

Police After Stray Dogs

A "pick up the stray dog" campaign will be in effect this week in College Station, according to an announcement made by Ran Boswell, City Manager.

Police officers have been instructed to pick up all dogs found running loose without proper tags. City ordinance requires that dogs have both a vaccination tag and a city dog tag. Dogs may be licensed at city hall without presentation of evidence of vaccination.

"The City Council is seriously interested in seeing that the stray dog situation doesn't get out of hand," Boswell said. "If rabies ever gets started in an area where lots of stray unvaccinated dogs are on the loose, things can get mighty dangerous, especially for children."

Persons who allow an unvaccinated and untagged dog to run loose are subject to a fine up to $50, according to city ordinance. Persons wishing to claim impounded dogs should contact city hall.

Battalion Sports Editor Joe Callicoate tries out an Italian two-headed hand-carved pipe being offered by a national tobacco company as a premium. Callicoate had trouble at first with the pipe trying to decide just where the tobacco went, but after mastering the filling of the thing was still subjected to a lot of ribbing about his unique pipe. Battalion News Editor Robbie Godwin looks on with amazement.

Classes will meet each Monday night from 7:15 to 9:45 in Room 307 of the Academic Building to enable those with full schedules to attend.

Registrations will be accepted the rest of this week and all of next week. Entering freshmen and students whose native language is something other than English are not eligible.
