

Architecture Grads To Get Masters

Three graduates of the Division of Architecture expect to receive masters degrees in architecture from schools other than A&M in June.

They are Key Kolb of 3039 Grayson Dr., Dallas, Class of '57; who is completing his work at the University of Pennsylvania; William McKown of 614 Birge, Dumas, Class of '58, at the University of Southern California; and Dan Rambo of 3624 Encanto Dr., Fort Worth, Class of '58, at the University of North Carolina.

The following recent graduates expect to do graduate work on fellowships ranging from $2,200 to $2,500 from schools in the fall of 1960: Cecil Steward of 1320 Terrace, Pampa, Class of '57; Dale Hutton of 814 E. Commerce, Altus, Okla., Class of Jan. '60; Elam Denham of Rt. 1, Clarksdale, Miss., Class of '59; and Jack Solka of 1321 Brentwood, Corpus Christi, Class of '58, all of whom will be working toward masters degrees on fellowships at Columbia University; J. V. Cudd of 635 Stoner St.,

Aggies in Service

Army 2nd Lt. Gayneal R. Grigsby, '59, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Grigsby, 203 E. Eleventh St., Mount Pleasant, Tex., recently was assigned to the 62nd Artillery at Fort Bliss, Tex.

Lt. Grigsby, commander of the artillery's 16th Detachment, entered the Army last January.

Army Lt. Col. Claude C. Stewart, '42, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Stewart, Route 3, Waco, Tex., recently participated with other personnel from the 8th Infantry Division Artillery's headquarters in supervising Operation Pathfinder I, a two-day air mobility operation in Germany.

The exercise was designed to determine unit efficiency in organizing a task force and moving as soon as possible to a simulated trouble area. During Pathfinder I, personnel and equipment of the 8th Division were flown from Sembach Air Base in Germany to Chambley Air Base in France, and upon arrival were immediately deployed in tactical situations.

Col. Stewart, assigned to the headquarters in Baumholder, entered the Army in 1942, was last stationed at The Pentagon, Washington, D. C., and arrived overseas on this tour of duty last April.

Cottonseed Men Honor Dr. Gaines In San Antonio

Dr. J. C. Gaines, head of the Department of Entomology, was presented Tuesday the cottonseed crushing industry's Outstanding Award, a bronze plaque, at the 66th annual convention of the Texas Cottonseed Crushers' Assn. being held at the St. Anthony Hotel in San Antonio.

Gaines was cited for the development of the excellent cotton insect control program in Texas and for his outstanding service to both the cotton farmer and the cattleman of Texas.

B. W. Beckham of Corpus Christi is president of the association, representing the cotton and allied industries in Texas. Some 400 industry leaders were in attendance at the meeting.

Mayor Langford Outlines Duties Of New Board

Ernest Langford, mayor of College Station, recently outlined the function of the city's Board of Literary Review.

The board, composed of six citizen members along with the city attorney, was appointed by the mayor recently following the passage of Ordinance No. 293 dealing with obscene literature.

Langford pointed out that the board was created as an advisory board to city officials with the specific responsibility to review and make recommendation only.

"The board is not a policing body," he said.

Persons who have publications to which they object are requested to phone the city hall and ask for an appointment to appear before the board with evidence, Langford said. The board, which meets every second Wednesday in each month at 4:30 p.m. in the Council Room of the City Hall, will hear the complaint and make its recommendation to the city officials.

Langford emphasized that the board is an advisory one, and stated that the members of the board will not act as individuals. All action taken will be as a board in session.

A future Aggie date was born in San Antonio to Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Delavan, '63, of 201 Patricia St., College Station. Cathy Marie was born at 7:22 a.m., May 23.

58 Teachers Here Attending Special School

Fifty-eight junior and senior high school teachers are attending the advanced summer courses being held here Monday through July 15.

Coleman Loyd, professor in the Department of Physics, is director-general of the programs.

This, the fifth annual Summer Institute, is sponsored by A&M with funds from the National Science Foundation, the Schlumberger Foundation and industries operating in Texas.

The courses are designed to better prepare the teachers in such courses as chemistry, biology, oceanography, meteorology, astronomy, mathematics, physics and geology.

Attending from College Station is William H. Morley of Anson Jones Junior High School, Bryan.

Attending from Bryan are Gayle Todd, Wesley Clayton Collier, Norbert K. Ohlendorf and Dalton F. Sweeten, all of Stephen F. Austin High School.

Annual Poultry Short Course Opens Here Monday Morning

A&M's annual Poultry Short Course, sponsored by the Department of Poultry Science and the Texas Poultry Improvement Assn., will be held Monday through Thursday.

E. D. Parnell, professor in the Department of Poultry Science, said the conference is held to train agents for breeders and hatcherymen to operate under the National Poultry Improvement Plan. Enrollment, however, is not limited to those persons and anyone interested is invited to attend.

He said course subject will cover breeding, management, disease prevention and feeding.

One of the main attractions will be a discussion of poultry disease problems Wednesday by members of the School of Veterinary Medicine.

Two of the many speakers on the program are Jerry Hinshaw, general manager of the Arbor Acres Southwest Poultry Farms at Springdale, Ark., who will talk on "Producing High Quality Hatching Eggs," and Dr. A. Allen Heidebrecht, nutritionist for Paymaster Feed Mills at Abilene, who will discuss "Feeding the Breeding Flock."

Parnell, who is program chairman, emphasized that the course will be made up of 50 per cent work sessions, while the balance is discussion and talks.
