

Annual Round-Up Meeting Held By UN Club Tuesday

The United Nations Club held its annual round-up meeting Tuesday evening in the YMCA Building, attended by a large number of people from Bryan and College Station.

The program for the evening included round-up remarks by K. Rahman of Pakistan, president of the club, who made a brief survey of the many activities of the club during 1959-60.

Rahman stressed that the primary objective of the club is to promote greater international understanding and thereby to aid in establishing lasting world peace. He also presented a plan for sponsoring a United Nations Club Scholarship Fund for assisting international students studying at A&M.

In summarizing the various activities of the UN Club, Rahman told of the educational programs presented in the past two months, including a seminar on the world population problems initiated by Dr. R. L. Skrabanek of the Department of Agricultural Economics and Sociology.

Another program presented was a panel discussion on the U. S. general elections of 1960 in which top state and district leaders of the Democratic and Republican parties participated. An interesting talk presented by eight ladies representing different regions of the world on the changing status of women in the different countries was also given during the year.

A program featuring Latin America was given as a short prelude to Pan-American Week, and salient features of Latin America were presented through talks, dances, songs and music accompanied by Latin-American refreshments at the occasion.

"The club has more than 100 members from nations all over the world now; perhaps the most significant of the achievements this year is the bringing in of an increased number of Latin American nationals to take active parts in its programs," said Rahman.

Compliments Paid
Compliments were paid to representatives of the various countries for their cooperation in all affairs aimed toward the realization of the club's primary objectives, and special mention was made of the valuable assistance rendered by Dr. C. C. Doak, sponsor of the club, Col. R. L. Melcher, foreign students advisor, and J. Gordon Gay, Secretary of the YMCA.

Following Rahman's statements, Chancellor M. T. Harrington congratulated the club for its activities and achievements. Then Col. Melcher, foreign students advisor, commended the work of the executive committee for the record activities participated in this past year.

The outgoing president, Rahman, then thanked the audience and nominated Gay as convener of the club for the coming year. Completing the meeting, all present were served light refreshments.

ARCHITECTURE SLATES TWO SUMMER COURSES

The Division of Architecture will offer two courses during the 1960 summer session. They will be conducted by architecture staff members.

The first class will cover free-hand drawing, figure drawing, outdoor drawing, and color. Architecture students who have taken Architecture 101, 102, 115, 116, or other satisfactory training can take the class credit for Architecture 205 or 206, Graphic Arts. The class will be open to residents of the Bryan-College Station area with a high school education.

Classes will run from June 7 to July 15 and will meet afternoons Monday through Thursday. Joseph Donaldson, Jr. will be the artist-lecturer.

Another course offered by the division this summer will be entitled "History of Art and Civilization."

The course, taught by Professor M. M. Rotsch of the Division of Architecture, is a survey of the history of Western Civilization from the stone age, medieval period, and renaissance to the present day. Emphasis is placed on the development of painting, sculpture, the minor arts, languages, writing, science, philosophy, and early religions.

First Time Offered
The only prerequisite is junior classification or approval by the head of the division. This is the first time Architecture 329 has been offered during the summer session.

The course is a required part of the curriculum for architecture students and is offered to students in other areas of the college as an elective, according to Rotsch. He plans to make use of slides in the presentation of the course.

Telephone Delegates To Hear SMU Psychology Professor

"Understanding and Motivating People" will be the topic of a talk which Dr. A. Q. Sartain of Dallas will make at the annual employee conference of The Southwestern States Telephone Co. in College Station next week.

Sartain, professor of psychology and industrial relations at Southern Methodist University, will speak at the afternoon session Tuesday.

Approximately 90 supervisory employees from the East Texas division, South Texas division and Louisiana division of the Southwestern States Telephone Co. will attend the conference.

Sartain is director of graduate studies in the Department of Management in the SMU School of Business Administration. He has been an SMU faculty member since 1932, and for a number of years he was chairman of the Department of Psychology and also of the Department of Personnel Administration.

Sartain has lectured widely in Dallas and the Southwest on subjects relating to psychology and especially to human relations in business and industry. He has served as management consultant to many companies, especially on supervisory training and executive development. He has written numerous papers in psychology and industrial relations and is co-author of two books.

to build an idea —
start with a vision

Every member of the Bryan-College Station Community has the privilege of being counted a BUILDER of Crestview. The IDEA of establishing this personal retirement facility in our community is too good to let pass. Each of us must give according to the VISION we have concerning our country, our community, ourselves. SPEAKING . . .

ECONOMICALLY — the expanding population demands that we look ahead to plan for such establishments for our Senior Citizens.

MORALLY — we are responsible for the care of the aged, regardless of their numbers.

PERSONALLY — we must plan for ourselves and our own "age of fulfillment".

ANY ONE of these would be reason enough to establish Crestview. BUT together — they serve as the basis for OUR best individual and community efforts.

EVERY gift, large and small, is important. Each donation will be recognized. Use the pledge card below. Mail it today, or take the card by "Crestview Headquarters" — West 25th and Washington Streets.
