

8,657 ACRES IN ALL

More to Campus Than You'd Think

Aggies may not realize the vastness of the A&M campus. There are 8,657 acres in the campus and adjacent agricultural areas.

Of the total acreage, 4,392 acres are on the west side of the campus across the railroad tracks. The rest is the 3,192-acre college plantation, 10 miles southwest of College Station in the Brazos River bottomland.

The upland near the campus is assigned to various agricultural departments, which includes the only School of Veterinary Medicine in Texas.

Animal Husbandry

The Department of Animal Husbandry has 1,200 acres which is divided among the swine, sheep, beef cattle and horse centers. Approximately 300 pure bred cattle, 1,000 hogs, 250 sheep, and 50 horses help carry out the department's main purpose of teaching and research.

Hereford, Angus and Brahma cattle; Rambouillet, Southdown, Hampshire and Suffolk sheep; Berkshire, Duroc, Hampshire, Chester White and Poland China hogs are some of the different breeds of livestock found at the centers.

Joining the swine center is the 154-acre poultry farm. The latest equipment and techniques in poultry industry are used here.

There are about 15,000 laying hens and 800 turkeys on the farm. Every year 75,000 to 100,000 chicks are hatched for replacements and broilers.

Horticulture

Directly north of the poultry farm is the Department of Horticulture's testing plots. Peach, fig, peach, plum and pear trees, along with vegetables, cover most of the 105 acres. Horticulture students receive experience in grafting, pruning, disease control and producing.

Dairy Farm

The dairy farm is located about two miles west of the campus. With approximately 400 cows, the farm furnishes testing and research for the students.

Milk, ice cream and many other dairy products for the mess halls and Memorial Student Center are produced by the A&M Creamery from milk received from the dairy farm.

The milking process can be observed daily at 3 p.m. through a large window at the modern milk parlor.

Easterwood Field

Easterwood Field, two miles southwest on FM 60, is the largest college-owned airport in the nation. The airport is used for passenger service and flight training for ROTC seniors.

An atomic Nuclear Science Center is now being constructed near the airport.

Range and Forestry

Joining the airport is 1130 acres assigned to the Department of Range and Forestry and 176 acres for the Military Reservation.

The Department of Military Science and Tactics trains junior and senior advanced Army ROTC cadets on the military reservation.

School of Veterinary Medicine
The School of Veterinary Medicine is the only one in Texas and is one of the top veterinary medicine schools in the nation.

Admission is obtained only after completion of the program in pre-veterinary medicine and selection is based on a quota which will be admitted for the session under consideration.

Entomology

Near the School of Veterinary Medicine is the Entomology Research Laboratory. The Department of Entomology is in continual research on the biological development, habits, and control of insect pests attacking farm crops and livestock.

College Plantation

The college plantation's 3,192 acres are located about eight miles from the campus in the fertile Brazos River bottomland. The farm begins on the south side of the road immediately to the west of the bridge and south of FM 60. There are 26 tractors, 3 bulldozers and a number of trucks and other farm equipment used on the farm.

The farm's primary purpose is to assist with research work carried on by the college.

The Departments of Agricultural Engineering, Agronomy, Animal Husbandry, Range and Forestry, Entomology and Plant Pathology use the farm for direct application, testing and research on farm machinery, insecticides and crops.

Many crops are grown on the farm, the primary crops being cotton, corn and maize. Other crops grown are sesame, oats, alfalfa, castor beans, sunflowers, vetch and grain sorghums.

The plantation headquarters is two miles southeast of the river bridge.

Several roads lead across the plantation. Visitors are welcome to tour the farm to see the various crops grown and the modern farming method and machinery used.

Campus Parking Rules, Restrictions Revealed

A complete list of parking rules and regulations for both students and faculty members has been announced by the Department of Student Affairs for the new school year.

Students are reminded their motor vehicles must be registered in 48 hours of their arrival on the campus. The fees are $3 per regular semester, as well as $3 per summer session.

Students will be issued stickers to be displayed on the lower left corner of their windshields that will designate the parking lots they are to use. A 50 cent fee will be charge for issuing new stickers after initial ones have been lost or destroyed.

The college employees will register each and every vehicle they are to use on campus as soon as possible. This registration is conducted in Room 117 of the Campus Security Office of the Young Men's Christian Assn. Building.

Students register their vehicles either at the Campus Security Office or when they pay registration fees.

Six Parking Zones

The main campus area is divided into six administrative parking zones with a designated zone administrator. The zone administrator may designate a numbered reserved parking space to a staff member for which a fee of $2.50 is charged. The zone administrator may locate the reserved space as he deems available and may deny or withdraw an assigned space as college needs are best served.

Outside the zoned areas of the campus are designated Fringe Area Parking for which an employee may register his vehicle for a $1 fee. These vehicles registered for the Fringe Areas must not park elsewhere on the campus during the business hours of the college, 8 a.m.-5 p.m.

All vehicle campus registration permit numbers must be displayed and firmly attached to the lower left inside the windshield.

Violation Notices

When violations of the rules and regulations are made a notice will be placed on the vehicle and the offender will take the notice to the Cashier, Fiscal Office, and pay the reinstatement fee. If the violator believes that the violation notice is in error, he may give notice of appeal to the Office of Campus Security.

Reinstatement fees for all moving violations is $3, while parking violation fees are $2.

If the fine is not paid in 72 hours of the violation, a penalty of $5 will be added to the usual fee. In calculating the 72 hours, Saturdays, Sundays and holidays are not counted. The driver may also be subject to restriction to driving on campus if he does not make reinstatement in the 72 hour period.

If the offender chooses not to pay the reinstatement fee he may report to the Campus Security Office and be restricted for 30 days for each notice. Credit for time off the campus as payment for a violation notice is given only when the vehicle is registered.

Campus Security patrolmen will issue some courtesy notices at the beginning of the school year.

Restrictions

Any person who accumulates a total of five regular violation notices in a semester will be restricted for a period of three months while in school, and the penalties involved in these violations will be paid at the prescribed rate. Where an unregistered vehicle is involved credit for time on registration begins the date the vehicle was registered.

Persons who are under vehicle restriction may not drive any other vehicle on the campus. Nor can any other person drive the restricted vehicle on campus.

The restriction may be continued and the student required to pay all delinquent notices before reinstatement. The student may be placed on conduct probation and/or given any other suitable punishment authorized by College Regulations.

The student may also be suspended from the College as prescribed in College Regulations. In making this determination the student's entire record may be used. The Counselor or Tactical Officer may recommend all traffic and parking violations outstanding on a suspended student be paid before he is permitted to re-enter school.

The Counselor or Tactical Officer may recommend the Degree of any student be held up pending his clearing his traffic and parking record.

The money collected from registrations and reinstatements will pay for the registration procedure and for improvement in the parking facilities on the campus and for enforcement of regulations.

Some new area has been added during the summer and many other parking improvements have been made in the last two years.
