

debate Detected between Chinese and Soviet Leaders

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst
Clouds of words about friendship and solidarity, tension can be detected of a debate between the leaders of the Soviet and Chinese communist parties.

The Kremlin chose no less a personage than Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko to sign a long article in Pravda. The Soviet communist newspaper, presented Moscow's case. Despite the usual wordage about great friendship, the article at times appeared to have a petulant tone. One gets the impression the Chinese Communists have been fouling up Nikita Khrushchev's plans for finding a way of living with the Western Democracies while communism waits confidently, though a bit impatiently, for capitalism to collapse under the pressure of Moscow's sustained political and economic offensives.

Less Enthusiastic
The Red Chinese leaders, much more in need of external tensions now than their Soviet breed, appear far less than enthusiastic about Khrushchev's new ventures into India and Southeast Asia.

Gromyko's Pravda article ostensibly was a salute to the 10th anniversary of the Chinese-Soviet mutual assistance pact of 1950. But he reminded the Chinese at the outset about all the Soviets had done for them in the establishment of new industries in China. The Soviet specialists were a steady stream of Soviet equipment to China and "all forms of friendly collaboration."

Cooperation
Gromyko then reminded the Chinese that under the 1950 agreement, both big Communist states expressed readiness to cooperate sincerely in all international activities aimed "at the establishment of peace and security in the whole world."

Gromyko also reminded Peiping that the Soviet Union is guided by the five principles" first proclaimed by the Chinese themselves: mutual respect of sovereignty, territorial integrity, nonaggression, noninterference in internal affairs of other states, equality and mutual advantage, and peaceful coexistence.

Chinese Drop Principles
The Red Chinese are the ones who have kicked the five principles overboard. They invaded territory occupied for years by India and blatantly interfered in the Indonesian government's campaign against Chinese traders in rural areas of the Indonesian island of Java. Both nations are stops on Khrushchev's latest tour, which heightens a

UNFRIENDLY TAP
TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Raymond T. Harmon, 19, thought he saw an old friend sitting in a parked car.

Harmon put his hand into the car window and asked the man, "Don't I know you?"

Apparently he didn't. The man hit Harmon over the head with a metal pipe and drove away.
