Although Father's Day 50; Idea Has Old Origination

Father's Day may be officially 50 years old this Sunday, but tributes to Dad are an ancient tradition.

Probably the oldest is a clay tablet written by Elmesu, a Babylonian, about 2,000 years before Christ. It implores the gods to grant his father good health and "enduring days"—wishes which are echoed in a thousand different ways on this year's affectionate Father's Day greeting cards.

On the sentimental side, for example:

You do so very much for others,
In a way that really counts,
And give your time and patience
In such generous amounts,
That on special days like this one,
When we're wishing things for you,
We always wish the very best,
For nothing else would do!

And from an affectionate to a light-hearted tribute to the family's "forgotten man" comes this one from the same publisher:

'... Dish... Wisher'
"Happy Father's Day from your favorite Dish... Washer!"

Several of the 'off-beat' studio cards depict Dad as he really is: "To Dad who is always calm, cool and... collected from!"

And, "to good ol' Pop... Happy Pauper's Day!"

Dad may be King in America (well for one day, anyway) but in some parts of the world, he could stand a little recognition.

In the South Seas
On Palau Island in the South Seas, for example, the ruling matriarch can have any male executed if he even disturbs her contemplation.

And near Sumatra, Dad has to go live with his wife's family; children take their mother's name—and only daughters inherit property.

In India, Dad's in even worse shape. If he goes into debt, Mother can sell him into slavery to pay off his creditors. And in the African Sudan, Mother may return to her parents after bearing five children—leaving Father to look after the little ones.

Not Always Low
Fathers were not always low men on the totem pole, though.

Back in Ancient Greece, an annual festival honored Zeus, father of the gods. Zeus was also patron of human fathers, and dutiful sons gave their Dads the traditional gift—a cluster of ripe grapes.

Probably the champion father of all time was Emperor Mulai Ismail of Morocco, who died in 1727 at the age of 81, leaving 548 sons and 340 daughters. He had 300 wives and 700 concubines.

The setting apart of a day on which to honor fathers by special services in churches and in other ways, originated independently in different parts of the country and in different years. Different days were chosen before there came to be a general agreement on the third Sunday in June.

Idea Come in 1909

The credit for making the first suggestion of a Father's Day belongs to Mrs. John Bruce Dodd of Spokane, Wash. The idea came to Mrs. Dodd in 1909 as a suitable tribute to her own father who had successfully reared a family of children after the death of their mother.

Mrs. Dodd took her plan to a preacher. A resolution was drawn up a year later and on June 10, 1910, the first known Father's Day was observed in Spokane, sponsored by the Spokane Ministerial Assn. and the YMCA.

The first observance of truly national proportions was in 1922 on the third Sunday in June. It has continued on that day ever since.

Little League

by Russell Brown

The rise of the White Sox and the fall of the Orioles highlighted the American League, South Little League activity last week as the Red Sox moved into the first place slot ahead of the Birds and the White Sox shoved the Senators into the cellar.

The White Sox started the Orioles' skid Thursday night with a convincing 12-2 decision over the league leaders, as Eddie Putz set the Birds down on four hits while his teammates were spiking the platter in every frame but the third. Duke Butler, John Skrabaneck, and Tommy Cartwright each had two hits in the seven-hit Sox attack against Willie Edmonds and Dennis Chaney while Jerry Davis had a homer and a single.

The Senators dropped the Pale Hose the following night as Howard Nelson came within two outs of pitching the loop's first no-hitter. Butler and Cartwright ruined his bid in the sixth after a walk and an error had spoiled his shutout in the fourth. Walter Varvel slammed a homer and a single to pace the winners.

The Red Sox continued to lay it on the chin of the Orioles on Monday as Bill Gilliam came through with a two-hitter to give his club a 9-1 decision. Only Davis' two-out double in the first spoiled the tall righthander's whitewashing. Steve Prescott and Jimbo Robison had two hits apiece to back up Gilliam with a six-hit night.

Tuesday found one of the best played tilts in the league thus far as the White Sox got the pitching and fielding combined to edge the Senators, 4-2, in a quick contest. Duke Butler and Joe Williams wound up in a pitcher's duel as Butler allowed the Senators four hits, while stranding six runners on the sacks. The little righthander spaced four walks effectively, while whiffing eight. Williams pitched almost an identical tilt, but an error and battery trouble in the first gave the White Sox three runs in the first frame and the Sens never could catch up. The final tally came in the fifth on Jim Butler's double, a passed ball and an infield out.

Wildness cost the Orioles their third straight loss Wednesday night as Doyle Robertson and Tommy Johns yielded 18 bases on balls while the White Sox were banging out 10 hits to take a 17-7 win over the fading Birds. The White Sox jumped into third place with the win, tallying in every inning. Three walks in the first plus a timely single started the ball rolling for the White Sox before the Orioles took a short-lived 5-3 lead in the second on some rocky pitching by winner Eddie Putz. But the Sox tied the count in the third on three more walks and two hits before breaking the tilt wide open with six tallies in the fourth, four in the fifth, and two in the sixth. The Orioles rallied bravely in the fourth but scored only two runs as Putz allowed only one more base runner in the final two frames. Jerry Davis, Oriole catcher, went into the game with a .750 average but Putz whittled it down to .600 as the big backstop flied out three times and walked once.

Nelson Top Hurler
Howard Nelson leads the pitching column as the southpaw hurler has picked up two straight wins, the only ones for the Sens this year. Helped out by 14 strikeouts against the White Sox, the Senator twirler has whiffed 27 in 12 innings while walking 11 and giving up only two earned runs for a fine 1.00 ERA.

Minerals School Begins Monday

A special workshop in rocks and minerals for elementary and junior high school teachers, will get under way next Monday.

It will last through July 15. It will be conducted by the Department of Geology and Physics, with Dr. M. C. Schroeder, associate professor in the Department of Geology, director. The course is made possible by a grant from the National Science Foundation.

The course is a special project and the only one of its kind in the nation.

Main objectives of the course are to give teachers knowledge to aid them in helping their students who are working on rock and mineral collections. It will also enable teachers to give adequate presentations of earth sciences and to develop ideas for Science Fair projects in the earth sciences.

Forty hours of lectures will be given and will also feature lectures by visiting scientists.
