarship benefits for four consecutive years if he maintains a satisfactory academic standing.

An award will be presented to Connally High School of Waco for having the outstanding JETS club.

C. T. Hudson is the club sponsor. Honors for the state's outstanding club sponsor will go to Mrs. Marie Mosman of Muenster High School at Muenster.

Istrouma High School at Baton Rouge will receive honors for having the outstanding JETS club in Louisiana. Awards for top faculty advisors will go to Miss Gertrude Creaghan of Istrouma High School and William Lignos of Baton Rouge.

The award for the outstanding company goes to the Esso Standard Oil Co. of Baton Rouge.

J. G. McGuire, assistant dean of engineering and chairman for the conference committee, has announced that registration will be held on Friday. The program itself begins the following day at 9 a.m. with a welcome address by Fred Benson, dean of engineering.

Next are talks on national organization and objectives by Richard T. Fallon, executive director of JETS, Inc., and Dr. John D. Ryder, JETS president and dean of engineering at Michigan State University.

JETS organization and objectives on the state level will be described by McGuire; A. J. Druce, associate professor of electrical engineering at A&M; Jesse P. Morgan, assistant dean of engineering, New Mexico State University, and W. C. Gaddy, state chairman of the vocational guidance committee of the Louisiana Engineering Society.

Organization and objectives on the local level will be the subject of Waddell P. Williams of Marlin, Texas Highway Department engineer; Wesley C. Collier of Stephen F. Austin High School in Bryan, and Gordon McDugl, president of JETS at Connally High School of Waco.

Yuletide Calls For Caution On Highways

Visions of sweethearts, friends, relatives and colorful activities are filling Aggie's heads as the Christmas holidays near. But it is almost certain that some of us may never see them, unless traffic safety is practiced.

It is an interesting but dreadful fact that from 1900 to 1958, more people in America were killed in traffic accidents than were killed in all the United States wars from 1775 to 1958.

How many accidents have you witnessed? How many have you been in? Would you know the necessary steps to perform if you were involved in an accident? Surprising as it may seem, many are ignorant of the moral and legal responsibilities they assume as motor vehicle operators.

The first action you should undertake is to protect the accident scene from further damage. This can be done by flagging approaching vehicles from all directions. Turn headlight beams on wrecked vehicle if highway is obstructed at night. Keep other vehicles parked at least 100 feet from the accident.

Give first aid to injured. Avoid rushing if possible. If injuries are serious, wait for a doctor before moving the person.

Call an officer to the scene of the accident. In town call city police and out of city limits call the highway patrol.

Get names of operators, license number of every driver involved and names and addresses of all persons involved in the accident. Report the accident to the Department of Public Safety on an accident form. You will be subject to arrest within two years if you fail to report an accident that caused a total damage of $25 or more. You are protected by law against anyone using the information you place on an accident form against you in court.

Since it is a state law that everyone carry liability insurance on his automobile, all responsible drivers will have it. Get the name of the insurance company and policy number of the other driver and give him yours. Report the accident to your insurance company, they have to investigate.

Were you acquainted with these responsibilities? If you're smart, you have fulfilled all of your obligations and all obligations to you should have been settled.

If you're not so enterprising, you'll probably be in serious trouble.

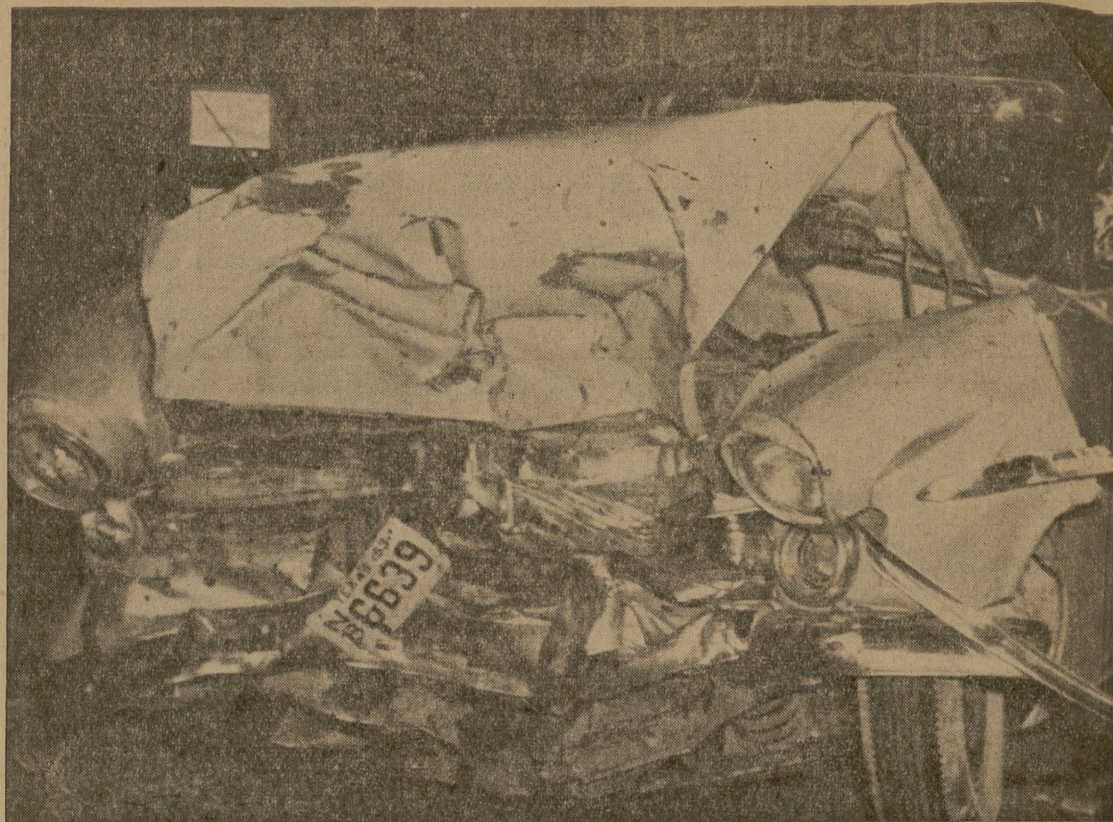

Highway Danger, Yule Here Again

Christmas season is here again and besides being a time of celebration and giving, it is also the time of year when the asphalt jungle of the nation's highways becomes a furious madhouse, screaming for careless victims.

The country's policemen strive to protect the unwary, but still they rush headlong into the unknown until a rending of steel and tinkle of glass mingle with agonized cries to mark their end.

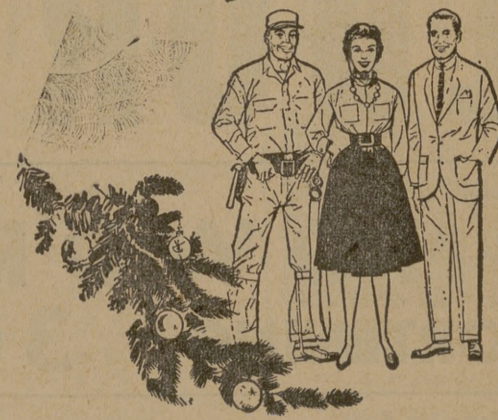

Traffic rules were made to protect motorists. Are a few extra minutes with your loved ones worth the risk of never seeing them?

Here are some standard traffic rules. You probably already know them, but read them again, think about them and observe them. Give the undertaker a day off during
