

Worth Mentioning

By Johnny Johnson

The report given in this column last week that the Arts and Sciences Council was the only group working on an honor code this year was in error.

A group of Air Force ROTC juniors have been making plans for adoption of an honor code for some time and have even written a proposed honor code which will be made public when they feel they have "gotten it down pat."

Meanwhile the Arts and Science Council under Tucker Sutherland is going full speed ahead and has a meeting planned a week from Monday night with several college officials invited to talk over the plan.

Two hours of military history films will be shown to the public Friday, April 1, from 7 to 9 p. m. in the Chemistry Lecture Room.

According to Capt. William L. Martin, instructor in the Department of Military Science and Tactics, five films will be shown including three main films: "Battle of Gettysburg," "A History of World War II," and "A Prelude to World War II."

John W. Newton, a member of the A&M College System Board of Directors from Beaumont, has been named vice president of the Committee of Governing Boards of Texas States Colleges and Universities.

J. M. Odom, Austin member of the Texas Southern University Board of Directors, was named president to succeed the late Herman F. Heep, who was a member of the A&M College System Board of Directors.

The committee will hold meetings in 19 cities next fall to seek support for improved higher education facilities.

The merger of the Bryan and College Station chambers of commerce has created a problem—the members of the two organizations are unable to agree as to what to call the merged organization.

The constitution under which the two chambers merged said that the new organization would be called the "Brazos County Chamber of Commerce" but already members have called a special meeting Friday, April 1, to hold a vote upon a possible constitutional amendment to change the name to the Bryan-College Station Chamber of Commerce. The new name has the approval of the executive committee and the board of directors, but a vote of the membership of the merged chambers is needed to finalize the name of the Bryan-College Station Chamber of Commerce.

The meeting will held at 10 a. m. in the Bryan City Hall Council Room.

Since Thomas Sanford Gathright was named president of the college in 1876 the college has had 24 administrations. During these 24 administrations 22 men were involved as head of the college at one time or another while only 14, including President Earl Rudder, have been officially designated president.

Chancellor M. T. Harrington served two terms as president. President Emeritus Frank C. Bolton was acting president in 1943-44 and then became president in 1948-50, and Roger Haddock Whitlock served two terms as acting president (1898 and 1901-02) without ever becoming president.

During 1883-1890, the college had no president or acting president but instead the chairman of the faculty served as top administrative officer.

After all, as is the case with all exclusive clubs, there are certain requirements. A T-Bird is o.k., but one of the family models? —They rate nothing more than a long look under the nose. Economy cars? This is a laugh! You don't even get in the door, even if there are only three of them in the world.

For all the particulars on which cars to buy, and how to handle them, and how to tell the phonies and fakes from the real thing, read "Farthest Gone Motorists" in this week's LIFE.

Kennedy's Bandwagon

Wisconsin again becomes the arena for the trying-out of political issues. Jack Kennedy, Democratic hopeful tries to overcome several handicaps by involving the whole family campaign which LIFE'S photographers cover. He is opposed by Hubert Humphrey, his biggest opponent at present, who conducts a campaign of his own among farmers in the Wisconsin area. The result of this early primary could be the deciding factor in the fight for delegates from other states.

35 MM Clue

The film from the bashed and battered Argus camera found at the scene of the recent slaying of three Chicago women may not give any clues to their murder, but they cast an ominous shadow over the mystery.

Hidden Russian Art

Reading Out Loud

The custom of reading in the American family is the pitch behind a recent TV series in which Pulitzer prize winners and other prominent people read to children in an ordinary home situation. It sometimes results in real-life situations on the show, too, such as the extraction of a tooth by one of the youngsters before a television audience in seven cities.
