Last Home Stand
... Will It Be Successful?

Speedy Visitors Favored To Win

By JOE CALLICOATTE

A&M will make their last home stand of the 1960 football season as they meet the Arkansas Razorbacks at 7:30. The Razorbacks are fresh from a three-point loss to Ole Miss last weekend as the Aggies fell to the Baylor Bears.

Hogs Start Late

Arkansas has gained a reputation around the Southwest Conference as a late inning team and lived up to the name two years ago when they came to College Station. They came down from the "hills" with a 0-6 record, but snapped the streak with a 21-8 decision. In last year's contest the Razorbacks barely edged the Cadets, 12-7.

A&M will see many of the tactics that were used on them last weekend because of Arkansas' speed and passing.

The Hogs have scored 15 touchdowns this year and nine of them have been on passes. Their ace passer is George McKinney, who has thrown six of the TD passes and leads in SWC in total offense.

Harris Tops

Another man that is expected to deal the Aggies plenty of misery is Wayne Harris, 185-pound center and linebacker.

Coach Jim Myers said that Tech's E. J. Holub was a good ball player, but he thought Harris was better.

Also Myers said that Arkansas had one of the best teams in the league and just had a bad day against Baylor.

Because of Arkansas' passing threat, the Cadets devoted a lot of time to pass defense and rushing the passer this week.

Two Injured

A&M still has two men on the ailing list. Babe Craig, who is leading the conference in punting, is doubtful and if he does play, will be used only for punting.

Jack Estes is definitely out for Saturday's game with a bruised kidney.

Jim Murphy has moved up into Craig's halfback slot and Eddie Van Dyke will be in Estes' second team halfback position.

The only other lineup change moved Joe Eilers into Wayne Freiling's tackle slot.

Myers said, "The team's spirit is getting better every week, and there's nothing wrong with them that a good victory wouldn't cure."

ALL CIVILIANS REPRESENTED

Freshman Council Member Completes Voting Strength

David W. Johnson, freshman agricultural education major from Webster, was introduced as the freshman representative to the Civilian Student Council Thursday night.

Johnson's election brings the Council membership up to its full voting strength.

The Civilian Dress Committee said it was prepared to submit a report on the state of civilian dress on the campus, along with recommendations for improvement, to A&M President Earl Rudder and the Student Senate.

Randy Sanders, a member of the committee, said a cross section of civilian students and several members of the faculty had been asked to tell the committee what they thought should be done about civilian dress on the campus.

Most of the people contacted said they would like to see the dress of civilian students improved, said Sanders. From ideas submitted by these people, several recommendations were drafted into the report.

The Council approved the report of the committee and voted to submit it to the Student Senate.

Better Appearance

In general, the report recommends that civilian students improve their appearance in general by attending class clean shaven and in decent looking clothes.

Serving on the committee were Sanders, Harry Goss, Bill Flynn, and Mike Carlo, chairman.

In other Council business:

The representative from Hensel Apartments was made a full voting member and the assistant civilian chaplain was designated a non-voting member with the passage of a constitutional amendment.

The Hensel representative is Edward V. Kemp. The assistant civilian chaplain has not been appointed yet.

Absentee Ballots

The Absentee Ballot Committee reported almost 800 of the free ballot application forms had been distributed so far. The forms will remain available in the post office area of the Memorial Student Center.

Publicity posters have also been posted on bulletin boards in all civilian and student dormitories.

The Council voted to integrate civilian and Corps pictures in the class section of the Aggieband '61.

Corps Trip Tickets Sell For Only $1

An article published in yesterday's edition of the Battalion reported student tickets for the SMU game in Dallas Nov. 5 would sell for $3.

This was in error, price for student tickets is $1 with the student activity card. Date tickets are $4.

The tickets are now on sale at the Athletic Office and will remain on sale through 5 p. m. Wednesday, Nov. 2.

Frosh Humble Kittens, 21-7

By LARRY SMITH

After getting off to a rather slow start, the Aggie Fish swept to their second straight victory in three games as they defeated the University of Houston Kittens, 21-7.

The first quarter was scoreless, but the Fish began to roll in the second period and held a 7-0 lead at halftime. In the third quarter the Fish scored again but the Kittens came right back to score and made it 14-7. As time was running out, the Fish climaxed the scoring for the night with the final touchdown and the 21-7 score.

In the first quarter the Fish and Kittens exchanged punts with neither team threatening seriously.

In the second period, the Fish drove to the Kitten one only to lose the ball on downs. Two plays later, Houston fumbled and Fish fullback Bobby Evans recovered on the Houston 14. Again in two plays, quarterback Eddie Hall kept around end for seven yards to score the Aggies' first touchdown.

George Hargett converted the first of his three PAT's.

The Fish threatened again in the same period as they moved to the UH 17-yard line before losing the ball on downs.

After intermission, the Fish scored the first time they got their hand on the ball. Hargett intercepted a Kitten pass and returned it five yards to the Aggie 47. Led by the shifty running of Jim Linnstaedter, the Fish scored their second TD in eight plays. Jerry Rogers climaxed the drive with a two-yard blast.

In the fourth quarter, the Fish drove to the Kitten three-yard line before losing the ball on a fumble.

Houston took over and went 97 yards for their only touchdown for the night. The big play was a 77-yard pass play from Jimmy Hull to John Brewer. Bill Mcmillan converted for the Kittens.

With one minute of playing time left, the Fish made their final score. Linnstaedter, who was the leading Fish ball carrier with 95 yards on 18 carries, slashed over from seven yards out.

Outstanding men on defense for the Fish were Jerry Pizzotola, who recovered two Kitten fumbles, Ray Kubala and Eddie Hall.

The next Fish game will be against the Rice Owlets Nov. 10 in Houston.

Cuban Public Fears Civil War

HAVANA—Visa applicants standing three abreast in two lines that stretched from the U. S. Embassy entrance for more than a block reflected Thursday growing Cuban fears that the tense political situation here may soon explode into a bloody civil war.

Rumor after rumor in Havana added to the anxiety of the thousands of Cubans seeking refuge abroad from what they fear will be bitter armed clashes between partisans and foes of Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

UT Professor Backs Red China

AUSTIN—The chairman of the University of Texas economics department Wednesday night joined a professor from the University of Vienna in urging recognition of Red China.

Dr. Benjamin Higgins and Dr. Fritz Fellner, visiting professor of history, recommended this change in United States foreign policy.

Higgins said recognition of Red China is inescapable in the future. Russia's membership in the United Nations helps restrain the Soviet Union's imperialistic tendencies, he said, and UN membership would affect Red China similarly.

Police Break Up Burglary Gang

INDIANAPOLIS—Police today announced breaking up what they described as an inside gang of workers at the Radio Corp. of America who stole more than $50,000 worth of records in the past year.

The thefts from the local plant caused RCA to lose several recording contracts as performers protested loss of royalties while their works were being sold at cut-rate prices on a black market basis throughout the country.
