Rare Opportunity

The Men of Aggieldand will have a rare opportunity with the Saturday inauguration of President Earl Rudder as the fourteenth president of Texas A&M.

The inauguration of a president of a college is comparable to the college as the inauguration of the president of the United States is to the people of this country.

Having the opportunity to take part in this inauguration of the president of their alma mater should be a cherished moment in not only their college career but in the life of the Men of Aggieldand.

The Class of '60 can count themselves among the 13 senior classes to take an active part in the inauguration of one of the presidents of Texas A&M.

Members of the faculty and staff will probably hold the inauguration Saturday as one of the high points in their service to Texas A&M.

Some of the members of the faculty and staff will also take an active part in the inauguration. Many of the colleges and universities in the United States will be represented at the inaugural ceremonies by members of the Texas A&M faculty and staff.

All of those connected with Texas A&M should look upon Saturday's inauguration as an honor to take part in and not just another of the many activities that annually dot the college activity calendar.

Saturday's inauguration will represent much work by many people both on and off the campus.

J. J. Woolket, head of the Department of Modern Languages and chairman of the Inaugural Committee, and the sixteen other members of his committee have been working since last fall to insure the success of the inauguration. The task of this committee has not been an easy one for it has to take care of all the multitude of details connected with such a ceremony. Everyone connected with Texas A&M owe this committee a vote of thanks for their work.

Through the work of the Inaugural Committee some 148 colleges and universities in the United States will be represented at the inauguration Saturday. Also some 55 learned societies and professional associations will have members at the ceremonies.

In addition representatives of the United States and Texas governments will be on hand for the occasion as will members of the Association of Former Students, the student body and private citizens of the state.

With all these distinguished visitors on the campus of Texas A&M today and Saturday, once again the college and the Men of Aggieldand will be on display to show their finest to insure the continuation of the excellent reputation of Texas A&M.

Whether or not the Men of Aggieldand, both Corps and civilian, take advantage of being a witness to one of the big moments in the history of Aggieldand will not affect the success of the inauguration, but if they do not, they will have cheated themselves.

Another Move

The newly-formed Student Chamber of Commerce continued on its organizational trail this past week in setting up an effective and accurate public relations program for Texas A&M.

A president and vice president were elected this week for the chamber and Dean of Engineering Fred J. Benson has accepted the position of faculty advisor.

The chamber has been taking rapid moves to get off the organizational platform and begin actual public relations for Texas A&M. Moreover, the chamber will serve as a media to pool all the ideas and aspects of the various departments across the campus.

Ideas formulated will be utilized college-wide in an effort to present a vivid and accurate picture of Texas A&M and its activities.

Many visitors and observers do not receive an accurate picture of Texas A&M and the organization will attempt to give an overall picture of the College.

The Texas A&M Student Chamber of Commerce, with continued intentions, should establish itself as a necessary faction of the College.

The 1 out of 20 that didn't get smoked

There's a lot of satisfaction in pointing out something good to a friend. That's why it often happens that one cigarette out of a pack of Dual Filter Tareytons never does get smoked.

People break it open to demonstrate its unique Dual Filter containing Activated Charcoal. They may not know why it works so well, but they do know this: It delivers far more than high filtration... it brings out the best taste of the best tobaccos—as no single filter can!

Try a pack of Tareytons. We believe the extra pleasure they bring will soon have you passing the good word to your friends.

HERE'S HOW THE DUAL FILTER DOES IT:

1. It combines a unique inner filter of ACTIVATED CHARCOAL... definitely proved to make the smoke of a cigarette mild and smooth...
2. with an efficient pure white outer filter. Together they bring you the real thing in mildness and fine tobacco taste!
