Little League

by Russell Brown

The Senators pounded the Orioles twice during the final week of American League South's action to cop the full league title for the 1960 season.

After the South All-Stars had dropped a heart-breaking 4-2 loss to Bryan's American League North Stars Friday, the league continued its playoff series.

Walter Varvel of the Sens and Buddy Scherff of the Bryan Tigers locked horns in a brilliant exhibition of pitching in the tournament tilt as a pair of two-run homers by the Bryanites gave them the right to continue to the District Tournament.

Varvel yielded only four safeties to the winners, pitching only 77 pitches, 12 of which were balls. Scherff's two run clout in the fourth tied the count at 2-2 and shortstop Bobby Ulich settled things in the bottom of the sixth with a two run blast.

Scherff tossed a one-hitter for the winners, walking three and whiffing seven. In constant hot water as a result of teammates' bobbles, Scherff retired the side in every inning but the fourth with a strikeout, stranding six College Station base runners.

The losers tallied first in the fourth frame on Varvel's swinging bunt single, and a throwing error by Scherff on Duke Miller's roller. Varvel legged it all the way home and Miller went to third, later scoring on Jerry Davis' slow roller to short. But the roof caved in on the College Station hopes with Ulich's final swipe.

Paced by Walter Varvel's two homers, one single, and five RBI's the Sens took the first game of the playoff between the winners of the separate halves. Howard Nelson held the Orioles to four hits, losing his shutout in the fifth on a single, a walk, and Jerry Davis' ground rule double.

Nelson walked four and struck out seven in putting the Sens one-up while the Nats were running away with the victory with seven runs in the second. Varvel cracked a grand slam homer and a solo blast, his ninth and tenth of the season.

Dennis Chaney absorbed the loss, going all the way. The Bird righthander walked three and struck out four.

Varvel's 3-4 night coupled with Jim Stephenson's 2-2 night paced the winners while Mike Stevenson picked up two safeties for the Orioles.

Wednesday the Sens ended the season with a sloppy 10-4 win over the same Orioles. The Orioles out-hit the winners, four to one, but six errors for both clubs, and 15 walks to the Sens sent the Nats to the top of the circuit.

Varvel threw the four-hitter at the Orioles and cracked his 11th homer of the campaign for the Senators' only base knock. Willie Edmonds, Stevenson, and Doyle Robertson hurled ineffectively for the losers.

New Magazine Forecasts Coming Football Season

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

Associated Press Sports Writer "Texas Football," an exhaustive study of what's coming up in the Southwest Conference, Texas colleges and high schools, hit the news stands last week.

It is a publication that has been needed for a long time and should enjoy a wide circulation.

In magazine form, it was compiled and written by Dave Campbell, sports editor of the Waco News-Tribune, and Al Ward, who was a sports writer on the Waco paper until recently when he became public relation director for the American Football League.

It is 97 pages packed with information, interestingly told, and its analysis of Southwest Conference football coming up this fall is penetrating.

And for the first time in print the state's gigantic high school football campaign has been reviewed, with champions selected and all district races in each of the classes that play to state titles given detailed research.

Texas Picked

Texas is the team to watch in Southwest Conference football, writes the erudite Campbell, who points out that it will have its best sophomore crop since 1957 to go with stars like Jack Collins, who is being boomed for All-America. And Collins will head the finest offensive team in the 4-year regime of Darrell Royal.

Campbell thinks Baylor, Arkansas and Texas Christian are top contenders for the title and admits that conference football, what it is, could very well see Southern Methodist, Texas A&M, Rice or Texas Tech—the second-division teams in the forecasts—take championships.

Lance Alworth of Arkansas, E. J. Holub of Texas Tech, Bob Lilly of Texas Christian and Collins are among the players rated outstanding for 1960.

University of Houston, North Texas State, the independents and the Lone Star and Border Conferences are reviewed.

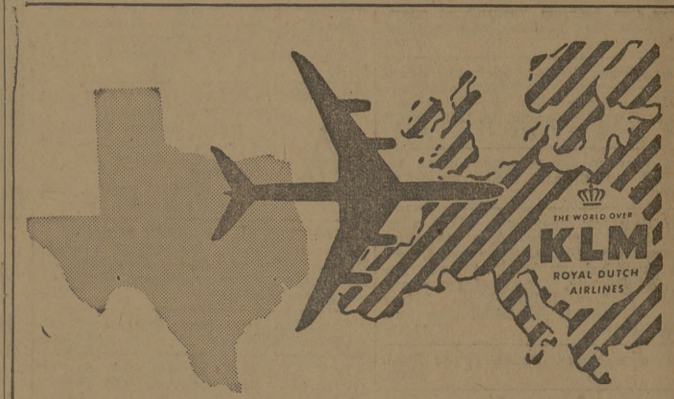

High School Section
The high school section should attract tremendous interest. Campbell and Ward have dug up the fact that since 1951—when the state race became four divisions—West Texas has shown marked superiority. It has won 21 of the 36 championships.

Among the schoolboy stars is Ernie Koy Jr. of Bellville. His daddy was one of the greats of Southwest Conference history.

Port Arthur will win Class AAAA, Sweetwater AAA, Olney AA and Stinnett or Sundown Class A this fall, says Texas Football.

Louis B. Rogers of Baton Rouge, La., has a 3-year-old colt named Chinese Bandits, after the LSU defensive football unit.
