

Consolidated Meets Eagles Friday at 8

By RUSSELL BROWN
Battalion Sports Writer

The battle royal of District 19-AA presents itself on Tiger Field this Friday night beginning at 8 as the A&M Consolidated Tigers and the Hearne Eagles square off in an all-important conference tilt.

Both clubs opened 19-AA play last week, the Tigers cracking open their lid with a convincing 16-0 success over Caldwell while the league-leading Eagles were taking it on the chin from Rockdale 31-6. Non-district-wise the Tigers won one and lost five while the Eagles compiled a 4-2 mark.

The contest will feature football in all aspects, as the Tigers use the running game and the rock-ribbed defense while the Eagles rely on the aerial and wide-open type football.

Big gun thus far has been little 150-pound Simon Martinez, a junior quarterback with the knack for throwing the football. "Golden Arm," as he is dubbed, has hurled his mates to their four victories, rolling up 178 points in seven tilts. Also in the Eagle backfield, 170-pound Larry Coe is the power runner from fullback while 160-pound Howard White and 145-pound Grady Russell are the seatbacks. Coach Ken Batson's line is headed by 213-pound senior Julio Vargas at tackle. Vargas was an all-district end as a sophomore but laid out the season last year because of grades.

The Tigers and Eagles have three opponents in common: Navasota, Crockett, and Madisonville. The Eagles topped the Rattlers 22-6; the Rattlers bombed the Ti-

SWC Can't Rightfully Claim Strongest Teams

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Southwest Conference can not rightfully claim to have the strongest football in the nation, as its inter-sectional record and record in bowl games will certainly indicate otherwise. But it is attractive to the fans because there is no league quite so up-setting or uncertain—or better balanced.

The balance comes from recruiting almost entirely in one area—the Texas Interscholastic League. There are so many football players of equal ability that one school is pretty certain of having just as good as and as many prospects as the other.

This never was more aptly illustrated than during the current season. The schools now are meeting each other in the conference race and already there's just one team without a loss or tie to mar its record. Baylor is unsullied but it wouldn't hazard a prediction that it will be that way ere another week has passed.

Baylor still has A&M, Texas Christian, Texas, Southern Methodist and Rice to play in addition to Southern California in an inter-sectional game. It hardly seems possible for Baylor to survive that array.

Every year there is some team rated at the bottom that proves to be as good as the best. This season it may be Rice. Anyway, Bill Morrow of Houston is ready to predict it, with Rice still having six games to play. Writes Morrow:

"In the Houston Post you stated that Rice surprised itself by playing such a close game against Georgia Tech. For your information the Owls knew they have a good team before they ever played Tech and all you 'experts' are going to be the people who are surprised if you think Rice doesn't have a good team. A team with a little more luck than Rice has had for the past two years would have won that game easily."

It is indeed refreshing to have someone willing to get on the line before the big games. Usually they wait until Monday to tell you how the team was going to do last Saturday—if it won. Second-guessers are a dime a dozen, second-guessers being those people who tell you how a thing should have been done after you have done in wrong.

47 HS Grid Teams Still Undefeated

By The Associated Press

The most important schedule of the season has championship warfare in virtually every district and 47 undefeated, untied teams putting their records on the line in Texas schoolboy football this week.

Crucial games dot the card from the Panhandle to the coast and from Texarkana to El Paso. The business of deciding district champions takes top interest.

Lubbock it at Borger, Waco at Bryan and San Antonio Edison meets San Antonio Highlands in the big games of Class AAAA.

Not only will two of the three District 3 leaders be clashing but Borger will be one of eight undefeated, untied teams risking their status.

Waco, one of the state's top-rated teams although not unbeaten, furnishes the acid test to a Bryan outfit that has yet to meet defeat. The district 13 championship also might be decided in this game. Edison and Highlands are tied with San Antonio Jefferson for the District 15 lead.

Leaderships in nine districts of Class AA will be on the line. Crane battles Fort Stockton in District 4, Lancaster and Seagoville in District 11, Clarksville and Hooks in District 13, Kaufman and Terrell in District 15, Crockett and Madisonville in District 22, Santa Fe and West Columbia in District 25, Edna and Sweeney in District 26, Hallettsville and Yoakum in District 27 and Goliad and Kenedy in District 28.

The best example of second-guessing and the answer for it is in the story of Gilbert Bartosh and his talk with the barber. This happened a decade ago when Bartosh was playing quarterback for Texas Christian. It seems that the score was tied and Bartosh threw a pass trying to get a touchdown to unravel the deadlock. The pas was intercepted and Texas won the game. The following Monday Bartosh was getting a haircut. The barber remarked: "Gilbert, I don't think that was very smart, throwing that pass." Replied Bartosh gravely: "Yes, I guess it wasn't very smart but you know if I had had until Monday to think about it I probably wouldn't have thrown it."

Keeling Reaches
But, he couldn't quite reach high enough to break up this pass play to Buddy Iles last weekend. These kinds of catches were characteristic of the Horned Frogs Saturday afternoon as Sonny Gibbs literally filled the air with passes.

Good Rebounding Paces Cincinnati

By The Associated Press
CINCINNATI—Coach Charley Wolf sums up the "new look" Cincinnati Royals' record victory this way:

"Rebounding did it."

He referred specifically to the first half of Wednesday night's National Basketball Association season opener, when the Royals grabbed 47 rebounds to 25 for the Los Angeles Lakers, and raced to a 140-123 victory.

Three-time All-America Oscar Robertson lived up to expectations in his pro basketball debut, scoring 21 points.

There's Nothing Like a Dame On The Gridiron, Says CHS

By MARY ANNE FRANKLIN
CHS Correspondent

"Nothing like a dame" could well be the theme when the sophomore Tiger Lilies and the freshman Congo Cuties battle on Tiger Field in the third annual Powder Puff Bowl Saturday night at 7:30.

It will be a woman's world when Coach Art Bright puts his strong line-up for inspection against the underclassmen. Playing for the Tiger Lily varsity will be Eleanor Worley and Betsy Ramge at ends, Rosemary Thompson and Judy Morgan at tackles, Carolyn and Marilyn Parker at guards, and Carol Ann Kincannon at center.

Peggy Ames will be quarterback, Linda DeVaul and Emily Cahoun will be the halfbacks and the fullback will be Sherry Smith.

The Congo Cuties are still unsure of their positions and are expected to give the Tiger Lilies plenty of rough competition. Two years ago the sophomore class clawed their way through kicking the Fish 28-14. Last year the freshmen won 14-0. This year, however, it's predicted the Tiger Lilies will win over the Congo Cuties by 36-0.

Flirting with and wowing the audience will be the sophomore yell leads: "Jenny" McAfee, "Michelle" Calliham, "Cindy" Coufal, "Harriet" Cooney and "Phyllis" Shaunfield. However, "Belinda" White, "Beula" Wright, "Josephine" Pewthers, "Jo Ann" Krenitsky, and "Brinda" Riggs, the Cuties' Yell Bells, assure that they have perfected a lively strut also.

The coronation of the Powder Puff Queen will highlight the half time show. Candidates of ravishing beauty will be Bob House, Dan Bates, Kurt Schember, Sidney Coufal, Scot Manning, and Jack Fugate.

Halftime will also have a band and drill team and pep squad of strictly male caliber.
