

Worth Mentioning

By Johnny Johnson.

With the end of the semester in sight, now is a good time to remind the Men of the Aggieland of the tremendous opportunity they have to do a good turn for Texas A&M and themselves during the between semester holiday.

High school seniors all across the state are beginning to make their decisions regarding what college or university they will attend for their higher education, but many are still open to suggestions on where to go to get their college degree.

As was suggested earlier in The Battalion, if each of the students will make an honest attempt to recruit one member for the Class of '64, then Texas A&M will have such a tremendous enrollment the Texas Legislature will have to raise our appropriations. The added appropriations would give Texas A&M even more of a chance to become the greatest educational institution of its kind anywhere.

Not only do we need to try and recruit men for the Class of '64, but we should try hard to keep several members of the Class of '63 who have indicated they plan to transfer at the end of this semester.

With Texas A&M rapidly emerging as a technical center in the South with the opening of the Data Processing Center and the planned Nuclear Science Center, the future of Texas A&M is limited only by the enthusiasm shown by its students in keeping students in school and recruiting more.

Changing colleges after once entering, is similar to the old adage about changing horses in the middle of the stream—neither can be done without getting wet in one way or another.

If the Men of Aggieland care about the future of their school and themselves, they will attempt to both keep the present students and also recruit future students.

It was discouraging to note the dismissal from the Corps of Cadets of four students. Somehow these four failed to gain the true Spirit of Aggieland during their tenure at Texas A&M.

Approximately 45 to 50 parking places for students and visitors have been opened to the public around the Memorial Student Center.

Twenty of the places are on the east side of the building between the post office and Guion Hall on Houston Street. Another 15 are available on Houston Street on the west side of the street and five are available on the east side of the street.

Seven parking places have been added in the front of the building in the area formerly reserved for unloading.

More than twenty places are open in the rear of the MSC in the area of the main visitor parking lot formerly used by MSC employees.

Students are urged to use the parking spaces on Joe Routh Boulevard between the MSC and G. Rollie White Coliseum before using the new places.

Several girls from A&M Consolidated High School and Bryan's Stephen F. Austin High School are joining older citizens of the two communities in raising funds for the New March of Dimes. The girls are to be congratulated for taking part in civic affairs.

In response to several queries received after the story in Wednesday's Battalion regarding poll tax payment, a reminder to those students who will be 21 prior to the Nov. 8 general election. Those people who have their 21st birthday after the Jan. 29 deadline for paying poll taxes may still get their exemption certificates from the Brazos County Tax Assessor-Collector or the tax assessor-collector in their home county. All they have to do is present proof of their birth date after they reach 21 and claim their exemption certificate. This will be the only time a voter can vote free until he reaches age 65.

Special Gift Drive Plans Announced For Dimes March

Plans were announced today for a drive for special gifts and contributions to the New March of Dimes campaign.

Mrs. Boswell, county chairman for special gifts, said that a special effort will be made to contact everyone personally who did not receive a New March of Dimes mailer.

She said this special effort would give each individual an opportunity to participate in a personal way against crippling birth defects, arthritis, and polio.

Assisting Mrs. Boswell with the special gift drive are Mrs. Jim B. Beard of Bryan and Mrs. Harold E. Redmond of College Station. They urge each individual to contribute as generously as possible.

Personal Filing Again Urged by IRS

Taxpayer self-help will again be urged by Internal Revenue Service during the income tax filing period from now to April 15, Clarence E. Carlson, administrative officer of Internal Revenue Service at Bryan, said today.

Self-help means the taxpayer completes as much of his 1959 return as possible before asking Internal Revenue for help. This saves the time of IRS people who, in turn, save the taxpayers' money when uninterrupted from their routine duties of seeing that every taxpayer bears his fair share of the tax burden.

The revenue representative revealed many tax problems can be solved by telephoning Internal Revenue or by studying the comprehensive instructions that accompany federal income tax forms for 1959.

Tickets may be purchased at the desk in the Memorial Student Center and at the office of C. H. Doerge, Agricultural Extension Service, System Administration Building.

Former SMU Professor Wins Political Fellowship

WASHINGTON (AP)—A former Southern Methodist University government teacher is one of 15 winners of political science fellowships working on Capitol Hill this session of Congress.

The fellows perform miscellaneous tasks but are not on the congressional payroll. They expect to spend part of their time attending committee hearings.

$4,500 Grant

Sponsored by the American Political Science Assn., and financed by the Ford Foundation, the fellowships provide a $4,500 grant and an opportunity to see first hand and from the inside what makes the legislative wheels turn.

The SMU assistant professor of political science here under the fellowship program is C. Dale Story. Originally from Stillwell, Okla., the 31-year-old Korean War veteran got his bachelor and doctor of philosophy degrees at Oklahoma. He taught at SMU in 1958-59.

Former Michigander

Another of the fellowship winners is in the office of Rep. Frank Ikard of Wichita Falls. He is Daniel D. McCrary, 28, a former Michigander. McCrary has been employed as a financial writer.

The fellowship provides that the winners work on the House side of the Capitol until April, the remainder of the time—until Congress adjourns or Aug. 15, which ever comes first—on the Senate side.

Selected from Hundreds

Selected from among hundreds of applicants from over the nation, the winners must fall in one of the categories of professional men—journalists, government and political science teachers or law school faculty members.

The American Political Science Assn. each year contacts members of the House and Senate to determine those willing to accept a fellowship winner to work in their office or committee.

An official of the association said more and more of the legislators are volunteering, as the operation of the six-year old program becomes known. This is so, he said, because they get "top rate help for nothing."

More Selective

Conversely, the fellows are becoming more selective in choosing the lawmaker with whom they will work.

McCrary, while doing research and other tasks for Ikard, is getting an opportunity to learn much that will help him as a financial news reporter because of Ikard's membership on the House Ways and Means Committee.

Story, who resigned his SMU faculty position to come here, is assigned to the House Government Operations subcommittee.

3,000 Student Jobs Available Overseas

According to Ramsey V. Harris, European Director of the American Student Information Service, 3,000 summer jobs, all paying the standard wage of the country in which they are located, are available to U. S. college students in Germany, France, England, Belgium, Holland, Luxembourg, Scandinavia, Austria and Spain.

Openings include farm work, construction work, resort work, factory work, hospital work and a number of office and miscellaneous positions.

ASIS, a non-profit organization, also helps American students arrange low cost travel to Europe and provides a mail service, fascinating inside information on Europe, and many other recreational and educational activities. Students interested in a summer job in Europe may write directly to American Student Information Service, Jahnstrasse 56-A, Frankfurt-Main, Germany.
