International Live Stock Show Preparations Begin

Special To The Battalion
CHICAGO—The largest of the nation's agricultural shows, the International Live Stock Exposition, will celebrate its 61st anniversary here Nov. 25-Dec. 3.

It will be held in the 13-acre International Amphitheatre and a wide area of the nearby Chicago Stock Yards. The management anticipates animal listings for the show will reach the 10,000 mark by the time a final tally is made after the close of entries today.

Prominent live stock breeders and feeders from near and far, boys and girls from farm and ranch and leading horsemen will combine to send their best specimens to the competitions of the Chicago Exposition that annually determines the crowning championships of the year among 38 different breeds of farm animals that will be on featured display.

Big Cattle Show
All breeds of dairy cattle, as well as beef cattle, will be seen in competition at the Exposition this year, according to show officials, following its merger last year with the International Dairy Show. It is now the year's leading show of both purebred beef and dairy cattle.

New ideas for 1961 farm practices will be depicted in a much enlarged farm equipment show at this year's Exposition over any past year, the management reports.

It will reveal the newest in farm tractors, including the largest one ever built for farm use. It weighs 13 tons. The latest in automatic feeding equipment and new stock handling systems will also be features of the farm equipment show at the Chicago Livestock Exposition.

Championship rodeo competition will be an added feature of the International Horse Show this year. Six contest events will be staged at each of the 14 Horse Show-Rodeo performances, Nov. 25-Dec. 3; saddle bronc riding, steer wrestling, bareback bronc riding, calf roping, girls' barrel racing and exciting contests where cowboys will test their skill and stamina to stay aboard hard bucking, fast whirling and always dangerous Brahma bulls.

Exposition officials predict an attendance of more than 400,000 visitors. Past surveys reveal visitors to the Exposition come from all the states, Canada and many foreign countries.

Parent-To-Be Classes Begin Here Tonight

Classes for expectant parents in preparation for childbirth will begin Tuesday in the Memorial Student Center and continue for six consecutive Tuesday nights.

Lecture subjects will include the physiological and psychological mechanics of the labor and delivery experience, breast feeding of the infant and care of the mother and newborn in the hospital and at home.

Much of the class material will come from the philosophy of Dr. Grantly Dick Read, an English physician. Mrs. Bill Ballard, a registered nurse, will be the instructor.

$15,150 GOAL SET

United Chest Drive Begins

The two-week College Station United Chest drive toward a goal of $15,150 began this morning as volunteers scattered over the area and distributed pamphlets to begin tacking donations for the 14-member organization.

"One day's pay: the united way" has been designated as the slogan for the drive, to be conducted both by mail and personal solicitations. Dr. Dale F. Leipper, general chairman of the drive, has asked citizens to give at their respective places of work if at all possible.

Only a Guide
The chairman added, "One day's pay is only a guide to the question of how much one should give. Your contribution will be welcome in any amount. Let your conscience be your guide."

The organizations included in the United Chest are the College Station Local Chest Charity Fund, College Station Community House, Inc., College Station Recreation Council, Boy's Clubs of Bryan, Inc., Bryan Committee on Alcoholism, Inc., Brazos County Crippled Children's Therapy Center.

Also, Brazos County Hospital Fund, Brazos County Youth Counseling Service, Salvation Army, Bryan-College Station Girl Scouts Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, Texas Rehabilitation Center, American Red Cross and the Texas United Fund.

Campaign Leaders
The campaign is being conducted under three leaders, John C. Calhoun, A&M Campus; H. E. Burgess, Community and Commercial Groups, and I. H. Lloyd, Federal Employees.

Team captains designated by these three leaders are: A&M Campus, John E. Denison, R. H.

Davis, R. L. Hunt, Michael Krenitsky and Wayne Stark; Community and Commercial, Ran Boswell, Don Dale, Mrs. John Q. Hays, Tom E. Prater, John H. Pruitt, Mrs. Charles Richardson, W. T. Riedel and T. E. Whately, and Federal Employees, Homer A. Adams, Jack Bradshaw, O. B. Briggs, J. M. Hendricks and Leonard J. Watson.

Student Insurance Receipts Available In Fiscal Office

Receipts for the payment of Student Accident Insurance benefits may be acquired at the payroll section of the Fiscal Office in the Richard Coke Building, Auditor Walter F. Berndt announced yesterday.

The benefits were paid through the mail during the summer.

Miss Lyndal Ankenman ... Air Force Sweetheart

TU Brunette Named AF Sweetheart

Lyndal Ankenman, a petite brunette from Bellaire and the University of Texas, Friday night was named the sweetheart of the Air Force Ball.

The selection of Miss Ankenman, who was named over four other finalists, highlighted the dance, held in a downpour in Sbis Hall.

The Aggieband Orchestra provided music for dancing.

Absentee Balloting Blanks Available

For the past several weeks the Civilian Student Council has been running an absentee balloting booth in the Memorial Student Center.

Application blanks for an official absentee ballot are provided at the booth. The blanks have to be filled out, signed and notarized before being mailed to the county clerk of the voter's home county.

Notary Publics are available to students and their wives free of charge. They can be found in the Business Office, the Director's Office, and the Guest Room Manager's Office in the MSC.

The mailing of ballots from home county clerk's offices will cease Nov. 5.

One of the requirements for absentee balloting is that the application must be mailed from a point outside the county of residence.

First Corps Trip Slated Saturday

By TOMMY HOLBEIN

Perhaps the most outstanding weekend in the annuals of A&M Corps Trips is on tab starting Friday, with highlights including a dance at Texas Woman's University, a parade down the heart of Dallas, the Cadet-SMU grid clash, and a mammoth "blast" after the game in the Dallas Memorial Auditorium.

Rose Ann Anaratone, Aggie Sweetheart last year, has sent a special invitation for all Aggies to attend the annual Aggie-TWU festivities at TWU in Denton Friday night.

A "get acquainted" open house will be held in the TWU dormitories starting at 7 p. m., followed by a dance at 9.

Saturday morning, the Corps of Cadets will assemble at Market and Record Streets in Dallas for the parade, starting at 8:30. The units will begin forming at 8:45 and will move out at 9:45 a. m.

11 Blocks
The route of march will be along East Main to Pearl St., a distance of 11 blocks, which is somewhat shorter than previous Dallas parades have been.

That afternoon, the Cadet-SMU grid clash will begin at 2 p. m. in the Cotton Bowl. Student and date tickets will go off sale Wednesday afternoon at 5.

Student tickets will sell for $1 with a student activity card, and date tickets are set at $4.

Mammoth "Blast"
Saturday night, the largest and perhaps finest Aggie party in the history of the college will be held in the Dallas Memorial Auditorium starting at 9 p. m., as an aftermath to the football clash.

The party is sponsored by the Dallas A&M Club, and will continue from start to the convenience of those who attend the affair. Liquid refreshments will be served.

The "blast" will feature three top-name bands, including Ted Weems, Jimmy Palmer and the Dave Klein Trio, with dancing on both floors of the spacious auditorium.

Overall planning for the party calls for some 75,000 square feet of space for dancing — approximately 15 square feet per person.

Also, the various units on campus will be seated according to (See DALLAS on Page 3)

Dallas Senior Struck In Eye By Stray Shot

Herbert Mills, senior building products marketing major from Dallas, is recovering from a hunting accident occurring Friday, Oct. 21, when he was struck in the eye with a No. 8 pellet from a 12-gauge shotgun.

Mills and three friends were dove hunting near Wellborn, about seven miles from Bryan, when he was hit from a distance of approximately 65 yards, according to another member of the party. The accident occurred right before dark, and Mills was immediately brought to the college hospital.

Mills was transferred from the college hospital to St. Joseph's Hospital in Bryan that same night, and the pellet was removed the next morning. He was never reported to be in any pain, and never lost consciousness.

The injured Aggie stayed in St. Joseph's for one week, and returned home Saturday morning, Oct. 29.

Mills, his wife, and two boys, ages 6 and 4, live at 116 Poplar St. in College Station. He is scholastic officer of Company K, 2nd Brigade.

Cadets Praised After March-In

"The Corps of Cadets is the finest body of marching men I have seen in a long time," was the comment of Lt. Gen. James E. Briggs commanding general of the United States Air Force Training Command, after he took the salute at the football contest between A&M and the University of Arkansas Saturday night.

Gen. Briggs' comment can be considered a fine compliment to the Corps of Cadets, since formerly he was the superintendent of the United States Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, Colo.

Accompanying Gen. Briggs to the game was Brig. Gen. Norman Callish, commanding general of Mather Air Force Base in California.

The "magnificent" performance of the Aggie Band greatly impressed the general in both their playing and their precision marching before the game and during the half-time performance.

"I was surprised at the size of the corps," said Gen. Briggs, "I had no idea that it was as large as it is."

Gen. Briggs also commented on the fine show of Aggie spirit during the game. He especially lauded the Corps in the excellent precision in which their yells and songs were executed during the course of the game.

World Wrap-Up

Russia To Fight UN Drive
UNITED NATIONS, N. Y.—A drive to expand the U.N. Security Council and the Economic and Social Council was launched Monday. The Soviet Union quickly served notice it will fight the move unless Red China is seated.

The long-sought increase in the size of the 11-nation Security Council and the 18-nation Economic and Social Council is aimed at giving Asian and African countries better representation. Preliminary debates began in the U.N. Assembly special political committee.

Governor Gets Ferry Problem

AUSTIN—Gov. Price Daniel Monday studied a proposal by the Galveston Chamber of Commerce to have the state attempt to condemn the submerged land over which the Bolivar ferry is being run.

Daniel asked the State Highway Department to bring him up to date on the controversial ferry situation. The ferry is the only method of transportation available to link Bolivar Peninsula with the mainland.

Manhunt Spreads To Border

LAREDO—Convicted killer Curtis Lee Jones, wanted for kidnaping, rape, and charged with the slaying of an ex-convict, eluded police Monday as one of the greatest man-hunts in recent Texas history spread to the Mexican border.

He kidnaped two San Antonio residents early Monday and forced them to accompany him 150 miles south to this city on the Texas-Mexico border.

A HEX ON THE PONIES

That 'Jinx' Is On Again As Frosh Don Spurs For SMU

By BOB SLOANE

"I've got spurs that jingle, jangle, jingle; I've got spurs that jingle all day long!"

So come the strains of the old song, drifting over the campus mingled with the jingling and jangling of some 4,000 spurs as the freshmen get ready for the annual grid clash with the Southern Methodist Mustangs Nov. 5 in Dallas.

Yes, it's that time again. Freshmen are putting on their spurs and taking them off and then putting them on again. Professors are stopping in the middle of their lectures to let the man with the spurs go by.

And everybody is getting ready to march on Dallas for the first Corps Trip of the year.

Ready To Take 'em Off
The Fish, in particular, are anxious for the end of the week to arrive. Because then they can take off those daddurned spurs. Some have even said they'd like to throw them clear to SMU campus.

"Freshmen have been wearing spurs ever since I can remember," said P. L. (Pinky) Downs Jr., official college greeter. "It's one of the oldest traditions at A&M and it's been kept alive by each succeeding class."

Freshmen began wearing the spurs Monday and will continue wearing them all week long. The opinion most freshmen have toward the spurs is generally one of "good bull."

Worrisome Wire Monsters
There are those, however, who don't feel any great affection for the worrisome wire monsters. Consider the case of the hapless Fish who started to class wearing two spurs only to find one missing when he got there.

Spurs are as varied as the freshmen who wear them. Some are elaborate affairs, wrapped in tape and extending behind the wearer a good two feet.

Then some are very simple, cononly of a piece of coat hanger wire with a few hastily flattened Coke caps attached to the end.

One freshman was seen dragging two empty beer cans behind each foot.

Some spurs will stay on and some just won't. One Fish may get from his dorm clear to the Academic Building without having to stop to retrieve a lost spur while his buddy may be stooping down every third step to tie his on again.

On the other hand, some spurs just won't come off, and that freshman who made it to the Academic Building without a mishap may find he's become permanently attached to his.

This might also be the case when it finally comes time to take the spurs off for good. Then Fish Jones, who has been swearing all week that he's going to "throw those darn things so far, they'll go into orbit," will find them hanging on his bulletin board early Monday morning.

That time again, Army ... Charles Brandt, C-2 fish
