Nikky May Get Summit Meeting

INTERPRETING Kennedy, Nixon On Touchy Ground

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst
John F. Kennedy and Richard M. Nixon have taken their debate onto dangerous ground in the Far East.

In the matter of Quemoy and Matsu the United States has been pursuing one of the most delicately balanced policies in its whole great array of military postures.

As part of a treaty obligation to Nationalist China, Quemoy and Matsu will be defended if Red China attacks them for the purpose of clearing the invasion path to Formosa. That is all that is definite. How such is all that is would be reached is itself indefinite.

For the rest, John Foster Dul-

By The Associated Press
NEW YORK—Premier Khrushchev's wild, fist-swinging visit in all likelihood has assured him an early summit conference with the next U. S. president.

But, in achieving this goal, his brutal, bull-dozer tactics have maneuvered the Soviet Union into a massive defeat within the United Nations.

Khrushchev's unprecedented 25-day rampage in the heart of the capitalist world has heightened rather than reduced international tensions at a dangerous time in world history.

The Kremlin leader badly, almost arrogantly, overplayed his hand. Western leaders suspected his strategy might backfire even though he came with the loudly advertised intention of promoting international disarmament.

The West's counterstrategy of meeting him with moderate, reasonable language paid off—at least for the time being.

Khrushchev can regard this setback as a flyspeck on what he believes to be the road to Communist mastery of the world.

Tomorrow he can turn around and coo like a Soviet dove to cushion the impact of his harsh threats in a jittery world.

But, for the present, at least, he appears to have succeeded in bewildering, stunning and frightening not only the West but most of the leaders of the neutral and new nations in the United Nations.

Few will ever forget the spectacle, of the boss of the Communist empire roaring threats of war from the U. N. rostrum, denouncing foes as "jerks" and "lackeys."

This is the B-52. Advanced as it may be, this airplane has one thing in common with the first war-galleys of ancient Egypt...and with the air and space vehicles of the future. Someone must chart its course. Someone must navigate it.

For certain young men this presents a career of real executive opportunity. Here, perhaps you will have the chance to master a profession full of meaning, excitement and rewards...as a Navigator in the U. S. Air Force.

To qualify for Navigator training as an Aviation Cadet you must be an American citizen between 19 and 26½—single, healthy and intelligent. A high school diploma is required, but some college is highly desirable. Successful completion of the training program leads to a commission as a Second Lieutenant...and your Navigator wings.

If you think you have what it takes to measure up to the Aviation Cadet Program for Navigator training, see your local Air Force Recruiter. Or clip and mail this coupon.

Editor,
The Battalion:
Although the Texas Aggies have never lost a game, we have been outscored quite a number of times in the past few years.

Everyone knows that we can't have a powerhouse every year, but with the proper mixture of fight and desire we can at least upset a few apple carts.

In order to do this, the students, along with the ex-students, must show the team that we are behind them.

The desire of the individual plus the desire of the student body adds up to a team victory. Coach Jim Myers can handle the physical preparation, and to a certain degree, the mental preparation. However, that last ounce of desire that makes them push themselves beyond their abilities and win, even against a stronger team, must come from the student body.

The road to the championship is going to be rough—maybe unobtainable this year, but we don't have to be last! Let's start with

TCU this weekend and see how many of the 'big ones' we can upset.

If you think it's hard to lose while you are in school, just wait until you have to work with a bunch of tea sippers and you will find out what it's like to really take a ribbing.
