

Baylor Cubs On Tab For Ag Frosh Tonight

The A&M freshmen hit the road again tonight for the second straight week as they travel to Waco for a battle with Baylor's Cubs.

Coach Travis (Shorty) Hughes said that the Cubs have a top notch ball team and really outplayed the Texas freshmen last week, even though they lost the contest. Hughes cited the Cub's passing game as being quite effective.

Mistakes Costly
"We made too many mistakes last week," said Hughes, but also we've improved a lot over last week."

Although the first team is the smallest A&M has had in the past few years, they put up a fierce battle against the TCU Wogs last week's 12-0 loss. Both chances they had to even the score, the breaks went against them. One time a penalty cancelled a scoring drive while time ran out on the other.

Top Hands
Last week Jerry Rogers was the big gun in the Fish defense as he picked up 56 yards. Running close behind Rogers was George Hargett.

Kenneth Bode was the defensive mainstay for the Fish against TCU, as he played much of the night in the middle of Wog offense.

Injured List
Eddie Hall will be engineering the Fish tonight in place of Jim Linnstaedter who started at quarterback against TCU. Linnstaedter will play only on defense because of an injury.

Last year the Fish fell to the Cubs, 7-6, after they carried the opening kickoff 96 yards for a touchdown, but the point try failed.

INTRAMURALS

Intramural sports continued to roll in this first week of competition. In Class B football Sq. 4 ran past I-2, 7-6; and F-2 edged Sq. 15, 8-6.
In the most active sport of the day, Class B horseshoes, A-1 pitched past Sq. 1, 2-1; Sq. 11 won over C-1, 2-1; D-1 edged Sq. 12, 2-1; and E-1 eopped C-2, 2-1.
In Class A basketball, G-2 out-shot Sq. 4 to win 25-19.
M-Band took Sq. 3 by forfeit in Class A handball.

Injuries Visit A&M, TCU

The injuries were in the Aggie Grid camp yesterday as they worked "on everything" in preparation for the Texas Christian Horned Frog battle Saturday on Kyle Field.
Randy Sims was nursing an injured knee, Jack Estes a bruised shoulder and Carter Franklin was still out with a hip injury.

Coach Jim Myers had Jim Phillips running in Franklin's guard slot, while Babe Chaig handled Sims' duties at halfback.
This week's opponents for the Cadets, TCU, also had a starting guard on the limping list. Buddy Lucas from Fort Worth will miss Saturday's game because of a torn ligament in his ankle. He will be replaced by Bill Phillips from Snyder, who alternated with him in TCU's 21-7 victory over Texas Tech last weekend.

In other states stories are printed on all games but there are only about 150 teams to follow and this can be done. In Texas there are more than 400 games a week.
On a Friday night during September, October and November there will be 450 scores and a dozen stories of major games. Just printing the scores takes up two columns on the sports page.

The metropolitan newspapers will carry stories on all games in the area. Some will have as many as three pages filled with these reports.
The reason is obvious: 8,000,000 fans watch the Texas schoolboy football race. Where there is so much interest the newspapers know they must bring the news of the campaign.

Interscholastic League Grid Campaign Has Gigantic Scope

By The Associated Press
The Texas Interscholastic League football race is in its forty-first year and millions of words have been written about it, but it is doubtful if one person in ten realizes the gigantic scope of this gridiron campaign.

This was brought forcibly to mind when the reader of a newspaper complained because nothing except score was run on her favorite school.
In other states stories are printed on all games but there are only about 150 teams to follow and this can be done. In Texas there are more than 400 games a week.

The metropolitan newspapers will carry stories on all games in the area. Some will have as many as three pages filled with these reports.
The reason is obvious: 8,000,000 fans watch the Texas schoolboy football race. Where there is so much interest the newspapers know they must bring the news of the campaign.

In the 40 years of the League more than a quarter of a million boys have played football. From them have come some of the greatest players of all time — Doak Walker, Bobby Layne, Sam Baugh, John Kimbrough, Ki Aldrich, Bo McMillin, Ben Lee Boynton, Davey O'Brien, Jim Swink, Dicky Moegle, Joel Hunt.

More than 900 high schools have football teams in Texas. Some of them are so small they can have only 6-man teams. Others can afford 8-man squads. Getting the reports of these games is quite a project. There are schools that can not be reached by telephone at night.
The league has survived and prospered because it laid down strict rules of play and eligibility and adhered to them. There are times when the rules appear unjust and create hardships. But it is only because the League knows that it can not let the bars down on anything. The whole must be served at the expense of the few that might find the rules too harsh in their particular cases.
There is a continuing fight against professionalism. The League adopted an amateur rule many years ago. It prohibits high school athletes receiving anything of appreciable value as a reward for good football. It even forbids the athletes competing on teams that have professionals.
The Interscholastic League football campaign is one of the few that will not consider a protest over interpretation of the rules of play. When a game is played there is nothing that can be done to reverse the score except when it is proven that there are ineligible players.

If the League should consider protests of the officials' decisions it would spend all its time holding hearings. With so many schools and so many games there would be scores of hearings each week.
Rodney J. Kidd, director of the League, tells of the coach who called him up and said he figured he had been beaten out of a ball game by an officials' ruling like this.
One team had scored a touchdown and lined up to kick the point afterward. The kick was blocked and a player on the scoreless team picked up the ball and ran across the opposing goal line. Then this team lined up and kicked the extra point. It thus won the game 7-6. The coach got to thinking about it that night and figured that he had been beaten by an official's decision. So he called up Kidd. Kidd then athletic director of the league, told the coach that was just too bad—he had selected the officials for the game and would have to abide by their decision. They just couldn't go back and play the game over.

New SWC Highs Gain Highlight Last Weekend

By The Associated Press
Leslie Letsinger of Arkansas kicked a football 72 yards against Baylor last week and it was one of the new highs of the Southwest Conference season.

Another was a 78-yard pass interception return by Pat Culppepper of Texas against Oklahoma.

Tommy Brennan of Southern Methodist took four kickoff returns back 80 yards for a third high while two were tied.

Larry Dawson of Texas Christian, Ray Poage of Texas and Ronnie Goodwin of Baylor each scored two touchdowns to tie a high.

Arkansas had a season high in team punting average with 43.8 yards against Baylor and Arkansas tied for the most kickoff returns, with five for 89 yards against Baylor.
